MacArthur Merges Two Defense Forces in Philippines

BRITISH TROOPS IN NEW RAID ON NORSE ISLANDS

Disrupt Nazi Lines to Arctic.

LONDON, Jan. 1 (AP).—A British flotilla and raiding force returned unscathed today from an attack and an almost unopposed occupation of the German occupied Lofoten islands off Norway's coast on the day after Christmas.

It was the second foray into these islands by the tough, black clad Commando corps, and this time, the admiralty disclosed, there were no casualties and the invading warships even were able to use one harbor as a fueling base.

Operations were conducted almost at leisure over several days, a German patrol vessel was sunk, and important sea communications to the Arctic were disorganized, the communique said.

Believed Raiders Were American.

Gordon Holman, a British correspondent who accompanied the raiders, said that some of the Norwegians of the Lofoten island village of Sorvargen thought the Commandos were Americans who had come to deliver them from captivity.

Holman, who represents the Exchange Telegraph agency, told how the Commandos slipped up on a lighthouse and other buildings, expecting a volley from the German garrison.

Nothing happened and, finally, the Commando captain, revolver in hand, kicked open a door and found himself face to face with eight Germans.

Eat French Food.

The Germans were plentifully supplied, Holman said, with French tinned vegetables and French wine. They also had enough German sausages to keep them going during a siege, he added.

Relating the conclusion of the raid, he said:

"The Germans, with trousers and sheepskin lined coats added to their attire, were taken under escort to a boat and thus they started their long journey from the Arctic to England.

"In the village, a different kind of a party was going on. British and Norwegian soldiers were distributing gifts of coffee, newspapers, cigarets, tobacco, and chocolates.

Radio Mast Felled.

"Then a big bang marked demolition of the radio mast.

"Away to the north another raiding party destroyed the telephone cable to the mainland. Prisoners, however, said they had managed to send thru a radio message reporting strange men of war before being captured.

"Our prisoners made up a strange collection ranging from 17 or 18 to over 40. One of them told me: 'Russia has made a mess of the war for Germany.' Their morale was poor but they all wear decorations—strange decorations such as a medalion depicting a mine. This was obtained for going to sea outside a mined area.

"Another had a special decoration for 'sinking' one of the destroyers which formed part of our escort on this occasion."

Seaplane Drops Bombs.

Holman said the British spent one night in a fjord at Reine, where the next day a German seaplane dropped bombs. The plane later was seen to crash.

About 100 Norwegian men and women left their homes to return to Britain with the raiders, he said.

He quoted Rear Adm. L. H. K. Hamilton, commander of the British flotilla, as saying: "We achieved our object in bringing shipping to a standstill."

Under Lieut. Col. S. S. Harrison, landings were reported made by Norwegian troops and Commandos at four different places on the islands. Several Norwegian traitors were among the prisoners rounded up and brought to England.

The first raid on the Lofotens was carried out last March by a naval landing force.

Then, last Saturday, another force swept down on German garrisons on Vaagso, 100 miles north of Bergen,

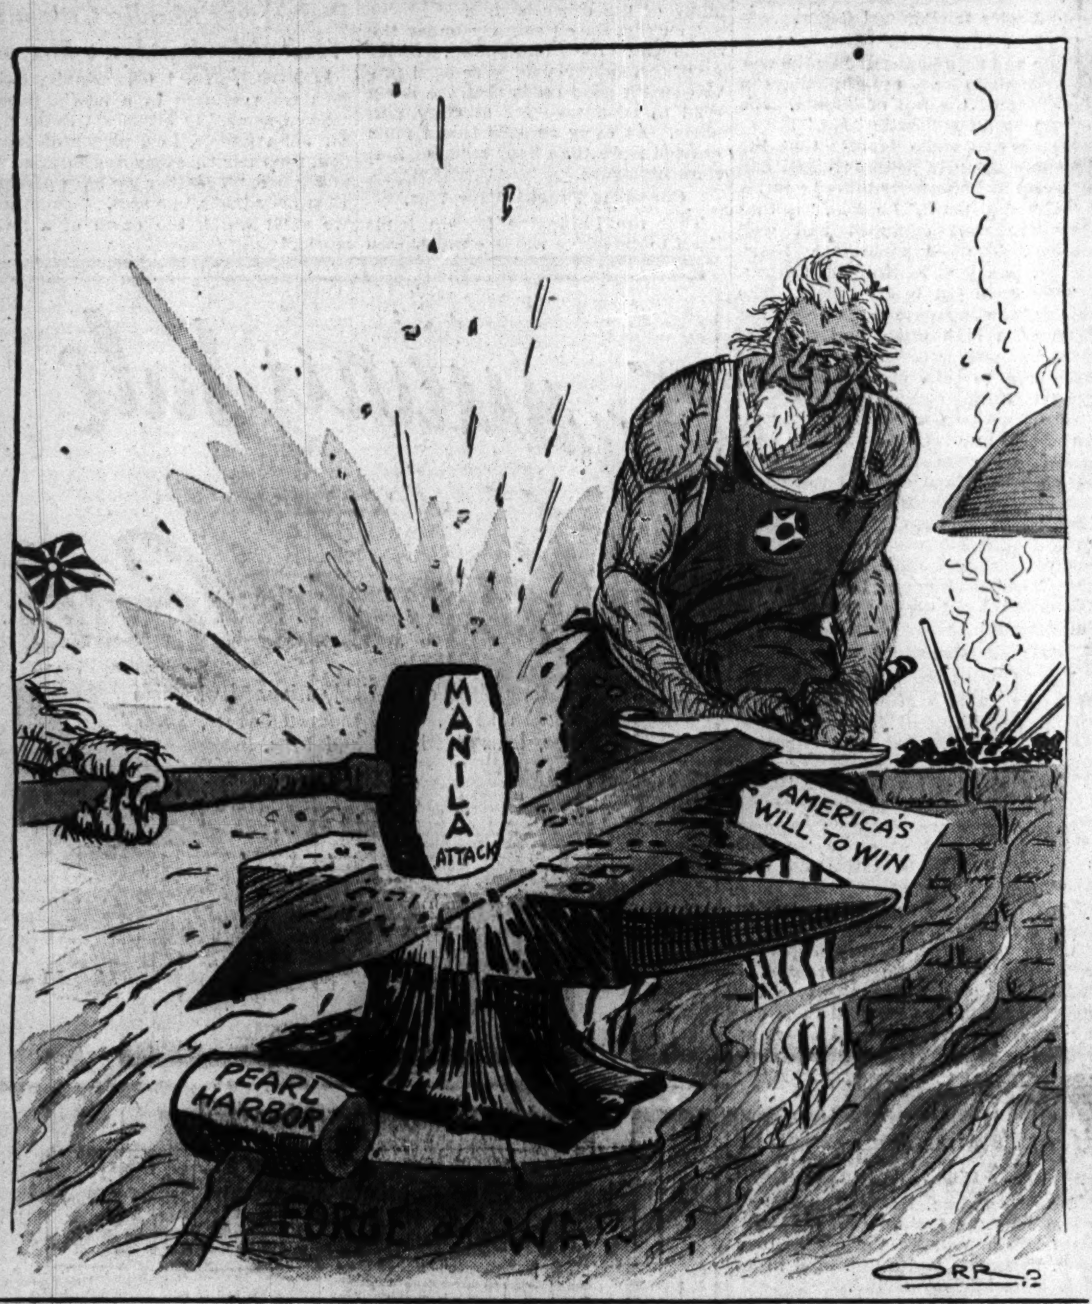
SLEDGE HAMMER BLOWS THAT TOUGHEN OUR METAL



Tribune Opens 'Friend of the Yanks' Bureau

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

"Friend of the Yanks", a new department of THE TRIBUNE which will seek to be of service to the men in the armed forces of the United States and to their families and friends, will make its debut in tomorrow's editions.

The column will attempt to answer all legitimate questions submitted to it by readers on problems confronting men now in the army, navy, and allied branches; on problems confronting men soon to be inducted into the fighting services under the draft law, and on the related problems facing the families these men leave behind.

Tribune Receives Many Queries.

For weeks THE TRIBUNE has been receiving queries from persons in these classes, and from civilians who, altho they themselves have no kinsmen in the armed services, nevertheless are vitally interested.

One reader desires to know "Can insurance companies cancel policies if a draftee is unable to keep up his premiums on his $21 a month salary?" Another asks "Do soldiers get special traveling rates on trains and buses?" A third asks "Can farmers claim deferment under the draft until their crops are in?"

These and all such questions concerning the armed forces are the type which "Friend of the Yanks" will find answers for. The army, navy, marine corps and coast guard staffs in Chicago and Washington, D. C., will be asked to aid in providing accurate answers.

How to Submit Queries.

Queries to "Friend of the Yanks" will be answered either in print in THE TRIBUNE or in letters to the persons submitting them. Readers are asked to submit their questions in either of the following ways:

1. In letters addressed to "Friend of the Yanks," THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill.

2. By appearing in person at The Tribune Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street, or at the public service office in Tribune Tower, 435 North Michigan avenue. Questions submitted at either of these offices will be turned over to "Friend of the Yanks" to be answered.

The column will appear daily in THE TRIBUNE as long as it can be of service to the fighting men and their loved ones.

STRONG WIND, SNOW AND MUCH COLDER WEATHER DUE TODAY

An inch to two inches of snow and wind reaching a possible velocity of 30 miles an hour are in prospect for Chicagoans today. Forecaster H. A. Downs said the temperature probably would drop as low as 10 above.

The Chicago Motor club reported that a number of main highways in Illinois and neighboring states are impassable, while both Iowa and Wisconsin had storms approaching the worst in their history.

In both states strong winds made snowplows useless in many areas, autos and even snowplows were trapped in drifts, and subzero temperatures were prevalent and expected to continue. All bus and some railroad runs out of Des Moines, Ia., were canceled and the Greyhound lines also canceled some runs out of Chicago. In one northern Illinois district the snow defeated 300 men and 100 plows.

The United States weather bureau relaxed wartime restrictions on the broadcasting of weather reports last night and asked Chicago radio stations to warn listeners of the storm.

EVANSTON YOUTH, REFUSED A 'DATE,' SHOOTS HIMSELF

Ray Craig, an Evanston Township High school junior and member of the military training corps, is in St. Francis hospital, Evanston, seriously wounded because a girl classmate with whom he had been keeping company for two years refused his invitation on New Year's eve to a tea-dance yesterday.

According to stories told to Evanston police, Craig, 17 years old, and the son of Wallace D. Craig, 2300 Colfax street, an oil salesman, was a guest New Year's eve in the home of Robert E. Whitelaw, 654 Judson avenue, where a party was given for 22 high school students.

Suzanne Potts, 16, a junior in the Roycemore School for Girls and the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Potts, 1241 Hinman avenue, the girl with whom Craig had been keeping company, was among the guests.

Others who attended the party told police Craig and Miss Potts quarreled after she refused his invitation to the dance and he left the Whitelaw house to sit in his parked car.

There he was found wounded. Beside him was a target rifle which Craig used in his military training course in high school.

Drys Mobilize on 1917 Lines to Ban Liquor

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Attempting to make history repeat itself, the dry forces are mobilizing for a drive to bring prohibition back to America as a wartime measure, it was learned today. Several prohibition measures have already been introduced in congress and determined efforts are to be made to obtain their passage early in the next session.

Edward P. Gaston.

It was during the last world war that congress passed a wartime prohibition act designed to conserve grain and fruit for food. This was followed by adoption of the 18th amendment and passage of the Volstead act for prohibition enforcement, which was repealed in 1933.

Lobby Has House Offices.

The current prohibition lobby, strangely, occupies spacious quarters in one of the two house of representatives office buildings on Capitol hill. It is a suite ordinarily occupied by Marshall W. Pickering, caucus room minority messenger, but recently turned over to Edward Page Gaston, American director of the World Prohibition federation.

Gaston is a brother of the late Lucy Page Gaston, renowned as an anticigaret crusader. He said he was granted the use of the office in a public building, maintained by the taxpayers, thru the "courtesy" of Rep. Ulysses Samuel Guyer [R., Kas.], author of a pending prohibition bill for the District of Columbia.

Outlet for Dry Groups.

Thru interlocking consultative committees, the World Prohibition federation serves as the main outlet for such powerful dry groups as the Anti-Saloon league, the Women's Christian Temperance union, the Methodist Board of Temperance, the International Reform federation, and the National Prohibition party.

Chief among the prohibition bills pending before congress is a measure prohibiting the sale of liquor to soldiers, sailors and marines and a second measure providing for stringent wartime prohibition as a food conservation measure.

ALL DELIVERIES BARRED PENDING RATION SYSTEM

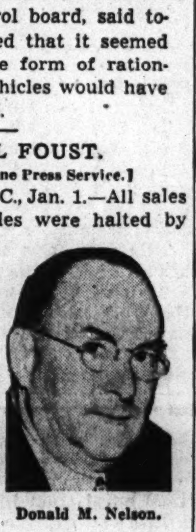
Canada Cuts Output

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 1 (AP).—Production of automobiles and light trucks in Canada is being drastically curtailed with a view to virtual discontinuance of manufacture on March 31, R. C. Berkinshaw, chairman of the wartime industries control board, said tonight. He added that it seemed likely that some form of rationing of motor vehicles would have to be instituted.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—All sales of new automobiles were halted by an order issued tonight by the Office of Production Management. The supplies, priorities, and allocations board at the same time announced its approval of a plan to halt production of these vehicles "within a few weeks."



Donald M. Nelson.

The stop order also applied to deliveries of cars on contracts that have been signed by customers. It also banned further purchases and any leasing of new automobiles. Contracts on cars awaiting delivery will be void, according to an OPM spokesman.

Rationing Is Planned.

The halt is effective until Jan. 15 but it is to be supplanted by a rationing scheme that is likely to be as restrictive as the drastic tire quota program which denies new rubber to the typical family car, the taxicab, and to the machines driven by traveling salesmen and residents of rural areas lacking any common carrier form of transportation.

Donald M. Nelson, executive director of SPAB, said that the car rationing will probably limit new car purchasers to governmental agencies, lend-lease authorities, and to civilian users considered "most essential." Most essential, as interpreted in the light of the tire order, will probably mean doctors, nurses, firemen, policemen, public health officers, and will apply to industries and agriculture.

Dealers' Cars Under Ban.

Representatives of the automobile industry and of OPM are to confer here about the car quotas.

The OPM order applies to all new cars in dealers' hands, approximately 450,000 vehicles. The order defines a

STALIN COMING HERE? MAYBE, BUT CAPITAL HAS NO NEWS ON IT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—The state department and the White House said they were without information tonight on reports from abroad that Josef Stalin, Russian dictator, has accepted an invitation from President Roosevelt to visit Washington and take an active part in mapping the strategy necessary to overthrow Hitlerism all over the world.

Rumors that the soviet premier might come here to join Mr. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill at the allied grand conferences reached the capital via broadcasts from an enemy controled radio station in Budapest which quoted "Swedish reports."

The soviet embassy also denied having any knowledge of a plan for Stalin to visit Washington. However, there have been persistent reports in the last few days that the Red dictator was expected at the White House conference table before the meetings are concluded.

Informed quarters have asserted that they could see no reason for Churchill's return to Washington except to see Stalin.

HOW WAR FRONTS THRUOUT WORLD BEGAN NEW YEAR

American-Filipino defenders of the northern and southern approaches to Manila were consolidated last night into a single force which was cutting down the Japanese invaders in heavy numbers.

The juncture of the two forces was effected east of Manila, despite Japanese attacks designed to break up troop movements. There is now a defense arc perhaps 200 miles long enclosing Manila and anchored on the China sea to the northwest and at a point south of the capital.

Port Defenses Strongly Held.

The war department said that "in addition to land positions, the harbor defenses and island fortifications (of Manila bay) are strongly held by our troops."

The Japanese claimed they had gained control of a railway running northward to Manila and were threatening the big naval base at Cavite, on Manila bay.

Tokio asserted that Kuantan, 190 miles north of Singapore on the east side of the Malay peninsula, had fallen, but the British declared fighting continued at the town.

Fire Shells on Hawaii.

Minor Japanese naval action against three islands of the Hawaiian group was reported by the United States navy department. Submarines fired a few shells at each point, but there were no casualties.

Adolf Hitler was reported to have flown to a point behind the German lines on the Moscow front to take personal command in an attempt to reorganize the Nazi forces which were defeated at Kaluga.

British Attack at Bardia.

In Africa, British imperial forces assaulted the German-Italian forces isolated in the Bardia-Halfaya area of eastern Libya and reported several fortified positions fell.

For the second time in three days British planes bombed war industries and bases prepared by the axis in Greece and Crete.

The British announced that picked troops had raided and briefly held the Lofoten islands off Norway on Dec. 26. German communications there were disrupted, a German patrol vessel sunk and a plane downed.

JAP LOSS HEAVY AS AMERICANS RETAIN MANILA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 (AP).—Manila apparently still stood tonight—and in the outlying jungle battlefields all defending forces had been consolidated by a bold military maneuver into a single, united army.

What had been two American-Filipino forces, one battling the invader to the north, the other resisting a second Japanese thrust in the southeast, were merged into one fighting force with the resulting advantages of shortened lines and coördinated command.

The defenders held strong positions, too, the war department said, and were inflicting heavy losses upon the invaders. In addition the Manila harbor defenses were described as "strongly held by our troops."

Still Expect Loss of Manila.

But while these tidings, briefly summarized in an army communique, cheered the capital, they did nothing to diminish the general expectation that Manila probably must soon be surrendered to the Japanese.

Military observers were inclined to believe the defenders may have been forced to give ground in the north, but in the meantime had fought off Japanese attempts by bombers, and possibly tanks, cavalry and infantry patrols, to drive a wedge between the formerly separated northern and southern fighting fronts.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's newly unified force was believed to be fighting along an irregular, broken line extending in an arc 200 or more miles long, from somewhere immediately south of Manila northward 50 to 75 miles thru Bulacan province and thence westward to the South China sea. This would include the principal rear lines and highways around Manila.

Capital Still Cut Off.

Manila itself was cut off from the rest of the world, except thru army and navy communication channels, and the only word of the battle of Luzon came in two short war department communiques.

The first of these, issued about 8:30 a. m. [Chicago time], but dealing with events which may have happened much earlier, said:

"Severe fighting continues north of Manila, where American and Philippine forces have been consolidated and are continuing to resist the Japanese advance. A major battle is now in progress."

Merge Despite Heavy Attacks.

The second, covering all reports received to 4:30 p. m. [Chicago time]:

"Despite heavy enemy attacks attempting to break up our troop movements, the maneuver designed to regroup the two forces of American and Philippine troops opposing the Japanese in the north and southeast has been successfully accomplished. All available defending forces have now been united."

Gen. MacArthur, reporting to the war department here, expressed the hope that Americans and Filipinos in Japanese occupied territory would be treated with scrupulous regard to international law.

Japs Menace Cavite: Tokio.

TOKIO, Jan. 2 [Friday], [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—The Japanese claimed today that they had gained complete control of the railway from Batangas northward to Manila and were threatening the big United States naval base at Cavite, on Manila bay.

This report, carried by the newspaper Yomuiri and broadcast by the Domei agency, followed assertions that Japanese forces were so close to Manila that artillery fire from the front could be heard in the Philippine capital.

REPORT HITLER TAKES COMMAND IN MOSCOW ZONE

Fuehrer Flies to Sector of Big Nazi Defeat.

LONDON, Jan. 1 (AP).—Adolf Hitler was reported tonight to have flown northward from Kiev to a point behind the Nazis' Moscow front to take personal command of German armies broken and beaten at Kaluga by Russia's great counteroffensive, which was continuing with unstemmed force on all fronts.

Hitler, who 11 days ago fired his commander in chief, Field Marshal Von Brauchitsch, and personally took over control of the army, presumably will attempt to direct a successful digging in of the Nazi armies—something they have failed to do in more than a month of retreat before the big Red onslaught.

As this report from well informed circles in Stockholm reached London, the Russian command announced a long advance in the area 125 miles northwest of Moscow and the recapture of several towns, including the important upper Volga river town of Staritsa. This drive is now aimed toward Rzhev.

Red Army Nears Mozhaisk.

Dispatches from Russia also said advance Red army units were within a few miles of Mozhaisk, key town 57 miles west of Moscow on the broad Moscow-Smolensk highway.

Hitler, according to the Stockholm report, rushed to the Moscow front following the big Russian victory at Kaluga over the tank army of Nazi Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian and the rout of six army corps of perhaps 250,000 men.

The Nazi Fuehrer was at his headquarters in the Kiev area, it was said, when he heard of the defeat, which was regarded by the German general staff as very serious.

Hitler was pictured as hoping that his personal appearance before his troops would stiffen their morale and resistance. His new headquarters were understood to be near Smolensk, 230 miles west of Moscow, and 150 miles from the nearest fighting.

Important Town Lies Ahead.

In smashing toward Rzhev the Russians are approaching a town of 30,000 or 40,000 population which straddles the Volga at a point where it is 350 feet wide and navigable for steamers. It is a junction point of four branch railway lines.

The Russian advance continued all along the front and some of the day's most important gains apparently were made in the vital industrial Donetz basin in the south. In this region from Dec. 7 to 25 the Russians reported capturing much booty, including 71 armored vehicles, 471 guns and 4,000 trucks.

British observers were convinced that these manifestations, added to the grand offensive on the Moscow front and the daring assault in the Crimea, meant the Russians have plenty of trained troops ready to fight thru the winter.

Air Attacks in Crimea.

BERLIN, Jan. 1 [Official broadcast recorded by Associated Press].—The high command today declared that Russian forces which landed on Tuesday at Theodosia on the Crimean peninsula "and their supply routes across the Black sea have been attacked by strong formations of the German air force and suffered considerable losses in men and material."

At Lake Ilmen [southeast of Leningrad], it was claimed "a large number of soviet planes" were destroyed on the ground by air attacks.

Finns Occupy An Island.

SUCCESS OF JAPS AT MANILA LAID TO UNITY IN AIR

Lack of Concealment Training Adds To Toll

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—The effectiveness of Japanese bombers over Manila is attributed by capital military experts to coördination of bombers operating from plane carriers, land bases and possibly beaches on the island of Luzon where the enemy made successful landings.

At the same time, experts attributed much of the toll of the bombers in men and equipment to the lack of training of the defending forces in proper utilization of road concealment.

It was recalled that during army maneuvers last summer and fall, troops repeatedly failed to understand and take advantage of road concealment. This failure was remarked by correspondents covering the maneuvers and brought to the attention of the army high command.

Lesson Written in Blood.

Because the Philippine army was in process of building when the Jap attack came, experts here were certain that the army was not trained in road concealment and the lesson of peace time maneuvers was written in blood on the island of Luzon.

However, it was said that the toll was not near as heavy as it would have been in this country, because the islands do not possess the broad highways of this country and the jungle growth which arches many roads offered concealment unknown here.

The bases of Jap bombers are still of high concern to the army and navy although reports indicate that the Japs are using land as well as sea bases. The use of plane carriers is believed to have enabled the Japs to strike simultaneously from various directions.

Land Planes Believed Used.

The Japs have a naval and air base at Taiwan [Formosa] which is but 200 miles north of Luzon. They also have bases on the coast of China some 400 miles away and have taken over bases in French Indo-China 1,000 miles from the islands.

In attacking, the Japs are believed to have sent land planes from Taiwan and the China coast and to have moved carriers from French Indo-China and Japanese island bases to within striking distance of Manila.

Experts believed that in the later stages of the attack the Japs may have based dive bombers on beaches where landings were effected and where they could protect such bases by having mastery of the air.

JAP-RUSSIAN FISHING PACT ENDS; QUESTION OF RENEWAL DELAYED

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, Jan. 1 (AP).—The Japanese-Russian fisheries agreement which requires annual renewal, came to its end last midnight without any public announcement as to whether it has been extended.

The 1941 renewal, however, was not signed until the middle of January. There is no actual need for the new pact until late February or March, when the fishing grounds off Siberia's coasts are auctioned at Vladivostok.

This year, however, keen interest has attached to the pact's renewal, because observers consider it a test of the World war position of these two powers, at peace with one another altho each is at war with the other's allies.

STIMSON WARNS: JAPANESE FOE IS NO PUSHOVER!

Lauds Philippine Defense by MacArthur.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson cautioned the nation today against looking at the war with Japan "thru rose colored glasses."

At the same time he revealed that the American flag still flew over Manila, expressed himself as supremely confident of ultimate American victory and paid high tribute to the handling of the Philippine campaign by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander of the far east forces of the United States.

Denies Withdrawal Order.

Stimson was asked whether MacArthur had been instructed by the war department to leave the Philippines in the event of the fall of Manila. His reply was an emphatic "No."

He scouted radio reports that the Japanese army is poorly trained and made up of improperly armed youths.

"The cold truth," he said, "is that they are well equipped and well trained. The Japanese are short, stocky, and well disciplined fighters.

"We have got to face facts. The work of the Japanese staff officers has been of a high order and much of the Japanese success in China has been due to this, plus training and good technical equipment."

The secretary refused to comment on criticism of the Philippine campaign in Pravda, the official Russian newspaper, which assailed the declaration of Manila as an open city—a declaration the Japs ignored. Stimson said he did not wish to get into a controversy and reminded reporters that "our people out there [in the Philippines] are under our most skillful fighter."

Hails "Masterful" Defense.

For 20 years the army has known that the defense of the Philippines would be an uphill fight, but MacArthur has handled the situation "masterfully," he added.

Asked if Japanese cities would be bombed in reprisal for attacks on Manila after it was declared an open city, he replied that other "urgent things" have to be taken up first and that MacArthur's recommendations for reprisals as soon as possible have not been fully studied.

On being questioned about Japanese casualties, he said he had reason to believe they were high because the fighting had been very well sustained by American and Filipino troops and any one carrying an offensive against such troops was bound to suffer heavy casualties.

Hear Japs Report Death of Two Army Leaders

New York, Jan. 1 (AP).—The British radio reported tonight that the Japanese had announced the deaths of a Gen. Yamagata and a Col. Ishii in an attack on Midway Island.

[Both the names Yamagata and Ishii are fairly common in Japan, but current Japanese directories offer no clews to the identity of the military men mentioned.]

Find U. S. Forces Could Fight On in Philippines if Manila Falls

The large scale colored map on the back page of this issue shows the northern islands of the Philippine archipelago. The principal island is Luzon, where American and Filipino troops are battling against the Japanese invaders.

The capture of Manila by the enemy would not necessarily end resistance to the Japanese in the Philippines. Perhaps no terrain in the world offers better opportunities for guerrilla warfare than that of the Philippines. Rugged, densely covered with vegetation, and often mountainous, these islands provide abundant cover for military forces that refuse to surrender. Moreover, the Filipinos operating with the Americans know their way about in the jungles and mountain fastnesses.

Islands Also Have Volcanoes.

The mountains of the Philippines mainly run in the general direction of the main axes of the islands. Several ranges occur in northern Luzon, while most of southern Luzon is covered with isolated volcanoes and irregular masses of hills and mountains. Mountains also are found on many of the other islands.

An undeveloped country under the Spaniards, the Philippines, under American supervision, have been provided with good roads that are being used to advantage for military purposes. As early as 1926 this system boasted more than 3,600 miles of first class highways.

Guerrillas Fought After War.

That the Philippine terrain lends itself to defensive warfare was shown in the Filipino insurrection of 40 years ago. Two years passed before the American troops put down the guerrilla resistance of the Filipinos.

According to John T. McCutcheon, TRIBUNE cartoonist, the Americans in that conflict were successful only after heavy reënforcements were sent to the 50,000 United States troops already on the islands. Mr. McCutcheon was a correspondent in the Philippines during the fighting. He was one of the group of correspondents who finally, despite censorship, got word to America that reënforcements were badly needed.

With a coastline of more than 11,000 miles, 21 fine harbors, and 8 landlocked straits, the Philippines offered to the Japanese invaders numerous places to effect landings. Should the Japanese gain control of the islands temporarily, these same physical features would help the United States to reconquer the islands. The American forces might come from Hawaii, from the north via Alaska and the Aleutian islands, or along the southern route by the way of Australia, New Guinea, and the Celebes sea.

Bravery of Manila Citizens Hailed by London's Mayor

LONDON, Jan. 1 (AP).—Manila citizens were saluted in a special message of sympathy broadcast today by Sir John Laurie, lord mayor of London, for their "bravery and fortitude" under fire. "Together we have passed thru fiery trials," he said. "Together we shall watch the dawn of a new world."

ITALIAN PAPERS HAIL AMERICANS FOR LUZON FIGHT

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 1 (AP).—Italian newspapers paid tribute tonight to the courage of the American-Philippine defense of Luzon.

Milan's Corriere Della Sera said the "desperate guerrilla warfare" of the Filipinos had staved off the occupation of Manila and added: "It now remains for the Japanese to occupy the military base of Cavite and all the archipelago. It will be a long job."

Turin's La Stampa said the United States resistance in the Philippines was interesting from the point of view of military honor. It said "the Japanese fleet is mistress of the Pacific," but added the United States and Britain likely will now intensify air and submarine warfare against Japanese lines of communication.

JAPANESE RENEW ATTACKS ON EAST MALAYAN SECTOR

Foe's Progress Is Slight, British Claim.

SINGAPORE, Jan. 1 (AP).—The British imperial line strongly engaged the Japanese invader today about Kuantan on the eastern Malayan peninsula 190 miles north of this base, but action on the western front about Perak, 290 miles northwest of Singapore, was confined principally to skirmishes and artillery fire. Nowhere was there evidence of material enemy progress.

Singapore's people, many of them removed by half a world from home, had their New Year's celebrations in blacked out homes and hotels, despite two early morning air raids and a third tonight by several formations of bombers. Japanese hit-and-run raiders also blasted the suburban area of Singapore Island tonight. Preliminary reports said the damage from the orning raids was light, mainly to civilian property. Military personnel and military objectives again were unhurt.

A total of 17 civilian casualties were reported from previous enemy air attacks.

British Troops Withdrawn.

The day brought authoritative word that the fall of Kuching in Sarawak, the British protected area of Borneo, had not been a complete loss. The majority of the British troops were safely withdrawn, it was added, and were in touch with Dutch East Indies forces in west Borneo.

Press observers returning from a tour of the Malayan front reported that the Japanese had been intensifying their air action and bringing up heavier artillery in their efforts to beat southward between Malaya's mountain range backbone and the west coast.

The ministry of information announced that since the outbreak of war British fighters and anti-aircraft guns of the far eastern command had destroyed 32 Japanese planes, probably destroyed eight more, and damaged 16. These totals did not include Japanese planes smashed over Burma.

Claim Capture of Kuantan.

TOKIO, Jan. 1 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—The Japanese claimed tonight that their forces had pushed half the length of Malaya toward Singapore.

Topping the Japanese claims of land gains, an official announcement asserted that "Japanese forces advancing along the east coast of Malaya captured the strategic city and port of Kuantan, 190 miles north of Singapore, at 10:20 a. m. yesterday [Wednesday]."

Japanese forces also were attacking down the west coast of the peninsula past the tin center of Ipoh toward Klang and nearby Port Swettenham, where Japanese bombers already were in action.

Imperial headquarters reported further victories at sea, where it said army bombers sank a submarine and two steamers of 3,000 tons each and damaged a destroyer—all in the Strait of Malacca off the west coast of Malaya since Dec. 28.

CHINESE REPORT BATTLE RAGES NEAR CHANGSHA

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 2 [Friday] (AP).—Chinese and Japanese forces in great strength are fighting a tremendous battle of annihilation for Changsha, the capital of Hunan province and scene of two of Japan's worst defeats in the entire Chinese war, in October, 1939, and September, 1941.

Chinese news dispatches today said casualties were enormous on both sides, and that a steady stream of Japanese reënforcements had brought the Japanese strength up to fully 100,000 men, but some foreign observers said this figure was probably too large.

[The Berlin radio reported the Japanese had occupied Changsha after a 7 day advance, but the Chinese did not admit it. The Japanese claimed Changsha on both previous occasions but both times had to fall back on Yochow, 100 miles to the north.]

Changsha, in a rich rice growing district, is 400 miles by air northwest of Hongkong, and about an equal distance east of Chungking.

SCHOOLS GET INSTRUCTIONS ON AIR RAIDS

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, said yesterday that regulations for the operation of air raid alarm drills in Chicago's schools will be in the hands of all principals and engineers when schools reopen Monday.

The air raid regulations provide for action similar to present fire drills except that in an air raid alarm, children will be directed to go immediately to their homes. McCahey said the purpose is to keep children apart, pointing out the damage one bomb could do if it struck a crowded school shelter.

THE QUESTION.
How will the stopping of the sale of new auto tires affect you?

WHERE ASKED.

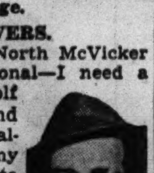
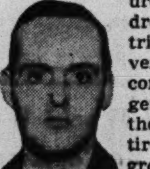
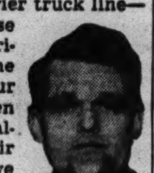
THE ANSWERS.



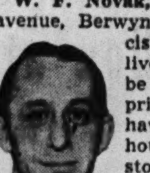
John Gibson, 4004 North McVicker avenue, golf professional—I need a car to drive to the golf club where I work and I come downtown almost every day in my car, but I'll have to make other arrangements when these tires are gone. Confidentially, I'm more concerned about the shortage of golf balls.



P. D. Armour Jr., Lake Forest, accountant—I only use my car for pleasure, but last summer I drove 10,000 miles. I tried to get tires in November when I saw this coming, but could not get my order filled even then. I'm having the tires I own now regrooved, so they will last longer.

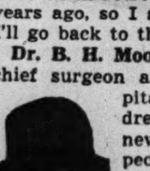


C. H. Morse Jr., Lake Forest, president of a common carrier truck line—Since we carry defense materials, we have priorities. However, the rationing will affect our safety and service men on the road. We're already revamping their schedules to conserve tires. I'll use the train for work whenever possible.



W. F. Novak, 1936 South Clinton avenue, Berwyn, registered pharmacist—I use my car to deliver drugs, so we may be able to obtain some priority rating. We must have a car available 24 hours a day at both stores, but we haven't faced the problem yet, for the tires we have are in good condition.

Mrs. Muryel Baron, 4659 Drexel boulevard, owner of a ready to wear shop—I need the car to drive customers downtown and to obtain merchandise. But I've been reading all the suggestions on how to save your tires and I used to have them retreaded 12 years ago, so I suppose I'll go back to that.



Dr. B. H. Moore, 226 Pine avenue, chief surgeon at the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children—I just bought a new car, so I don't expect the rationing to affect me seriously. Also, as a physician, I'll have priority rating. However, I intend to cut down on my driving, take it easy when I am on the road.

JAPS' LEAFLETS URGE AUSTRALIAN ARMY TO GIVE UP

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 1.—A royal Australian air force officer today arrived with a crude leaflet dropped by the Japanese in Malaya urging Australians to cease fighting.

"We inform you, Australian soldier," it said, "as the main English and American Pacific fleets are nearly destroyed by the Japanese navy it is too clear you will have to incur the miserable, dreadful state shown in the battles of Crete and Dunkirk if you dare continue fighting against Japan.

"Home soldiers of England in Malaya are ready to retreat and by order of London a great many transports are assembled together. We are sorry to say they now are under our fierce air raid. English not only name the Australian a sheep farmer but treat you as the countryman and make you stand in the first line on the battlefield while behaving as rearguards watching you fight and die."

THREE HAWAHAN ISLANDS SHELLED BY ENEMY SUBS

Admiral Warns Japs May Attack U. S. Cities.

Adm. C. W. Nimitz.

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Jan. 1 (AP).—Army headquarters said today that enemy warcraft, believed to be submarines, shelled three islands of the Hawaiian group the night of Dec. 30, but caused no casualties and only slight damage.

The announcement added that prompt counteraction was taken against the raiders.

The shellings occurred at Hilo, second largest city of the Hawaiian group on the Island of Hawaii; Nawiliwili Harbor, near Lihue, on the Island of Kauai, and the harbor of Kahului, Maui Island.

Set Cane Field Afire.

The announcement said that in the Kauai raid a number of shells were fired, but caused no damage beyond setting fire to a sugar cane field. The shelling of Hilo was brief and only slight damage to a small shed was reported.

[A communique issued in Washington, D. C., at 8:30 a. m. Chicago time yesterday added little to the story. It said five shells were fired at Kahului harbor, previously attacked by the Japanese on Dec. 16, and asserted that the bombardments at the Islands of Hawaii and Kauai had been limited to a few shots each.]

Admiral Warns U. S. Cities.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, new commander of the United States Pacific fleet, warned that Japanese submarines operating off the west coast of the United States might attempt to shell coastal cities.

"It is relatively safe and simple for a submarine to rise to the surface near a port and throw a few shells into a city," he told reporters. "It is not beyond the bounds of possibility that Japanese submarines may attempt to lay their shells into cities before they leave." The ocean, he added, is "too big to prevent it entirely."

LEARN NEBRASKA FLYER DOWNS 4 JAPS AT RANGOON

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 1 (AP).—A New Year's cable from Robert Smith, 23 years old, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smith, disclosed that the Nebraska born youth was the American pilot reported in dispatches last Sunday as having shot down four Japanese planes in a Christmas day battle at Rangoon.

"Just arrived from Kunming. Came thru both battles of Rangoon safely. Knocked down four ships personally. Happy New Year," his cablegram read.

Smith joined the American army air corps in September, 1939. Last summer he resigned his commission to join a group of American flyers with the Chinese army. Born in York county, Nebraska, he attended the University of Nebraska before coming here.

Total Axis Plane Loss Set at 14,000 by British

LONDON, Jan. 1 (AP).—Cumulative figures from British official reports show that the axis lost 8,935 planes in the middle east and western Europe and the British, 3,961 from the beginning of the war to the end of 1941. The losses in the same areas during 1941 were 4,093 for the axis and 2,189 for the British. Taking into account Russian claims that more than 5,000 German planes have been destroyed in the east, the axis has lost nearly 14,000 planes in action since the start of the war.

NAVY CRITICISM IN LONDON PAPER CLOSED INCIDENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—The state and war departments tonight said that they regard as a closed incident criticism of the American navy at Pearl Harbor, attributed to an attaché of the American embassy in London by a British news commentator.

The departments expressed themselves as satisfied with the explanation of Lieut. Col. Arthur J. McCrystal, assistant military attaché, who was named as the author of the quip, but who insisted that he had merely repeated it with indignation as an example of how some persons treat grave matters facetiously.

The remark: "We are thinking of dressing our blue jackets in kilts so that the next time they cannot be caught with their trousers down," was attributed in the London Sunday People to an attaché of the American embassy.

Later Hannen Swaffer, commentator for the publication, said the remark was made by Col. McCrystal.

48 SAILORS OF U. S. FREIGHTER SAVED BY DUTCH FLYERS

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 1 (AP).—Forty-eight members of the crew of an American freighter attacked and set aflame by Japanese planes in East Indies waters have been rescued by a Dutch naval flying boat, the Netherlands East Indies command announced today, and only a single crewman remains missing.

The location of the assault was not given except that it was in the northern part of the archipelago.

The only other Japanese action reported in today's Dutch communique was an ineffective air raid at one point in the outer provinces.

The United States and Britain are preparing something "very unpleasant for the Japanese," Lieut. Gen. Heinter Poorten, commander of the Indies army, told his troops in a New Year's day broadcast. While warning his men to be on guard against a Japanese invasion at any moment, he said: "I am sorry I cannot tell you about the plans which are being worked out and about the conversations which regularly take place, but we and our allies are working hard—very hard."

'3 MUSKETEERS' KILL 14 JAPS IN MALAYAN RAID

SINGAPORE, Jan. 1 (AP).—Observers from the front lines told today how three oddly assorted "musketeers"—a British officer, his Indian batman, and a sergeant major—stormed a Malayan railway station held by the Japanese, killing 14 of the enemy, cracking the skulls of others, and taking one prisoner.

The three were armed with a submachine gun and two rifles. When they ran out of bullets and the machine gun became too hot to fire the trio charged straight into the station, swinging their gun butts.

They thus battered the Japanese into a rout, caught one who threw down his gun, and escaped just as a large force of Japanese rushed up and surrounded the station.

WIDOWER, 85, PLUNGES TO DEATH.

Sam Kaplan, 85 year old widower and retired merchant, plunged to his death last night from the third floor apartment of his son-in-law, Phil Silverman, at 4843 Winthrop avenue, where he lived.

HONOLULU MARKS MEMORIAL DAY FOR RAID VICTIMS

Services at the Graves; Churches Filled.

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 1.—New Year's day was Memorial day in Honolulu.

In beautiful Nuuanu cemetery, overlooking Honolulu harbor, several hundred persons led by Mayor Lester Petrie and joined by three members of the Presidential investigation committee—Associate Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts, Adm. William H. Standley, and Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy—held memorial services over the communal graves of more than 350 sailors who lost their lives at Pearl Harbor in the Japanese attacks Dec. 7.

The remainder of those who died in the surprise aerial and submarine attack were buried in the new military cemetery at Red Hill, but no civilians were allowed to go there.

There was hardly a dry eye in the crowd around the 10 long burial trenches as six native girls sang the "Star Spangled Banner."

Lay Leis on Graves.

There was no eulogy. The ceremonies opened with the singing of "Alohaoe," which means both hail and farewell in Hawaiian, and was followed by a prayer by the native Mormon missionary, Keawe Kapeliela, and two native funeral chants.

During the chanting members of the Daughters of Hawaii, which is comparable to the Daughters of the American Revolution, laid leis of red and white carnations and white lehua on the graves.

Two ceremonies were held. The first was at the graves of three Honolulu firemen who were killed fighting fires at Hickam field, which is near the old navy burial ground at Nuuanu and where there was room to bury only 80 of the Pearl Harbor dead.

Gather in Churches.

The ceremony there was repeated in the new burial area on the north end. This ground was purchased by the navy after the attack.

The ceremony at Nuuanu was held at high noon. Both before and after, St. Andrew's Episcopal cathedral, the Mormons' Kawaihao church, oldest in the city, and other Honolulu churches were filled with citizens who went to pray. At St. Andrew's cathedral the staff held brief services every hour.

GERMAN PLANES SPRAY BULLETS ON ENGLAND AS NEW YEAR OPENS

LONDON, Jan. 1 (AP).—One person was killed and several others were injured as two German planes opened the new year with machine gun attacks on towns along England's southeast coast.

At one town the Nazi raiders spattered bullets on a train and a railway station. A woman and a guard were wounded.

The raiders swept in low from the sea, blazing away fiercely. Royal air force fighters went up and chased them away, a home security ministry communique said. It asserted that damage was slight.

AUSTRALIA PUTS YOUNG OFFICERS IN HIGH COMMAND

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 1.—In a reorganization of the commands of the home defense forces, Brigadiers H. C. H. Robertson, E. C. P. Plant, G. A. Vasey, C. A. Clowes, J. J. Murray, and S. G. Savige, all of whom have been serving with the Australian imperial force in the middle east, are to return to Australia to assume field commands with the rank of major general, it was announced today. Brigadiers W. A. B. Steele and V. J. M. Locke also will be promoted, and other promising young officers appointed to special duties.

Army Minister Francis M. Forde explained the changes conform to the declared principle of appointing younger officers experienced in modern mechanized warfare to high commands.

Three major generals and two brigadiers will be retired.

CHURCHILL BACK; RENEWS TALKS ON WAR WITH F. D. R.

Both Pray in Pew Where Washington Worshiped.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—British Prime Minister Winston Churchill returned to the capital this morning from a three day visit to Ottawa, Ont., and after attending church services at historic Christ church in Alexandria, Va., with President Roosevelt, plunged into additional conferences with the President on the military, economic, financial and supply problems which must be solved by enemies of the axis powers.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early announced merely that the entire subject of the plans of war against Germany and her allies is being considered.

Attending the conference, in addition to Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt, were British Ambassador Lord Halifax, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Undersecretary Sumner Welles, Adm. Ernest J. King, new commander in chief of the United States fleet, and a score of military and naval experts representing the United States and Great Britain.

Look for New Statement.

After dinner this evening, Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt resumed their conversations in private. It was considered likely that some such document as the Atlantic Charter, drafted on a battleship by the same two men last August, will be issued from the White House before Churchill returns to Britain.

In such a statement, the war aims probably would be reviewed and the invincible determination of this country and Great Britain to drive to eventual victory would be reiterated. The strategy essential to such an achievement—which is the main topic of the conferences—would, of course, be kept secret.

Pray Where Washington Prayed.

Back from the subzero temperatures of the Canadian capital, Churchill drove at 11 a. m. with the President eight miles thru typically raw and foggy Washington winter weather to the 168 year old colonial edifice where George Washington worshiped from 1773 to 1799.

Side by side in the same white painted box where once knelt the man who wrested Britain's greatest dominion from the control of King George III., the two leaders of the great English speaking nations bowed their heads in prayer.

'Paul Reveres' Spread Word.

Assembled to join the distinguished visitors in worship were 250 selected members of the congregation admitted to the church by cards distributed Paul Revere like in the Sunday dawn by eight trusted parishioners of the historic Protestant Episcopal church. These messengers met at daybreak in the rectory of Dr. Edward Randolph Welles where they received hurried instructions, a list of names and the admission cards no doubt destined to become heirlooms.

Scattering thru Alexandria and the surrounding countryside, the ecclesiastical emissaries rapped sharply at chosen doors and whispered excitedly to sleepy communicants, many of them grumpy at being aroused so soon after welcoming the new year, that they were bidden to a special 11 a. m. service where there would be two distinguished guests. Pledged to silence, the congregation gathered to gape at the group in George Washington's pew and to listen to Dr. Welles criticize the United States for "the sin of international irresponsibility."

"We want our country and our people to have power and prestige," he asserted, "but we balk at the international responsibility which those privileges impose.

Need Spiritual Unity.

"Pearl Harbor resulted in a new national unity based on resentment. But that is not enough. We must have a deep, spiritual unity . . ."

The congregation was called upon to sing "hymn No. 433." This was a tactful selection, the tune being that of the British empire's national anthem, "God Save the King," and "My Country 'Tis of Thee" on this side of the water.

Churchill and President Roosevelt were driven after the services to Washington's home at Mount Vernon, 13 miles from Alexandria. The British prime minister laid a wreath on the first President's tomb, and then he and Mr. Roosevelt posed for photographers. On their return to the capital, they paused a moment at the Lincoln memorial and gazed at the stirring statue of the emancipator.

Churchill celebrated the advent of the new year at a midnight ceremony aboard the special train bearing him back to Washington. The train had just left Brattleboro, Vt., when word was passed that the prime minister would appear in the dining car to welcome 1942 along with as many of the newspaper men and staff members as could be packed into the car.

RAF Strikes a Blow

LONDON, Jan. 1 (AP).—Britain's powerful bombing forces in the middle east were carrying the war back to the axis tonight with sustained assaults on the Nazi bases in Greece, where there is increasing evidence of preparations for an air and sea assault on Britain's eastern Mediterranean fleet.

For the second time in three days the royal air force reported striking hard at important bases which the Germans and Italians have developed on conquered Greece and Crete.

A middle east communique said that in the latest attacks, Tuesday night, British planes bombed munitions factories and a submarine base at the Greek port of Salamis, chemical works and oil installations at the port of Piraeus, six miles from Athens, and an airdrome at Candia, capital of Crete.

Menace to British Sea Lanes.

German planes based at the Candia field would be virtually astride Britain's vital lane of sea communications and supply from Egypt to the Libyan battlefield.

The RAF operations were interpreted in London as substantiating recent reports from Turkey of new concentrations of the German air force in Greece.

The communique was the first official disclosure that the axis has based submarines in Greek ports within striking range of British fleet lanes.

Observers suggested that the axis strategy calls for an attempted stand in Tripolitania with such reënforcements as have got thru the British blockade. Such a stand, they said, would be helped if the axis could cut Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's lengthened sea lines of supply by air and submarine attacks.

Because of the limitations of the long land route thru the desert, the maintenance of sea routes from Alexandria to Bengazi or beyond would be vital to a further British thrust to the west.

97 Raids on Malta in 12 Days.

VALETTA, Malta, Jan. 1 (AP).—This British Mediterranean island had 97 air raids in the last 12 days of 1941. Twelve German planes were destroyed and 24 others reported probably destroyed.

British Pound Bardia

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 1 (AP).—Rearguard units of the British 8th army, concerned lest a second Tobruk—this time of axis origin—develop on the flank of the desert advance, hit hard tonight at the well fortified Italian-German forces isolated in the Bardia-Halfaya ["Hell Fire"] region of eastern Libya.

South African troops, supported by tanks and mobile artillery, battered into the southern sector of the Bardia perimeter, taking several fortified positions and seizing 600 prisoners.

The attack, hundreds of miles behind the front lines, foreshadowed a determined effort to keep the axis Bardia garrison from holding out and possibly being supplied and reënforced by sea, as happened to the British at Tobruk, farther west.

RAF Strikes in Agedabia Region.

Temporarily there was lessened activity around Agedabia, 90 miles south of Bengazi, but the royal air force kept on with its attacks on axis motorized and tank units in the Agedabia battle area and also on the road to Tripoli, along which aid must reach Gen. Erwin Rommel's hard pressed army, if any aid is coming.

Heavy raids on Misurata and Homs, the latter 800 miles from the Egyptian border, were reported by the RAF.

It now is conceded that Rommel still has considerable infantry and tank strength with which to fight the British.

Axis Claims Gains in Libya.

ROME, Jan. 1 (AP).—The Italian high command communique, reporting a "new and favorable development" on the Libyan front, today claimed the axis had destroyed 48 more tanks and numerous motor cars south of Agedabia, where previously Rome said axis forces had destroyed 74 British armored units.

The Italians also said two warships took part in a British attack upon the coastal town of Bardia but withdrew, one of them aflame, under the "accurate fire" of artillery from the town.

F. D. R.'S MESSAGE TO BRITAIN: 1942 NEED IS COURAGE

Allied Troops Parade in London Pageant.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 1.—A message from President Roosevelt was read today as Britons staged a new year pageant which featured a parade of units from all allied military forces and the naval, military, civil defense, police, firefighting, and nursing services of this country. The message was read in Albert hall by John G. Winant, the American ambassador.

Asserting that the war is being fought for the defense of "free institutions," Mr. Roosevelt said:

"The year 1941 brought on the United States, as the last two years brought on other nations, a war of aggression by powers dominated by arrogant rulers whose selfish purpose is to destroy free institutions. They would, thereby, take from the freedom loving peoples of the earth hard won liberties gained over many centuries.

Says 1942 Calls For Courage.

"The new year calls for courage and resolution of old and young to help win the world struggle in order that we may preserve all we hold dear. We are confident in our devotion to country, in our love of freedom, in our inheritance of courage, but our strength, as the strength of men everywhere, is of greater avail as God upholds us.

"In making this first day of the new year one of prayer, we ask forgiveness for the shortcomings of the past, consecration to the tasks of the present, and God's help in the days to come. We need His guidance that we may be humble in spirit but strong in the conviction of right, steadfast to endure sacrifices, and brave to achieve victory, liberty, and peace."

Flags Fly Side by Side.

American and British flags flew side by side in Westminster abbey, where special services marked Anglo-American prayer day. Similar services were held in St. Paul's cathedral and other churches thruout the country.

The archbishop of Canterbury declared that one "great beacon of hope shining thru the clouds of destiny" was the fact that "the United States which has been a long time waking from a fitful dream of security now has drawn the sword." Another such beacon, he said, was Russia's fight for the cause of freedom.

Cardinal Arthur Hinsley appealed to Catholics everywhere for "understanding of our defense of the Christian principles of justice, truth, and charity."

Becomes Full Colonel

Col. E. C. Gere (left), newly appointed full colonel, receives his service eagle from Lieut. Col. Allen G. Brindley, executive officer.

Lieut. Col. E. C. Gere, executive officer of the 6th corps area quartermaster's office, yesterday was promoted to the rank of full colonel and appointed acting quartermaster of the 6th corps area by order of the war department. Col. Gere succeeds Lieut. Col. Orville Jackson, who retired on Wednesday upon reaching the mandatory retirement age of 64.

The office which Col. Gere will head is the central point of supply, feeding, and distribution for troops in the corps area states of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Col. Gere, a regular army officer, began his military career in 1907 as a private in the New York National Guard. During the 1940 army maneuvers he acted as quartermaster for the 2d army.

He resides at 1479 Tower road, Winnetka.

STIMSON SEEKS LINDBERGH'S OR ANY ONE'S ADVICE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 (AP).—Secretary Henry L. Stimson said today the war department was ready to accept from Charles A. Lindbergh "or anyone else" any advice which might help in the war effort.

Stimson made the comment at his press conference after stating no action had been taken on the flyer's request for active army service. Lindbergh resigned as a colonel in the air reserves last summer while engaged in making speeches opposing the foreign policies of the President.

"I want this distinctly understood," Stimson said. "Whether it comes from Col. Lindbergh or anyone else, any advice or suggestion which any American thinks will help the service or improve it will be gratefully accepted and very carefully considered."

'ALERT' NOTICES SENT RESERVISTS IN CHICAGO AREA

Army Warns Them to Be Ready for Jan. 10 Call.

In compliance with the war department order issued early yesterday directing recall to active duty of all enlisted army reservists, officers of the 6th corps area headquarters in Chicago last night began mailing advisory notices to reservists in the corps area states of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

The notices, sent over the signature of Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Cummins, corps area commander, told reservists to be ready, upon receipt of another mail order calling them into service, to report immediately at either Fort Sheridan or Fort Custer, Mich.

Number Can't Be Revealed.

Sixth corps area officials said actual calls to duty will begin to go out on Jan. 10. All eligible reservists in the area will be under arms by Feb. 1, it was explained. Because of censorship regulations, the number of such reservists cannot be revealed.

The war department order, announced by Secretary Stimson in Washington, D. C., calls to duty the following classes of reservists:

1. Members of the regular army enlisted reserve. Former regular army men who, since their discharge, have received a small annual salary from the government as members of the reserve. These men were exempted from the draft.

2. Members of the enlisted reserve corps. Ex-draftees who were discharged from the army under the selective service amendment releasing men over 28 years of age or those who could prove they had dependents.

3. Members of the National Guard. National Guardsmen who either were not called to federal service or were released from federal service under the 28 year age-dependency amendments.

Deferment Rules Hold.

In his announcement, Secretary Stimson explained that reservists who have dependents, or who are key men in the defense program will be granted deferments by the same procedure as selective service deferments are granted.

In concluding his announcement, Stimson stated that the army has reversed its previous decision to rely only upon the draft for additional men, instead of accepting volunteers. One purpose, he indicated, is to get 18 and 19 year old men. In disregard of the army's wishes, congress recently declined to make youths of 19 subject to the draft and fixed the lower age limit at 20.

HITLER EFFIGY FOUND HANGING ON NORTH SIDE

Mysterious circumstances clouded the identity and concealed the purposes of a "necktie" party that strung up an effigy of Adolf Hitler on a tree in front of 1914 Orchard street early yesterday. Neighbors abroad in the small hours of the morning said it was suspended sometime between 1 and 3 a. m. Some regarded it as a joke while others said it was a warning to pro-German elements of the community. The stuffed figure wore a leather jacket and bowling shoes. Familiar features of the Nazi leader were penciled on a paper face, and a large flower was wired into the right hand.

PETAIN APPEALS TO FUEHRER FOR EASED ARMISTICE

Says French Dignity Must Be Restored.

VICHY, France, Jan. 1 (AP).—Marshal Petain appealed to Germany tonight to relax the terms of the armistice imposed after France's fall and indicated this was a necessary prelude to greater French-German collaboration.

In a New Year's broadcast, the elderly chief of state described his country's situation as a false peace and asserted war only continued in a different form with domestic disunity. He said he was allowed only half liberty, but was trying to do his best.

"As a European power, France knows her duties toward Europe," he said. "As a maritime and colonial power she possesses a free empire—now exposed to many dangers. As a civilized power she has kept her spiritual and privileged place in the world despite her defeat.

"Hope for Modification."

"This particular situation of France cannot escape Germany's notice. It will suggest to her that we hope for modification of the statute imposed on us after her victory."

The result of such modification, he continued, would be the sincere rapprochement between the two nations that is the hope of their governments and peoples.

"Our dignity will be restored, our economy relieved," he said.

[Germany has made France pay 400,000,000 francs—about $8,000,000—a day as the expense of the army of occupation. There have been many hints this might be reduced in return for further French aid.]

Calls for Unity.

Noting the war now extended over the greater part of the world, the marshal declared:

"France remains outside the conflict. But she cannot look on without anguish at the struggle. Neither morally nor materially could she hold herself aloof from events.

"Frenchmen . . . We must do our best to regain our dignity. United, we shall recover our country."

OAK PARK YOUTH, FOUR OTHERS DIE IN BOMBER CRASH

Second Craft Is Missing with Nine Aboard.

(Picture on page 8.)

United States military planes figured in three serious mishaps yesterday. An army bomber exploded and crashed at Garden City, N. Y., killing five men. Another army bomber, with nine aboard, was missing in California. At Langley field, Virginia, a plane swerved from the runway and killed three airport laborers.

Bomber Explodes.

Mineola, N. Y., Jan. 1 (AP). — An army bomber crashed into a gravel pit at nearby Garden City on Long Island today after striking a high tension wire and took the lives of its five man crew in two rapid explosions that were heard over a five mile area.

Army officers said the plane showed signs of distress when it reached West Mineola. It was heading for an open field when it lost altitude and struck the high tension wire.

Co-Pilot from Oak Park.

Second Lieut. Charles W. Van Eeuwen, 23 years old, pilot, a native of Allendale, Mich. His father, William R. Van Eeuwen, lives at Grant, Mich.

Second Lieut. Joseph J. Orr, co-pilot, Oak Park, Ill.

Cadet Earl W. Ray, 24, navigator, a native of Kings Mill, O. Father, Chester Ray, 243 Fountain avenue, Dayton, O.

Private Joseph W. Gallick, 20, radio man, a native of Pittsburgh. Nearest of kin, a brother, Andrew Gallick, of Vandergrift, Pa.

[Second Lieut. Orr, 23, a former Oak Park High school athlete, joined the air corps last July before completing his studies at the University of Illinois. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Orr, reside at 728 South Clarence avenue, Oak Park. His engagement to Miss Anne Applewhite of Warwick-on-the-James near Newport News, Va., was announced Dec. 21. Two sisters and a brother also survive.]

Bomber Missing with 9 Men.

Riverside, Cal., Jan. 1 (AP).—Search was pressed by air and ground parties today for a B-26 two-motored army bomber which disappeared last Tuesday evening from a flight of nine bombing planes approaching March field in the vicinity of Cajon pass.

Private Robert N. Enyeart, Columbus, O.

Private Jack C. Shirley, Lavonia, Ga.

The weather bureau said flying weather in the vicinity of the pass has been "very bad" for the past week, with much ice in the clouds.

Plane Kills 3 on Ground.

The dead: Frank L. Mallicott, 70, Newport News; Cossie Clayton, 71, Hilton Village, and Floyd Edwards, Elizabeth City county.

DE PAUL STUDENT CHICAGO'S FIRST RECRUIT FOR 1942

Jules Nestor, 25 years old, student manager of athletics at De Paul university, became the first man enlisted in 1942 by the army recruiting office in Chicago yesterday when he was sworn in as an aviation cadet shortly before noon.

Nestor, who lives at 1140 Wrightwood avenue and is the son of a Chicago chef, appeared at the recruiting station at 460 South State street before 8 a. m. to complete his enlistment. Earlier in the week he had passed his physical examination and other tests.

Army recruiting officials said 80 men were enlisted yesterday, more than were expected on the holiday. However, the real rush is expected to start today, when hundreds of young men who have been waiting until after the holidays finally enlist.

The marine corps recruiting depot in the United States courthouse also was open yesterday, not to swear in new recruits, but to provide information and first papers for men wishing to enlist. Officers said dozens of men came in during the day.

The navy and coast guard offices were closed.

MARRIED MEN NOW SOUGHT AS AVIATION CADETS

The policy of the air corps has been changed to allow married men to become army aviation cadets, Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Cummins, commander of the 6th corps area, announced yesterday. Gen. Cummins said examining boards will begin accepting married applicants immediately.

Such cadets, in addition to filling the regular requirements of army student pilots, will have to furnish a statement certifying that their dependents have sufficient means of support. The regular requirements are that the applicant must not have passed his 27th birthday, must be a citizen and in normal physical condition. High school graduates are eligible if they pass a scholastic examination.

After 30 weeks of training, the cadets are awarded wings and commissioned officers in the air corps reserve.

15 Guests Flee Explosion and Fire in Montana Hotel

Missoula, Mont., Jan. 1 (AP).—Fire and an explosion destroyed the Shaphard hotel and two other structures early today. Fifteen guests and employés escaped. Owners of the buildings estimated the loss at around $400,000.

VICE ADM. INGERSOLL TAKES COMMAND OF THE ATLANTIC FLEET

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 (AP).—Vice Adm. Royal Eason Ingersoll today assumed his duties as commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, at an undisclosed location. The admiral received his orders as commander in chief Dec. 20. The ceremony, a navy announcement said, was marked by utmost simplicity and required but a few minutes to hoist the admiral's personal flag on the mainmast of the U. S. S. Augusta. He succeeds Adm. Ernest J. King, who has been made commander in chief of the United States fleet.

The navy also announced that Rear Adm. Frederick Joseph Horne, who has been serving on the general board of the navy, has been named to relieve Vice Adm. Ingersoll as assistant to the chief of naval operations.

Rear Adm. Ralston Smith Holmes, who also has been a member of the general board, has relieved Rear Adm. Charles Adams Blakely as commandant of the 11th naval district, San Diego, Cal. Blakely has been given leave of absence because of illness.

Air Corps Sergeant Killed and Bride Hurt Near Polo

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 1 (AP).—Sergt. Melvin Byrd, United States air corps, Chanute field, was killed and his bride of two weeks was injured today when their automobile struck a bridge abutment on highway 26, south of Polo.

SWEAR IN ROGER M'CORMICK FOR ARMY SERVICE

Roger McCormick, 21 years old, youngest son of Chauncey McCormick, vice president of the Miami Investment corporation, was among a group of volunteer army recruits who left aboard a train from Union station last night for Camp Grant, near Rockford.

McCormick, who made his enlistment application several days ago, was sworn into the service yesterday at the recruiting station at 515 South Franklin street as his father looked on. At the time of his draft classification a physician who examined him recommended that he be classified as 4-F—physically unfit because of fallen arches. McCormick appealed the ruling, and later was placed in the 1-A class.

The young man will forgo his studies at Yale, where he was a senior majoring in economics. He hopes to be assigned to duty with the coast artillery.

U. S. HALTS SALE OF ALL NEW CARS UNTIL RATIONING

Deliveries Also Barred Under Decree.

new automobile as a 1942 model that has been driven less than 1,000 miles.

The sales ban also applied to light and heavy trucks. Heavy trucks, however, are not likely to be included in the anticipated halt in production since they are needed by armament industries.

Production of passenger cars had previously been limited for January to a fourth of the normal output. A total halt was proposed earlier this week to OPM by lease-lend authorities to speed armament production and to conserve the nation's supply of rubber.

3 Makes May be Produced.

In preliminary discussions, it was suggested that production for "essential civilian needs" might be restricted for the duration of the war to standard models of three low priced makes, Ford, Chevrolet, and Plymouth.

The supply on dealers' floors, 450,000, is little more than a month's normal civilian demand. In the annual report of the industry for its fiscal year, ending Oct. 31, the total passenger car production was listed at 3,750,000. A twelfth of this is 312,500. Of total production, only 5.1 per cent was exported.

Tonight's order does not clarify the legal position of conditional sales, chattel mortgages, and similar automobile contracts on which delivery was made before Jan. 1. SPAB Director Nelson said that these points will be covered in amendments to the order, to be issued soon.

The announcement added that these amendments will permit completion of the conditional sales of cars now in owners' hands. Repossession under such contracts, according to the announcement, will be governed by existing state laws.

10,000 NEW CARS HERE.

Orders of the SPBA, prohibiting sale, purchase or delivery of new passenger automobiles found Cook county dealers with from 10,000 to 12,000 new cars in stock, according to an estimate last night by M. J. Lanahan, director of the Chicago Auto Trade association. He believes most dealers anticipated the order and will accept it willingly, despite the hardship on many.

December deliveries of new cars were slow until the last week in December because of curtailed production, altho sales were active, according to Lanahan. He estimated that new and used car dealers' stocks of used cars are 25 per cent lower than at this time a year ago and that there are not more than 10,000 used cars on floors and in lots thruout the county.

Lanahan predicted that a ceiling will be placed over the price of used cars within a few days and that dealers will not raise prices sharply. Thus far, no restriction has been placed on the sale of used cars, but it is believed a price ceiling would serve as a restriction.

A majority of the used cars in dealers' stocks are three model years old and older. Curtailment of tire sales is expected to be reflected in used car sales by buyers trying to obtain vehicles with good tires.

Buys Defense Bonds

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Sharon Collen, 5 years old, who bought two defense bonds in the Tribune Public Service office yesterday.

Dorothy Lamour, the film star who popularized the sarong, and vice versa, will arrive in town tomorrow noon on the City of Los Angeles and spend her brief stopover selling defense bonds and stamps in the North Western station. She will be greeted by officials of the Federal Reserve bank, the defense saving staff, and any one else who happens to be in the station. The treasury department has announced that she will also visit New York, Philadelphia, and Washington.

Sharon Collen, 5 years old, 7511 Ridgeland avenue, was one of the New Year's day buyers of defense bonds at the Tribune public service office yesterday. Sharon, whose father was with her, said she ordinarily bought from a postal substation near her home, but that THE TRIBUNE was the only place she knew of where they could be had yesterday.

A $100 bond was sold to William H. Selman, 847 North Central Park avenue, and others bought stamps. Police Commissioner James P. Allman will explain plans for defense bond sales to other police officials today.

RESUME SERVICE AFTER STRIKE ON GREYHOUND LINES

Service on the Greyhound Bus lines between Detroit, Mich., and Chicago and Detroit and Cleveland, O., interrupted by a strike, was resumed last evening. John R. Steelman, director of the labor department conciliation service in Washington, D. C., announced the settlement of the labor dispute. The strike was supposed to have been settled Wednesday, but a misunderstanding arose concerning the status of garage employés in the Detroit terminal. That was straightened out yesterday in a telephone conference.

WARNING: SAVE TIRES NOW; DON'T EXPECT RECAPS

Supplies Limited to Few, Kelly Says.

Mayor Kelly and Michael F. Mulcahy, local tire rationing administrator, joined yesterday in an appeal to automobile owners to coöperate in the tire rationing program. They warned that no increases in allotments of "camelback" rubber, used in retreading and recapping, is likely and urged prudence and care in conserving tires.

"The cut," Mayor Kelly said, "has been more than drastic. The OPM has attempted to eliminate all nonessential use of tires and tubes. Truck tire purchases in the metropolitan area [Cook county and parts of Du Page, Lake, and Will counties] have averaged 10,833 monthly. The total for January will be 5,003. Owners of passenger cars have been buying tires at an average of 70,312 a month. The January allotment is 2,523.

Urges Conservation.

"Many persons believe they will be able to have their tires recapped or retreaded when they are worn smooth," the mayor said. "I have been told that the 69,000 pounds of 'camelback' rubber used for this purpose in December will not be increased. It is prudent that you conserve your tires."

Mulcahy and the mayor conferred with engineers and designers for tire companies and drew up the following list of hints for preserving tires:

Maintain proper air pressure, reduce speed, keep wheels in alignment, keep brakes equalized, have your tires inspected regularly for cuts, punctures, nails, snags, keep valve caps on all tubes, have repairs made by reliable men, and when the original tread design is still visible, take the tire to a dealer for recapping.

Resume Sales Monday.

Mulcahy said the rationing boards and testing agents will be set up in the area by Monday, when sales will be resumed. The number of boards, locations and personnel probably will be announced tomorrow, he said.

Mulcahy advised again that all tire dealers are required to have an inventory of all tires and tubes at his headquarters at 23 North Wacker drive delivered or mailed before midnight tomorrow.

The first tire thefts of 1942 were reported yesterday. Dr. A. L. Newcomb reported to Wilmette police that a spare tire, a battery and an auto robe had been stolen from his garage at the rear of his home, 4308 8th street. Two heavy tires were stolen from a transport truck of the Osborne Trucking company, Dallas, Tex., while it was in a parking lot at 1201 South Wabash avenue.

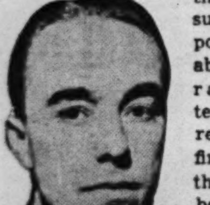
ENEMY ALIENS MUST GIVE UP RADIOS MONDAY

Guns and Cameras Also to Be Collected.



J. Albert Woll.

United States Attorney J. Albert Woll warned enemy aliens yesterday that they must surrender to local police all portable cameras, radio transmitters, short wave receivers, and firearms now in their possession before 11 p. m Monday night.

Woll also announced that freedom to travel within the United States now permitted to enemy aliens will be sharply restricted after the Monday deadline.

The district attorney acted after Attorney General Francis Biddle issued orders in Washington, D. C., which define the status and regulate the activities of enemy aliens in this country. The order affects approximately 1,100,000 Germans, Italians, and Japanese in the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

Immigration officials in Chicago have estimated that there are about 250 Japanese, 20,000 Germans, and 26,000 Italians in this area who will be subject to the regulations.

Woll asked Police Commissioner James P. Allman to assist the department of justice in impounding the prescribed articles. Policemen will accept the articles and give receipts for them.

Identical requests were sent out to the more than 800 sheriffs and police chiefs in the 18 northern Illinois counties under Woll's jurisdiction.

"We are not asking the police to make any raids," said Woll. "For the present we shall be satisfied with the voluntary efforts of alien enemies to obey the law. However, those who fail to turn in proscribed possessions will be arrested, their possessions will be confiscated, and they may be interned."

The travel restrictions provide that no enemy alien may leave his community before he has given a week's notice in writing to the United States attorney.

GUN MISSES FIRE AS ROBBER TRIES TO SHOOT POLICE

Jack Singleton, 39 years old, 3853 Ellis avenue, a painter, confessed committing two robberies early yesterday after he was captured by Policemen Charles Callender and Edward Delso of the Hyde Park station. The policemen found Singleton at Ellis avenue and 44th street while they were looking for a man who struck and robbed Mrs. Lena Miller, 29, as she was entering her home at 4625 Drexel avenue.

Singleton drew a gun and attempted to shoot as the policemen approached, but his gun missed fire. He was captured after a struggle.

Police learned later that between the attack on Mrs. Miller and his capture he had robbed four high school boys of small change and rings.

U.S. EDUCATORS GATHER TODAY TO MAP ROLE IN WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—The United States Office of Education this afternoon outlined questions to be propounded before a war conference of 800 to 1,000 college and university presidents in Baltimore on Saturday and Sunday. The tone of the conference was forecast in a statement by Dr. John W. Studebaker, education commissioner delivered before a prelimary meeting here.

Dr. Studebaker.

"Never was this nation in such a dangerous situation," he said. "Never did civilization have so much at stake in the outcome of a mighty struggle. Nothing matters much at present unless we win the war. Just as we all are confident of ultimate victory, I have an ultimate faith in the ability and disposition of American educators to bind themselves together in an unyielding phalanx against the forces of evil, in a complete coöperation that eventually will enable righteousness and peace to reign once more."

On the conference program representing the fighting services are: War department, Undersecretary Robert P. Patterson; navy department, Joseph W. Barker, chief of the division of training, liaison and coördination, and the director of selective service, Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

TRIAL STARTING TODAY IN COUNTY'S TEST OF ZONING LAW POWERS

Power of Cook county to enforce its zoning code will be tested for the first time in the trial of Fred L. Weigand, operator of Louie's Beer Stube on Ballard road, near Potter road, which will be started today before Judge Albert Isley of Newton, sitting in County court. Weigand is charged with having built an addition to his tavern without a permit.

Prior to Dec. 4 Weigand petitioned the zoning board of appeals for an exception to the code which would permit construction of the addition. However, according to Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Burke, work on the addition was going forward.

A public hearing on Weigand's petition in Des Plaines Dec. 4 resulted in denial after 650 persons attended to protest. Des Plaines and Park Ridge civic organizations also protested against the addition because of proximity of the tavern to Maine Township High school. Maximum penalty for violation of the code is six months in jail and fine of $200.

3 GUARDS SLAIN, PRISON SET AFIRE IN TWO MAN RIOT

Keepers Are Bludgeoned in Mental Ward.

Bridgewater, Mass., Jan. 1 (AP).—Three guards were beaten and hacked to death today when two young inmates ran amuck at the vast Bridgewater state farm, set fire to a building and fought off a charging riot squad for an hour and a half.

The dead guards were Franklin L. Weston, 63 years old, of Bridgewater; George Landry, 64, of Whitman, and Howard V. Murphy, 48, of Taunton.

Gassed and Clubbed.

Under heavy guard in the farm hospital tonight were Donald Millard, 19, of Nashua, N. H., and Joseph Sheppard, 25, of Worcester. Both were classed as defective delinquents. They were badly beaten, but doctors said they probably would recover.

The two inmates finally were trapped on the burning fourth floor of a section devoted to defective delinquents by a four man squad of Massachusetts state police, headed by Sergt. Joseph Fratus. After they had been gassed and clubbed into unconsciousness, police found they had been armed with four hammers, two chisels, a blackjack, an iron pipe, and a hose spanner.

Three Victims Are Found.

"We finally trapped them in a room on the fourth floor," Fratus said. "I yelled in for them to come out on their hands and knees. They did, but both suddenly straightened up. One of them threw a hammer that sailed past my head. Then he charged me with a chisel, which just grazed my neck. Patrolman Raymond Moran reversed his riot gun and clubbed the first man. The stock broke off, but he felled the second man with the barrel."

Daniel O'Brien, chief guard at the farm, said the two inmates had been sent to the carpenter shop by Weston to get a ladder. His body was found in the shop, his head crushed and his chest punctured by ten wounds which Medical Examiner P. H. Leavitt said had been inflicted after death.

Landry was killed in the north tower in much the same fashion, and Murphy's body was found on the third floor, his head split open so that his brain was exposed.

The 451 defective delinquents were confined in a recreation room during the two man riot. The fire damage was comparatively small, consisting mostly of about 30 mattresses that had been fired.

DOCKED BRAZILIAN SHIP IS SWEPT BY FIRE, CARGO BURNED

New York, Jan. 1 [Special].—Fire of undetermined origin today swept the Brazilian freighter Pecone at her pier in Brooklyn, and destroyed the main bulk of its cargo of 40,000 bags of castor beans, 30,000 bags of coffee and a number of bales of cotton, while troops with fixed bayonets kept the area cleared of curious. The 3-alarm fire razed 10 houses before being brought under control. More than 40 firemen were overcome by smoke.

The army, navy, coast guard and FBI started an investigation, but made no announcement of their findings. Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy said he doubted sabotage was involved. He said his investigation indicated that the fire was the aftermath of another blaze which broke out in the coal bunkers as the ship steamed into port Tuesday.

Capt. C. Figueira said they got the blaze under control, and shifted the coal to another hold. Brophy said he believed today's fire could have been caused by a spontaneous combustion of this coal, caused by the heat remaining in it.

Army Moves Finance School from Maryland to Indiana

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1, (AP).—The transfer of the army finance school from Holabird quartermaster depot at Baltimore, Md., to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., where a finance department replacement training center also will be established, was announced today by the war department. Expansion of school facilities to meet increased demands for finance officers in the army was the reason for moving the school.

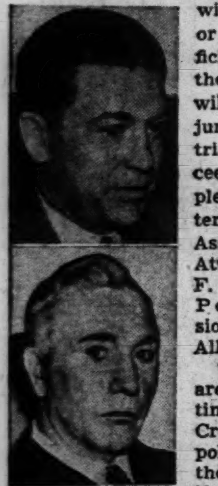
GAMBLING WAR HITS $7,500,000 POLICY RACKETS

Prosecutor, Police Both Pledge Action.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.



Wilbert Crowley [top] and James P. Allman.

Policy rackets, the last stronghold of the gangster gambling interests, will stop at once or the police officials who allow them to operate will face grand jury inquiry or trial board proceedings. This pledge came yesterday from First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley and Police Commissioner James P. Allman.

"Policy rackets are a police routine matter," said Crowley. "The police can stop them over night if they desire. If they get on the job as they did with handbooks after the grand jury started to prod them the same results can be obtained."

Allman Accepts Challenge.

Crowley indicated that if the police did not stop policy rackets, which are reported to take $7,500,000 yearly from colored families, many of them on relief, the grand jury would be asked to summon police captains and their underlings, as was done in the handbook investigation, and asked why this gangster controled racket is allowed to flourish. He directed attention to the fact that the grand jury has recommended to Commissioner Allman that trial board proceedings be instituted against policemen who fail to suppress handbooks.

Commissioner Allman immediately accepted the challenge of the prosecutor and announced that "if the policy rackets are not now stopped, they will be immediately." He said he would not issue any special orders to the captains in the districts in which policy openly flouts the gambling laws because the captains already are under specific orders to stop all forms of gambling.

The commissioner's office pointed out that Allman now has members of his personnel department checking over the evidence of police dereliction of duty in the handbook situation and that charges may be filed shortly before the trial board. These personnel inspectors, it was said, will be put to work determining why policy is allowed to flourish.

Gangsters Share Profits.

Sharing in the vast profits of the policy racket are gangster criminals, both white and Negro, according to Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission, and Rudolph W. Dvorak, the commission's acting director.

"Inasmuch as the state's attorney's office and the two last grand juries have done such good work in suppressing handbooks, they should do the same thing with the policy rackets before they spread too far," said Dvorak. "Since the bookies have been closed up our investigators find that policy rackets have spread to certain white sections. The sooner action is taken to curb this evil the easier it will be to suppress.

"Policy gambling is a violation of the law the same as bookies betting or any other form of gambling. It is the duty of the police to stop gambling, but if the police do not suppress it, it is the duty of the state's attorney and the grand jury to indict those responsible for nonenforcement of the law."

Police Can Stop Racket.

Capt. John Howe of the Warren avenue station, formerly of the commissioner's office, has demonstrated that policy rackets can be stopped by the police. He was assigned to this district last month. It has a large Negro section and Big Jim Martin was the so-called policy king of the territory. He is no longer in business and it is reliably reported he is even afraid to enter the police district.

Capt. Howe has threatened to put Martin in the basement [the police term for cellroom] and to send him to the bureau of identification for finger printing.

The agitation to stop the policy rackets came from the Crime commission after it had received numerous letters and personal appeals from Negro leaders. The Community Church Ministers and Christian Workers' alliance, headed by the Rev. J. M. Evans, charge that on the south side alone 38 policy wheels are in operation and that they have 4,600 stations to take bets. The Rev. Mr. Evans said that in this district alone $600,000 is spent monthly for policy gambling and $484,000 for liquor, about 20 per cent of it being from relief funds.

Million Spent

As the cleaning corps swept thru hotels, taverns, and night spots yesterday hotel managers estimated that half a million dollars was spent in revelry in the loop on New Year's eve. They said an equal amount was spent in the city outside the downtown district.

Free turkey dinners were served to 4,000 soldiers, sailors, and marines yesterday at the Service Men's center, 174 West Washington street. Fort Sheridan reported, "Duty as usual." The holiday was observed at the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

At the Temple corps of the Salvation Army, 1512 Madison street, 700 homeless men were given New Year's dinners.

A tally of hospital reports showed seven babies were candidates for the New Year infant by being born within a few seconds of midnight. Among them was a son born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Davidson, 106 Lincoln avenue, Riverside, in Presbyterian hospital.

Paroled Robber Caught in Taxi Stolen in Gary

Stanton avenue police are holding Allen Harmon, 417 State street, Calumet City, who was captured New Year's eve in a taxicab which he admitted stealing in Gary. Harmon, 20 years old, was paroled March 8, 1941, after serving three years of a one year to life sentence for armed robbery.

Entire Immigration Staff Is Going to Philadelphia

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 (AP).—Budget Director Harold D. Smith and Attorney General Francis Biddle today agreed to shift all 1,600 employés of the justice department's immigration and naturalization division from Washington to Philadelphia. Previously, the President had ordered that about 1,000 of these employés be shifted from the crowded capital. The move is to be completed in about 60 days.

GREEN, BROOKS PREDICT VICTORY FOR A UNITED U.S.

Gov. Dwight Green and Sen. Wayland Brooks broadcast New Year's day messages over W-G-N yesterday, predicting that a united America will prevail against her enemies.

Sen. Brooks spoke from the studio after the governor's message, which was transcribed in Springfield, had been broadcast.

Green declared that he believed the nation would pass thru the bitterest part of the war in 1942, during which "the stars of the totalitarian warlords will set." He said that nothing which would make Illinois more secure would be left undone—"for the security of Illinois is our great concern."

Brooks said the events of the year just past had made the United States "the center of the world."

"We are the nerve center, the forge and factory, the treasure and treasury of the people of the world who fight for the preservation of liberty, tolerance, and decency among men," the senator continued.

"To meet that challenge America moves into 1942 united as she was never united in her history. The American people are fortified with the faith of our fathers who chiseled out of the rock of adversity this precious land of free men."

At Springfield yesterday, Gov. and Mrs. Green and other state officials and their wives greeted hundreds of Illinoisans at the annual New Year reception in the executive mansion.

Urges Prompt Payment for Christmas Seals

There is an acute need for every penny that can be obtained to finance the tuberculosis preventive campaign in 1942, said Homer J. Buckley, chairman of the Christmas Seal campaign, in an appeal yesterday to those who received the seals. Buckley said sheets of seals often become misplaced amid Christmas wrapping paper and persons to whom they are sent delay making payments.

WIFE IN HOSPITAL; HOME LOOTED.

William McGuigan, 1545 East 72d street, spent New Year's eve visiting his wife in a hospital and robbers spent the eve in McGuigan's home. Their loot included 11 pairs of Christmas socks, a watch and ring, all valued at $200.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 2, 1942.

—Stephen Decatur.

STOP INDEFENSIBLE SPENDING.

Peak expenditures in the World war were reached in December, 1918. The top figure was 1 billion 932 million dollars, or at the rate of 23 billion dollars a year. There were not so many of us in 1918, and we were not making as much money on the average. The total income of all the American people was 61 billion dollars. At the most costly phase of World War I. it was absorbing 38 per cent of all our income.

In the first 29 days of December, 1941, defense expenditures reached 1 billion 729 million dollars, and the total for the month may go over the 2 billion dollar mark. Thus we are starting off this war with a monthly expenditure equal to the maximum reached last time.

At his press conference on Tuesday, President Roosevelt said that he had approved plans to increase war expenditures to 50 billion dollars a year, or more than 4 billion dollars a month. As the national income for 1942 is expected to amount to 100 billion dollars, the war will swallow up half of all our incomes.

It will help to envisage what 50 billions is if we compare it with some other figures. All of the wage earners and salaried employés of all the factories in the United States received a total of 12 billion dollars in 1939, the last census year. All that money would pay the war costs for only 3 months at the rate approved for next year.

Or take it in terms of goods. All the stores of every sort in the United States sold 42 billion dollars' worth of merchandise in the course of the latest census year. The 50 billions to be spent for war a year is more than is needed to maintain our standard of living, so far as that is represented by what we buy at stores.

When the President proposes to spend 50 billion dollars, therefore, he is putting everybody's all into the fight. There can hardly be an exaggeration of the sacrifices that will be necessary to carry out such a program. The sacrifices should not be greater by reason of waste than they need be. When the whole nation is on short rations, the time has come to eliminate every dollar of waste in the government. Many have pointed to the existence of waste, and of the desirability of cutting it out, long before we were attacked, but nothing was done about it then or is being done now. Prominent among those who have recently urged the curtailment of nondefense activities by the government are Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, a committee headed by Senator George, Senator Byrd, and the Brookings Foundation.

To make every possible dollar available for the fight against the Jap and the Nazi, the federal budget ought to be gone over with a fine tooth comb to strike out everything that can be done without or postponed. The war has dated a lot of things which have been undertaken at Washington in recent years. As a war measure, let's stop indefensible spending.

LINDBERGH VOLUNTEERS.

Col. Lindbergh has offered his services to the army. The army air corps has announced that the application will "be considered in the same category with numerous others seeking to return to active duty." With a little effort, a more gracious formula of acknowledgment might have been found. Col. Lindbergh is not just another flyer. He is the most accomplished airman the world has known.

Some of the comment on Col. Lindbergh's request for reinstatement is, to say the least, curious. The commentators seem to think that the offer was not to be expected. It is true of Lindbergh as of every man and woman who played a leading part in the America First movement that they have never wavered in their loyalty to America and never will. These men and women made it abundantly clear from the start that if war came they would play their part without reservation of any kind. In this war, as in so many in the past, those who will do the fighting have had little to do with making the war; and all too many of those who made the war will be in safe berths when others are facing the enemy.

The army needs Lindbergh. Heroic as were our flyers in the Philippines, their sacrifices were of little value because the high command was negligent. The placing of such a man as Lindbergh in a position of responsibility in the air corps would go a long way toward correcting a situation which is in great need of correction.

FRIEND OF THE YANKS.

The custodian of the Voice of the People has been making himself obnoxious of late to the members of our advertising department.

Whenever one of those hard working gentlemen attempted to launch his favorite topic of shop talk—the effectiveness of Tribune advertising—he had first to hear about the boys at Camp Croft, S. C., whose single letter in Vox Pop brought them more than 1,000 books from 200 Tribune readers. Then he was told of Joseph Dee Everingham of Camp Grant and Clearwater, Fla., who, as soon as he wrote us a letter that he was the loneliest private east of the Mississippi, was the recipient of some 40 Christmas parcels and 300 or 400 letters.

We were alarmed as well as pleased by the reports from Camp Croft and Private Everingham. The capacity of the Voice of the People to print letters from lonely men in service is necessarily limited. We have been trying to evolve some plan for spreading the generosity of our readers a little further.

The practical gentlemen in the news department, having made a great success of their Smokes for Yanks and Adopt a Yank campaigns during the Christmas season, popped up with a solution. In the news columns today appears the announcement of a new Tribune department. It is called the Friend of the Yanks.

Every one of more than a million readers of this newspaper wants to do anything he or she can to make life more pleasant for the boys in service. The Friend of the Yanks is at their service to make their help as effective as possible. The department is also at the service of every American soldier, sailor, and marine, individually and as a member of his organization, to make his wants known.

INDEPENDENT AIR FORCES.

Senator McCarran of Nevada says that he will start agitation in congress after the first of the year for a separate air force and a department of aviation. If the senator is keeping track of the British press, he will find that some of its most responsible elements, disturbed by reverses in the far east, are calling for abolition of the separate air force which the British now have. They want the air strength assigned to the army and navy, neither of which can fight successfully without it.

So far, this war has given no clear answer as to the desirability of an independent air force. What it has demonstrated most fully is that too much independence in the air force is fatal to ground and sea operations. That may be the real British complaint.

Norway, Flanders, Greece, and Crete showed what happens to the army that is not given sufficient air support. The retreat from the Skagerrak and the loss of the Repulse and Prince of Wales taught the same lesson at sea. Dunkirk and the Lybian campaign give the other side of the picture.

The Germans have shown no dissatisfaction with their independent air force. Whenever a Nazi commander on land or sea has needed air coöperation he has received it to the limit available. Of all the lessons that we can learn from the Nazi military machine, perhaps the most important is the complete coöperation of all the fighting forces in any given task.

Alone among the great powers, we and the Japanese resisted demands for separate air forces. Now that the air arm has been shown to be the predominant one in battle, perhaps our country has suffered from this subordination of the air force to commanders who preferred to ignore its importance, but we have not gone without compensatory benefits.

Following the Hawaiian disaster, Lieut. Gen. Emmons, an air officer, was sent to the islands. He went not as commander of the air force but as commander of the whole military establishment. The same demonstration of the power of planes against battleships has been answered by the appointment of a flying officer, Admiral King, not as head of the fleet air force but to command the whole fleet.

It is hardly thinkable that the British could appoint an air marshal to command either a fleet or an army. To get the essential coördination of forces, their public is demanding that the modern branch of their fighting forces be placed under the command of the exponents of antiquated battle methods. By keeping our flyers in the army and navy our government is in a position to put all its forces under men who think in terms of modern warfare.

TO KEEP THE RECORD STRAIGHT.

Frequently in recent weeks reference to America's entrance into the war has come from Washington and points east. This is a weasel phrase. We did not enter the war. War was made on us by Japan and declared against us by Germany. We are a principal in the conflict, not a subsidiary to forces already engaged. As a principal nation we must be consulted fully on the conduct of the war before we are bound to any policies for its conduct. The point may seem trivial at the moment, but experience from 1917 to 1919 warns that a correct understanding of the nature of America's participation will be of vast importance before the end of the present war.

LIVES TO BE SAVED.

Each year the American Medical association gathers thru its members a record of the deaths and injuries from fireworks and explosives used in Fourth of July celebrations. The association's journal has just completed its compilation of the casualty list for last July 4.

In the nation at large the record is encouraging. From 7,205 casualties in 1937 the total dropped to 2,039 last year. This national record, however, should give small comfort to the citizens of Illinois. Last July 4 Illinois stood fourth in fireworks casualties.

At the last regular session the legislature passed a bill forbidding the sale of fireworks except to licensed exhibitors. For this much needed legislation the people of the state can thank the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. The provisions of the bill were not effective on last July 4. They are now.

The machinery has been created for ending the state's disgraceful record. What is required now is proper and strict enforcement to put the machinery into action next Independence day.

Editorial of the Day

THE CULT OF SUICIDE.

[New York Sun.]

The Japanese commit suicide with the greatest of ease. They believe in suicide. It has become as much a part of their character as our belief in life and in God. It gives them, of course, an initial strength. They order their own sons to death as they bring death to their neighbors. They not only do not fear death, but they glory in it. The heroes of the masses of Japan are the Forty-seven Ronin. Every Japanese child has heard of them and their exploits. Most Japanese at some time in their lives visit the suburb of Takanawa, now part of Tokio, where the Ronin are buried. These Ronin are the symbols of heroism and loyalty, and they all committed suicide. Their great story could have no happy ending, for to the Japanese there is no end to things but in death. To this day many Japanese visit this cemetery to kill themselves. Suicide is neither a personal nor a national disgrace.

Hara-kiri or seppuku, as it is more politely called, is a mode of suicide when there is no alternative but to die. It is a ceremonial suicide, in this industrial age not practiced with the adherence to form and tradition associated with it when the Samurai dominated Japan. Yet the ideal of hara-kiri prevails in the Japanese mind. Suicide is no substitute for natural resources, an adequate food supply, a competent organization of industry or an ability to replace losses. Nevertheless we need to know the enemy we face and we need to know that if need be he can commit his entire country to suicide. It is altogether possible that that was the decision reached by the elder statesmen of Japan when they discovered that diplomacy was not accomplishing the new order in Asia. If there was to be no new order, there could always be death.

It was foretold by Mayor Kelly's official wizard, on the program of his Christmas benefit, that the Linemaster would find some relaxation after the first of the year. And so it came to pass: He is writing "Finis" to a 10,000 word thesis on the drama, music, book, and art critics of THE TRIBUNE since its foundation nearly 100 years ago. Because of this difficult and enormous chore, undertaken in preparation for the paper's centennial celebration, he has made a New Year's resolution never to look a volume of the files in the face again.

We took down the 1941 calendar over our ancient roll-top desk with regret, for it carried a fine color print of Katharine Cornell, always worth looking at, in the title rôle of "Candida." . . . And we hated to pitch our Christmas tree out of the window, to be carried away to a bonfire by pyromaniac urchins. It was a straight and shapely young tree, born with gallant ambitions to become a mainmast; moreover, it was a record breaker in retaining its needles to the bitter end.

Now if some one will come to our rescue with the name and address of the late Colorado Pete's brother, or any other lawful heir, we will consider that the decks are cleared for a quiet life. Into his lap we will drop a basketful of letters from composers who have written music for Pete's "The Mesa Trail" and thus hope to find a pot of gold. This complication in our life started when some organization fomented a song writers' contest with "The Mesa Trail" as its theme.

Choppy says that as New Year's resolutions are in order, he would like to make a resolution to train me in a startling innovation.

He says that since he found me about five years ago, we have lived in the same flat, and that when I take him out for his morning's airing, we always go out to the front of the building and turn left and go around the block. Choppy says he is going to train me to turn right.

Choppy says there are three other blocks we could walk around, merely by crossing a street, but that I never think of it, and we go around the same block in the same monotonous fashion, world without end.

I, too, was once a blue-eyed lass,
Proud, beautiful and coy;
I sat beneath the Christmas tree
And everybody looked at me,
But now I hate a looking-glass:
I'm only last year's toy.

I, too, was fair; my curls were gold,
My heart was filled with joy,
But now I sit here on the shelf
With just the rag-bag and myself;
My curls are snarled; my dress is old:
I'm only last year's toy.

And so, proud beauty, as you smile
Beneath the tree, so coy,
Remember when the branch is bare
They'll soon forget your piquant air,
They'll snatch you roughly up the stair;
Your face will crack and pass from style
And you'll be last year's toy.

PERPLEXING GALL BLADDER SYMPTOMS.

BECAUSE the skin is so accessible we can apply soap and water freely and thus get rid of bacteria. In like manner we rinse the mouth, brush the teeth, and gargle. These maneuvers remove not only food particles but countless germs. Unfortunately, we cannot irrigate or flush the gall bladder. Much of the discomfort in this area arises because the mucous lining of this relatively small pouch has become inflamed. Unlike the stomach, it does not have the same power to reject noxious matter. Instead of nausea it exhibits "misery."

Once inflammation has fixed itself within the bile sac it may hang on and cause trouble. Frequently the manifestations point directly to the stomach. In fact, unless they are studied carefully, we may jump to the conclusion that the gastric apparatus is at fault.

More often than not the patient will make his own diagnosis and attempt to obtain relief with home remedies or some well advertised formula. While a temporary respite may be experienced, no permanent results will be achieved because the "shot" is directed at the wrong structure. Thus it is that a feeling of fullness after meals, heartburn, and belching may mean gall bladder involvement.

Of course, if there is a typical attack of colic, which appears suddenly and terminates abruptly, we rarely need to look further. The pain is centered near the stomach outlet and travels to the back of the right shoulder. A powerful narcotic may be required, particularly if the distress lasts for more than a few minutes. There is nearly always a sick feeling and, after the episode is over, soreness or tenderness may remain in the right upper portion of the abdomen.

Should jaundice come on we may be even more certain of the nature of the ailment. In 15 to 20 per cent of all cases, yellowing of the skin or the whites of the eyes usually manifests itself following one of these seizures. It may indicate also that stones are present, altho a paroxysm may occur when they are entirely absent.

With some, the symptoms will persist for a few months and then subside slowly. After an interval of a few years, however, the patient may observe a return of the malady. This means that the difficulty quieted down—possibly because of better resistance—but has recurred either from a new infection or because reserve has dropped.

Every persistent digestive disturbance demands investigation. There may be an ulcer in the duodenum. On the other hand, appendicitis may exhibit a similar galaxy of signs, as may spastic colitis.

Placing the patient on a bland diet with occasional fatty meals—cream and butter—will bring about adequate drainage and hence healing. Bile salts seem to be more helpful than any other preparation. Generous water drinking before breakfast will aid in establishing the normal rhythm of the alimentary tract and thus avoid sluggishness.

We must recall that among its other duties the liver supplies a powerful digestive secretion—the bile. It would be a grand thing if we could cleanse this storage tank occasionally and thus allay acute inflammation.

SKIN BLEMISHES.

Mrs. R. S. writes: I am 74 years old and have some rough patches on my hands. What can be done for this trouble?

REPLY.

Avoid irritation, use a mild grade of soap, and keep the parts soft with a light coating of sterile cold cream. Use rubber gloves when dishwashing. If the areas increase in extent or thicken, consult your family physician.

NEW NAME.

T. B. writes: In a recent article you spoke of the "sulfonamide" drugs. Does this mean sulfanilamide?

REPLY.

The term "sulfonamide" is applied to the entire group of sulfur-containing dyes, which are so deadly to many types of bacteria. Representatives include sulfanilamide, sulfathiazole, sulfapyridine, etc.

THEIR SILENT PARTNER

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

WE'RE ALL INTERESTED IN HIS ADVENTURES NOW.

MIDWAY ISLAND, N. Pacific Ocean, Dec. 6.—Altho I'm not exactly a lonesome marine, I don't receive much mail [I'm stationed out on Midway Island], so I'm asking you to publish this.

As a hobby I'm interested in strange adventure and travels. And for sports I like swimming, baseball, and all outdoor adventure. I'd very much like to know other young folks who are interested in the same thing I am.

PVT. 1ST CL. E. C. NICHOLS.

POSTWAR STAKES.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—On a Sunday radio forum an "intellectual" of obvious communistic tendencies was asked, "Will the liberties taken away from us during wartime be given back to us when war is over?" He hedged, "Well, I would need about 16 hours to answer, but these wars are the result of faults in our present economic system, and we don't want to go back to things the way they were."

This is what we Americans who are fighting for our way of life should guard against—that these pinks, reds, and fellow travelers don't put over their way of life on us during the stress of war.

H. L.

BIRTH CERTIFICATES.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Will some one who knows please inform me what provision [if any] is being made for the employé who is losing his job because of being unable to furnish a birth certificate. Is he to go on relief, or is there some sort of pension for him?

How will the boys in service feel about this; their parents in want and they unable to help in any way?

I am desperate. I have raised four sons, all of whom have served their country, and one is now at Camp Forrest. I have worked for 40 years and now it looks as if I'm thru.

SOLDIER'S DAD.

IS HE?

Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 26.—I read with astonishment an editorial on the crown prince of Norway, "Of Military Age," in which you had the effrontery to suggest that the prince was not serving his country. That you should choose to make a cheap attack on the honorable representative of a country which has valiantly resisted the Nazi forces and is still resisting them from without seems to me unpardonable. THE TRIBUNE owes a public apology, not only to the crown prince, but to all Americans of Norwegian birth.

FRANCES MCFADDEN.

HAVE A GOOD TIME.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—The idea that one should not celebrate on New Year's eve is simply ridiculous. I, for one, am healthy, still able to dance and have a good time. I believe we all have more reason to celebrate than ever because we're fortunate in being Americans. If all the people who are in their graves could rise just for tonight, I'm sure they would not just sit and weep.

STAMPS FOR TIPS.

JOHN F. BORNSCHEIN.

SNAKES AND OPEN CITIES.

Clinton, Ill., Dec. 27.—A man with his family once lived in a jungle infested by many poisonous snakes. One day he beheld the snakes approaching his dwelling. He knew how treacherous and how dangerous they were but he told them: "I have guns and many weapons of warfare. These I will remove to the hills, and the doors of my house shall be left open. You are gentlemen snakes and must appreciate the extent of my trust." After he took his weapons to the hills, the snakes, understanding neither his language nor his ideas of honor, entered the weaponless home and struck down his defenseless family.

MABEL MIRE.

DISCRIMINATION IN DEFENSE.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—I see in the want ads that defense work is plentiful and no experience is needed. Yet when I apply they say, "Sorry, we hire only white girls." I am a widow at 29 with a boy 11. I want work and must make enough to care for my child. If one color can be trained for defense work, so can the other. When my boy grows up, he will not stand back if his country needs him. Will they turn him down because of color? No.

A DESPERATE MOTHER.

BURNING JAP GOODS.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Altho I do not doubt the patriotism of the good folks of Massapequa, N. Y., as pictured in the Dec. 29 edition of THE TRIBUNE, showing a heap of Japanese goods being burned, I doubt very much if this showing helps our common cause. I think it hurts our cause very much. Perhaps in that heap was some material that we might be short of. This material will only have to be replaced, perhaps by some metal that might have been a bullet or a bomber to crush the Japs.

THOMAS GAFFNEY.

SUGGESTS AN ECONOMY.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Why not abolish the engineers' jobs in the low pressure plants in our Chicago schools? These jobs pay $300 a month and upwards. There are at least 150 low pressure plants. The law requires an engineer only for high pressure plants. Visit any of the plants and see what the engineer has to do. He does nothing but draw his pay. Eliminating these jobs would save more than $500,000 a year.

J. P. D.

WANTS BURMA ROAD MAPPED.

Pecatonica, Ill., Dec. 23.—I like the maps you are printing in your valuable paper and would like to see one of the Burma road, zoning air and ground mileage, number of bridges, and elevation.

A. L. GUMAIN.

BOTH RIGHTS AND LEFTS.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—We have been hearing much of late regarding the American Bill of Rights. Let us devote part of our time to presenting the axis parties with both rights and lefts.

L. J. K.

FIRST INNING.

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 26.—In conversing with friends about the war I note that we are all guilty of expressing a certain amount of pessimism at the turn of events. Perhaps we are guilty of having believed that Japan could be knocked out in a week or two.

However, we may gain faith from the story of a sandlot ball team. A stranger asked an outfielder what the score was; and on being informed that it was 23 to 0, remarked that his team was beaten pretty badly.

"Oh, that's nothing," came back the outfielder. "This is only the first half of the first inning. Wait until our team comes up to bat."

MAC D. LASKY.

FROM A 16 YEAR OLD.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—It is indeed surprising that THE TRIBUNE would fall to the barbaric idea of using teen age children to fight a war. The conviction of many is that patriotism extends to the national boundaries and beyond that it is invasion. If we accept your idea there will be no morale left to fight a war on. People don't change their convictions like they do a pair of shoes, so please don't ask children to a man's job.

PYTHIAS NEUMAN.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

INCOME TAX RETURN.

Chicago, Dec. 30—[Legal Friend of the People.]—For years I have listed my mother as a dependent on my income tax returns, but now am told I will not be allowed to do so. Received notice from the internal revenue department to that effect. My mother is a widow. She is in a poor state of health and cannot go out to work for her support. Please advise if they are correct.

I. S.

The board of tax appeals decided on Dec. 18, 1940 [contrary to previous holdings] that a son living with his father does not become "head of a family" such as to enjoy the $2,500 exemption merely because he supports his father. The board said, "There can be no question that in the instant case the father was head of the family to the date of his retirement. . . . We do not think that he was ousted from that position by reason of such retirement; the only ground for the petitioner's claiming to be the head of a family is that he contributed the major portion of the cost of maintaining the family. This is not enough to make him the head of a family while his father lives." Gebelein vs. Commissioner, C. C. H. Dec, 11. 605-D.

COUPLE INJURED BY HIT-RUN CAR; FOUND IN STREET

Bent Headlight Rim Is Only Clew.

Frank Andrea, 47 years old, and his wife, Rebecca, 37, of 2424 Roosevelt road, were seriously injured last night by a hit-run driver who struck them at Ogden and Damen avenues, leaving a bent headlight rim as the only clew. The Andreas were found lying in the street and were taken to the County hospital.

The first victims of a hit and run driver in 1942 are Gillis Larson, 20, a bookkeeper, who was fatally injured and his mother, Mrs. Othila Larsen, 44, of 841 Dakin street. They were struck at 1 a. m. at Grace street and Sheffield avenue.

Dies After Accident.

Louis Pasinger, 45, of 2404 South Sawyer avenue, died in Loretto hospital after he had been struck at 13th street and Cicero avenue, Cicero, by the automobile of Robert Matthews, 24, of 4712 Race street.

Carlo Puchio, 50, of 2126 Ohio street, died in the County hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday at Grand avenue and State street when he was struck by a hit-run auto.

Mrs. Jennie Cluster, 60, of 433 Mathews street, Gary, died at the Methodist hospital, Gary, of injuries received New Year's eve when she was hit by an automobile at 5th avenue and Mathews street. The driver, Michael Danchi, 941 West 11th avenue, was released on bond.

Injuries Fatal to Woman.

Mrs. Minnie Pieper, 60, of Wheeling, died yesterday in Northwest hospital, Des Plaines, of injuries incurred Dec. 20 when the car in which she was riding at Palatine and Elmhurst roads, near Prospect Heights, collided with a truck driven by Edward Leebers of Mundelein.

William Shields Jr., 26, of Harvard, was killed yesterday when his car struck a culvert, hurling him into Nippersink creek just west of Hebron, McHenry county.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday three persons were listed killed by automobiles in Cook county for 1942, but this included two who died of injuries incurred Wednesday. Two of the victims were killed in Chicago. More than a score of injuries were reported.

2 BURN TO DEATH, 2 INJURED AS FIRE DESTROYS HOME

Two persons were burned to death, two seriously injured, and thousands of dollars damage done yesterday in a series of fires thruout Chicagoland.

The dead are Mrs. Mary Wodka, 22 years old, and her father-in-law, Stanley Wodka, 55, who was visiting his son's home at 4550 South Avers avenue. Mrs. Wodka's husband, Alex, 28, and son, Stanley, 4, were critically injured when an early morning fire destroyed their cottage.

Damage estimated at $80,000 was caused to three business buildings in Fox Lake. The blaze started in the basement of a drug store and spread to a grocery and a meat market. Chief Robert Burleigh was overcome by smoke.

The exclusive Cornelia apartments, 3500 Lake Shore drive, was damaged by fire which started from Christmas tree lights in the lobby. Several score persons were driven to the street by the resulting blaze, including the family of former Sen. James Slattery, Superior Court Judge Oscar Nelson and his wife, the family of Hal Reading, sergeant-at-arms of the state house of representatives, and others. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

Two men were rescued and $500 damage done to a two-story building at 1336 Cortez street in a fire blamed on spontaneous combustion.

GAS OVERCOMES J. A. MILLER AT WAUKEGAN HOME

J. A. Miller, 48 years old, 721 North Sheridan road, Waukegan, Lake county attorney for the last 20 years, was taken to Victory Memorial hospital last night after his wife found him unconscious behind the wheel of his automobile in their built-in garage. His condition is serious.

Mrs. Miller said exhaust fumes from the automobile attracted her to the garage 10 minutes after her husband had started to a store for ice cream and a newspaper. She said he had not been feeling well in recent days.

Mrs. Miller shut off the automobile motor, pulled her husband from behind the wheel and opened the doors before calling police and a pulmotor squad. The squad revived him sufficiently that he could be taken to the hospital.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Leila W. Starr.

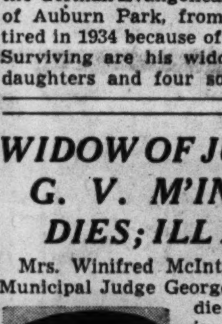
Mrs. Leila Wheelock Starr, widow of Merritt Starr, a widely known Chicago attorney for 50 years, died yesterday in her home, 695 Prospect avenue, Winnetka. Mrs. Starr, who was 85 years old, had been ill for a year. Private funeral services will be conducted tomorrow in Rosehill cemetery chapel. Mrs. Starr was a native of Cleveland, O., and came to Chicago after her marriage, Sept. 8, 1885, to Mr. Starr, who had been a classmate in Oberlin college. Mrs. Starr leaves a son, Dr. Paul Starr, with whom she lived, and two daughters, Mrs. Newton Jenkins and Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns.

The Rev. Alfred C. Menzel.

The Rev. Alfred Carl Menzel, 72 years old, died yesterday in Evangelical hospital. Born in Green Garden, Ill., he had been a minister 45 years, 31 of which were spent as pastor of the German Evangelical Zion's church of Auburn Park, from which he retired in 1934 because of failing health. Surviving are his widow, Anna, two daughters and four sons.

WIDOW OF JUDGE G. V. M'INTYRE DIES; ILL A YEAR

Mrs. Winifred McIntyre, widow of Municipal Judge George V. McIntyre, died early today in her home at 733 Gordon terrace after a year's illness. She was born in Chicago 68 years ago and for the last 25 years had been president of the Catholic Big Sisters. In 1935 she became public guardian of Cook county. She also was president of the Women's Chicago Beautiful club and a former director of the national council of Catholic women. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Mary Davis and Mrs. Evelyn Conley. Funeral services have not been arranged.



Mrs. Winifred McIntyre.

Joseph Losee.

Joseph Losee, Hebron, Ill., farm equipment manufacturer, died yesterday in Presbyterian hospital where he underwent an abdominal operation a week ago. $5,000 IN CASH PRIZES!

DO YOU know the names of such famous comic characters as Dick Tracy, Skeezix, Orphan Annie, Moon Mullins, Winnie Winkle, Andy Gump and others appearing in the Daily Tribune? Can you identify them if the letters of their names are scrambled? If you can, you may win as much as $1,000 in cash.

Study the two pictures printed here. Can you re-arrange the letters to spell the names of two well-known comics? . . . These are the first of a series which will appear each day in the Chicago Daily Tribune. The Tribune will pay $5,000 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the best answers. Try your skill. It costs you nothing.

★ THE RULES ★

WHO CAN ENTER? This game is open to everybody—men, women, boys and girls everywhere—excepting employes of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families.

WHAT TO DO? Each week day a picture containing the scrambled name of a Tribune comic character will be published in the Daily Tribune until 45 have appeared. Unscramble the name. Use every letter in the picture. Write or print the name on the line provided. Facsimilies are acceptable. Hold all answers until you have the complete set of 45. Do not send them in separately.

WHERE TO SEND? Mail your entry by First Class Mail to "Comics," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. With your entry send a letter, giving your name and address, and telling in 50 words or less which is your favorite comic character and why. Letters will be considered only in the event of ties in naming the comics. Entries must be in the office of the Chicago Tribune by midnight one week after Name No. 45 has appeared.

BASIS OF AWARDS: Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept the judges' decisions as final. Awards will be paid to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved, complete sets of unscrambled names. Neither handwriting nor elaborateness will count. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid.

2,176 COMPOSERS JOIN IN W-G-N'S OPERETTA QUEST

46 States, Canada Are Represented.

A total of 2,176 entries had been received in the $10,500 W-G-N quest for the Great American operetta as the deadline for registration neared last midnight. Composers from 46 states, the District of Columbia, and Canada entered the contest to write an operetta that best captures the spirit of America.

Many outstanding composers, musicians, authors, conductors, dance band leaders, and music teachers are listed among the entries. Operettas must be submitted by Feb. 10.

A last minute entry was Bernard Herrmann, brilliant young composer, conductor and arranger. Herrmann, who is still under 30, is musical director for Orson Welles' dramatic show on CBS and wrote the score for Welles' picture, "Citizen Kane," and for the Walter Huston picture, "All That Money Can Buy."

Camp Forrest Soldiers Enter.

Another entry yesterday came from Sergt. Carl F. Lundstrom and Corp. Carlyle W. Rees at Camp Forrest, Tullahoma, Tenn. These registrants propose to adapt their "Maneuvers of '42," a topical musical revue of the day presented recently to benefit soldiers recreation at Camp Forrest, for entry in the competition. Sergt. Lundstrom wrote the music and Corp. Rees the lyrics.

Bob Chester, dance orchestra leader, also entered the competition yesterday. Chester is heard with his orchestra from time to time on the W-G-N Mutual Spotlight Band program.

Outstanding among the entries are George King Raudenbush, conductor of the Toledo Symphony orchestra; Edney Ridge, musical director of WBIG, Greensboro, N. C.; Percy Faith, director of music for the Contented Hour; Albert Hay Malotte, noted composer; H. Emerson McCrosky, Paramount Pictures songwriter; Raymond Scott, dance band leader; Dave Rose, director of music for the Don Lee network in California; Rich Hall and Joel Malone, writers for the "Stars Over Hollywood" program, and Buddy Rogers, movie star and band leader.

Others in Competition.

Others are David Brokman, composer of "Ode to Chicago"; Anthony Misuraca, former professor of music at the Royal academy in Naples, Italy; Doric Alviani, director of music at Massachusetts State college, Amherst, Mass.; Paul Vellucci, head of the Hartford, Conn., School of Music; Russell Widoe of the department of music, Minot, N. D., State Teachers college, and Josef Cherniavsky, musical director for the Yankee network in New England.

Three operettas will be selected as winners by the judges and will be presented during March on the Chicago Theater of the Air on W-G-N and the Mutual network. Composers of the three winning works each will receive $1,000 in prizes. The public will be asked to vote for the best of the three, and the winning composer will be awarded an additional $5,000.

W-G-N PROGRAM TO GIVE FACTS ON TIRE RATIONING

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Some of the questions motorists are asking about the tire rationing program are expected to be cleared up in a special broadcast titled "Tires for Defense" to be broadcast over W-G-N at 7:15 o'clock tonight. Speakers on the program will be Henry Pope Jr., state administrator of the new tire and tube rationing plan, and Murray M. Baker, vice chairman of the Illinois State Council of Defense.

Pope will explain in detail who is entitled to obtain tires under the nation-wide rationing plan. Baker will outline measures each motorist should take to make his tires last longer.

John C. Garand, inventor of the Garand semiautomatic rifle, will explain how he came to develop this now famous weapon of the United States army as a guest speaker on the series "I'm an American" to be broadcast over WCFL-NBC at 11:15 a. m. Sunday. Noted naturalized citizens appear on this series. Garand was born in Canada.

The world premiere of Philip Warner's suite, "Green Mansions," based on W. H. Hudson's novel, will be given its première by Roy Shield's orchestra on WMAQ-NBC at 11:05 p. m. Tuesday. Warner, who lives in Wilmette, is staff pianist at WCFL. Recently Leopold Stokowski and the NBC Symphony orchestra introduced Warner's "Sinfonietta."

GREEN TO SPEAK AT LINCOLN DAY G. O. P. DINNER

Gov. Dwight Green will be the principal speaker at the annual Lincoln day dinner of the Republican state central committee in Hotel Sherman Feb. 9, State Chairman Ben L. Berve announced yesterday. Senator Brooks and all other G. O. P. state officers also will be guests of honor.

"It is particularly appropriate in 1942," Berve said, "with our country at war that we again pay our respects to Illinois' great war President, Abraham Lincoln, who led the fight to preserve democracy for the citizens of our country just as we today are fighting to preserve democracy for the world. With all our thoughts on war the dinner this year will be devoted to patriotism and not politics."

723,139 Vehicle Licenses Sold by City During 1941

City Collector Louis Rixmann announced yesterday that last year 723,139 city vehicle licenses and transfers were issued, an increase of 78,622 over 1940. He said $5,791,570 was collected from the sale of vehicle licenses in 1941 compared to $5,451,818 in 1940.

"Justice Deferred"

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1941: By William MacLeod Raine)

INSTALMENT XLVII.

CASE CLOSED.

A crowd was gathering, attracted by the shooting. The banker set himself to make a neat little speech, but Waugh turned his back on him to answer the questions of a policeman who had just entered the bank.

"You kill these men?" the officer asked.

"Yes. After they started firing at me."

Several of those who had been present began to explain the circumstances. Edward Clinton interrupted.

"We'll go into my office," he said.

A captain of police and a patrolman joined them there a few minutes later. With them were three reporters, all eager for the story. They concentrated on Jack, to his great annoyance. He could see that he was being built up as the hero of the adventure, and he did not like it at all. Old Abner sputtered resentment at the way he had been shunted out of action, but Edward explained unctuously that the presence of mind of Mr. Waugh had undoubtedly saved the life of his father and frustrated the robbers.

"Nothing to that at all," Jack snapped. "He got in my way and I pushed him aside." All this fuss about nothing irritated him more than it might have done if his shoulder had not been aching from the wound in it. He wanted to get to a doctor and have it dressed.

"You might of busted my leg," the old-timer protested shrilly. "Just when I was getting a bead on those birds."

"One of them escaped," Waugh said impatiently to the captain. "Probably two. For there must have been an outside man waiting with a car. Why don't you get after them instead of fooling around here?"

"None of 'em escaped," the officer retorted in a hard clipped voice. "The car smashed up and killed the driver. We got the other as he was running away."

"A scratch, but I'd better see a doctor," Jack replied. He turned to the police officer. "If and when you want me I'll be at the Southern hotel."

Jim Fallon had been right after all when he had insisted on his taking a revolver with him to the harmony meeting. As the little line rider had suggested, trouble had jumped up at him unexpectedly.

Jack Waugh declined to accept the advice of the doctor that he go to a hospital for a few days. On the open range broken bones and even gunshot wounds were not rare, and it was not the custom of the hardy victims to coddle themselves. The bullet from Parker's revolver had made a clean flesh wound. In a week the Texan expected to be as good as new. He compromised with the doctor and spent two days in bed reading Conan Doyle's "The White Company," after which he put himself into circulation again.

Accompanied by Jim Fallon, he called on the district attorney, Reeves, who listened attentively to the evidence offered by Waugh against the Clintons in the case of his murdered father. Reeves was a pleasant young man, an able lawyer, and on the whole a good prosecuting officer.

"Do you think this is evidence enough to convict, Mr. Waugh?" he asked.

"Isn't it a jury's duty to decide that?" Jack parried.

"Not unless I feel the case ought to be taken to trial. Frankly, I don't. You couldn't hang a yellow dog on such testimony."

"Jim here saw Brad Clinton and Warren Tracy running out of the Longhorn corral just after the shooting. Brad still had a revolver in his hand."

"The defense could claim they were running after the outlaws who had killed your father. Another point would stand out like a sore thumb. If Fallon believed them guilty of this murder why did he go to work for Brad soon after?"

"He was coerced."

Reeves smiled skeptically. "You can't keep a man intimidated for 20 years. No jury will believe that."

"You don't think the Clintons killed my father." Altho the words were in the form of a statement Jack put them as a question.

"I don't know. Maybe they did. The point is that we can't prove it beyond a reasonable doubt."

"As a matter of fact, you don't want to prove it."

"No, I don't," the attorney answered bluntly. "I see no profit in opening up the records of a feud that has been dead for 20 years." He lifted a hand, to stop for a moment the Texan's comment. "I know what you were about to say, that my decision is swayed by the power of the Clintons. That isn't quite fair. If you had a good case I would prosecute. But it is as full of holes as a sieve. I would look like a fool trying to push it. A district attorney has to use horse sense. For instance, I can try you for carrying concealed weapons. What would it buy me or the community? The unanimous feeling of Santa Rita is that you did a public service by stopping the robbery of the First National. So I use discretion and look the other way."

Jack felt that from the district attorney's point of view he was right. The case against the Clintons was leaky. As a matter of public policy there could be no profit in reopening it. Moreover, Jack realized that his own desire had changed.

As a matter of fact he had presented what evidence he had to Reeves, but he was aware—not without some dissatisfaction with himself—that he no longer had an urgent wish to avenge the death of his father. Too many factors had come into the situation during the last few days. The most vital one was that he had killed three men. He had slain all of them in self-defense. Nonetheless he was sick of carnage. There came a time when to press a right became wrong. He wanted peace.

Also, his hatred against the Clintons had withered. Brad and old Abner might be bad citizens. But who was he to set himself up as judge over them? Young Abner at least was a fine fellow. From the first he had shown himself friendly, and once had saved his life. He was, too, a dear friend of Mary Lane, probably the man whom she was going to marry. It would not be possible to punish his relative without his feeling it almost as much as they did.

Waugh rose from his chair and nodded at the lawyer. "All right," he said, with a satiric smile. "Case closed. You may tell the Clintons that I have thrown my hand in. I'm thru. The war is over."

Reeves showed his relief.

"I'm glad," he said. "I'll get word to them at once."

On the lean brown face of the Texan there was a mocking smile. "I expect they have run out of killers temporarily," he drawled. "They won't have to lay in a new supply just yet if I am off their black list."

"Aren't you a little hard on them?" Reeves asked amiably. "Some of the Clintons are good representative citizens."

"Perhaps I am," Jack allowed. "It's my vanity. Five hundred dollars used to be the price of rubbing out any scrub rustler. Old Ab might have stretched it to $1,000 in my case. He got $11,000 from my father's saddle bags after he had him killed. Since I'm the last of the Waughs, I feel he could have afforded to pay a premium for me."

The lawyer laughed. "You're still a last ditcher, Mr. Waugh. I won't argue that with you. At any rate you come out of the war with your flag flying. You're a victor all along the line, and you finish with a great gesture. After you have outfought and outmaneuvered the enemy, you shoot down the bandits robbing their bank and save old Abner from being killed by them."

"Don't blame me for that," Waugh said wryly. "Parker and Peake had it in for me. Abner and the bank weren't in it, not from the moment they saw me. I had to fight to keep my hide from being nailed to a fence."

STRIVE TO SAVE MOTHER-TO-BE WHO SHOT SELF

Physicians at Ravenswood hospital were striving last night to save the lives of an expectant mother and her unborn child. The young woman, Mrs. Catherine Orth, 23 years old, fired a .38 caliber bullet into her body earlier in the day at her home, 3651 North Damen avenue, while despondent over illness. Hospital authorities said Mrs. Orth's chance of recovery is favorable and that X-ray photos will be taken to determine whether the child can be saved.

THE Kitchen Kibitzer

A look over the shoulder of the kitchen manager in an attempt to speed, lighten and add some novelty to her daily routine.

Another use for those leafy celery tops. Mince or grind them, add salt and lemon juice and mix with butter. Good canape or sandwich spread.

Browning a steak or pot roast increases its flavor. Flank or round steak, and pot roast may be dredged with flour before browning. Tender steaks and roasts shouldn't be floured. And they'll brown as they broil or roast, without special attention.

O, dear, company for dinner and the silver tarnished again! One of those treated cloths which wipe away discoloration in a trice can be a life saver at a time like this.

Aged steaks are better, of course. And buy them at least an inch thick, preferably 1½ to 2 inches thick. Then you'll have the meat all brown and savory on the outside and pinkly rarish within. Ah, heaven, surely!
• • •
Not cabbage salad, when you're serving broccoli as a vegetable! These two are relatives, and don't belong in the same meal, even tho one is cooked and the other uncooked.

Party Whirl Takes Eleanor Cochran East

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO whirls by the Princeton Trianglers in one week is the record which Debutante Eleanor Cochran will hang up in Baltimore this week-end. Last Monday night the Trianglers swelled the stag line ranks at Miss Cochran's and Miss Diana Hill's debut party, and tomorrow night the Princetonians will be among the guests at a party which Mrs. George Bowdoin of Baltimore will give for Miss Cochran. Their show, "Ask Me Another," will be presented in Baltimore tomorrow night.

Miss Cochran departed yesterday and will attend the Baltimore Assembly tonight. Its governors had considered calling the ball off, but decided instead to make the party much simpler than usual but to go ahead. Miss Cochran's mother, Mrs. John L. Cochran, lived in Baltimore as a girl, and the debutante is visiting two of her mother's bridesmaids, Mrs. Bowdoin and Mrs. James McHenry. Mrs. McHenry will entertain at dinner for Miss Cochran tonight and Mrs. Bowdoin will give a dinner before the Triangle party tomorrow. The deb will return to Chicago on Sunday.

Luncheon Being Given Today for Two Debutantes.

Two debutantes, Miss Sallie Ellen Welsh and Miss Anne Northrop, will be the special guests at a luncheon which Mrs. Mellen C. Martin, Mrs. Dwight Green, and Mrs. Chesser M. Campbell will give at the Indian Hill club today at 1 o'clock.

A starred item on the debutante calendar today is a supper-dance which Lewis Linn McArthur Jr. will give for his debutante niece, Miss Betty McArthur, in the Camellia House of the Drake. The deb is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Selim W. McArthur of Scott street.

A tea from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon will open an exhibition of paintings, watercolors, and prints by Max Beckmann, German artist now in Amsterdam, at the Arts club this afternoon. Mrs. Edward B. Smith will be the hostess with Mrs. Howard Kornblith and Miss Emily Larned as her assistants. Mrs. Milo Winter is doing the table decorations. Among those who will pour are Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Alden S. Boyer, Mrs. Felix Borowski, Mrs. George A. Poole, and Mrs. Edmund Russell. Others who have been asked to assist at the tea tables are Mrs. John M. Holabird, Mrs. William Sidell, Miss Adela Barrett, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. Robert McGann, and Miss Clara MacGowan.

Junior Walter Kohlers Have Annual New Year Party

The same group that every year spends New Year's with the junior Walter Kohlers in Wisconsin departed on Wednesday for a long week-end in Kohler. There is certain to be plenty of skating, sleighing, and skiing, for Mrs. Kohler sent word there was enough snow there to insure good winter sports. In the group are Mrs. Kohler's sisters, Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham and Mrs. James G. Conger, Mr. Corham, Mr. Conger, the Herbert Woodwards, the Charles Cutters, and the William Deknatels. Mr. Deknatel is the architect who designed the Kohlers' stunning modern house which was built several years ago and "house-warmed" with a similar New Year's house party. Eugene McVoy, Mrs. Kohler's brother, who is recovering from serious injuries suffered in an automobile accident, has recovered sufficiently to be able to take part in some of the festivities. He has been with the Kohlers since the accident.

Roger Q. Whites Giving Party at Lakeside Home.

Another New Year's house party in the country is being given by the Roger Q. Whites in their home in Lakeside, Mich. Their guests were invited for New Year's eve or for the whole week-end. The L. Edward Harts, Mr. and Mrs. Theron T. Chapman, and the Robert McKennas were among those who drove up on Wednesday. Others included the junior Joseph E. Otises of South Bend.

Miss Priscilla Payne will give a house party over this long week-end at the Barrington farm of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Payne of Glencoe.

Several members of the Snow Chase club departed Wednesday afternoon for La Crosse, Wis., to spend the week-end partying and skiing. Among those in the party are Mr. and Mrs. Neil Williams, the William Millers, Miss Barbara Hobart, Theodore De Boer, Edward Baumann, Miss Margot Atkin, Mr. and Mrs. John Pederson, Henry W. Meers, and Everett L. Millard.

Another group plans to go up to Lake Geneva to try the new runs at Palmyra and still others will go to Slinger, Wis., near Milwaukee, either today or tomorrow.

Harris School Trustees Observing Anniversary.

Today from 4 to 7 o'clock the trustees of the Harris school will receive in the school, 2400 Lake View avenue, to observe the 20th anniversary of its founding. In the spring of 1921 a group of 12 women met at Mrs. Charles Garfield King's to organize a school that would prepare their sons for entrance to eastern secondary schools. Miss Lillian Harris was selected to open the school that September. The Webster hotel was its home until 1934, when the Albert Edward Leight home at Fullerton parkway and Lake View avenue was taken over.

A girls' school had been opened in the Parkway hotel in 1923, but both the boys' and the girls' schools were housed in the new home.

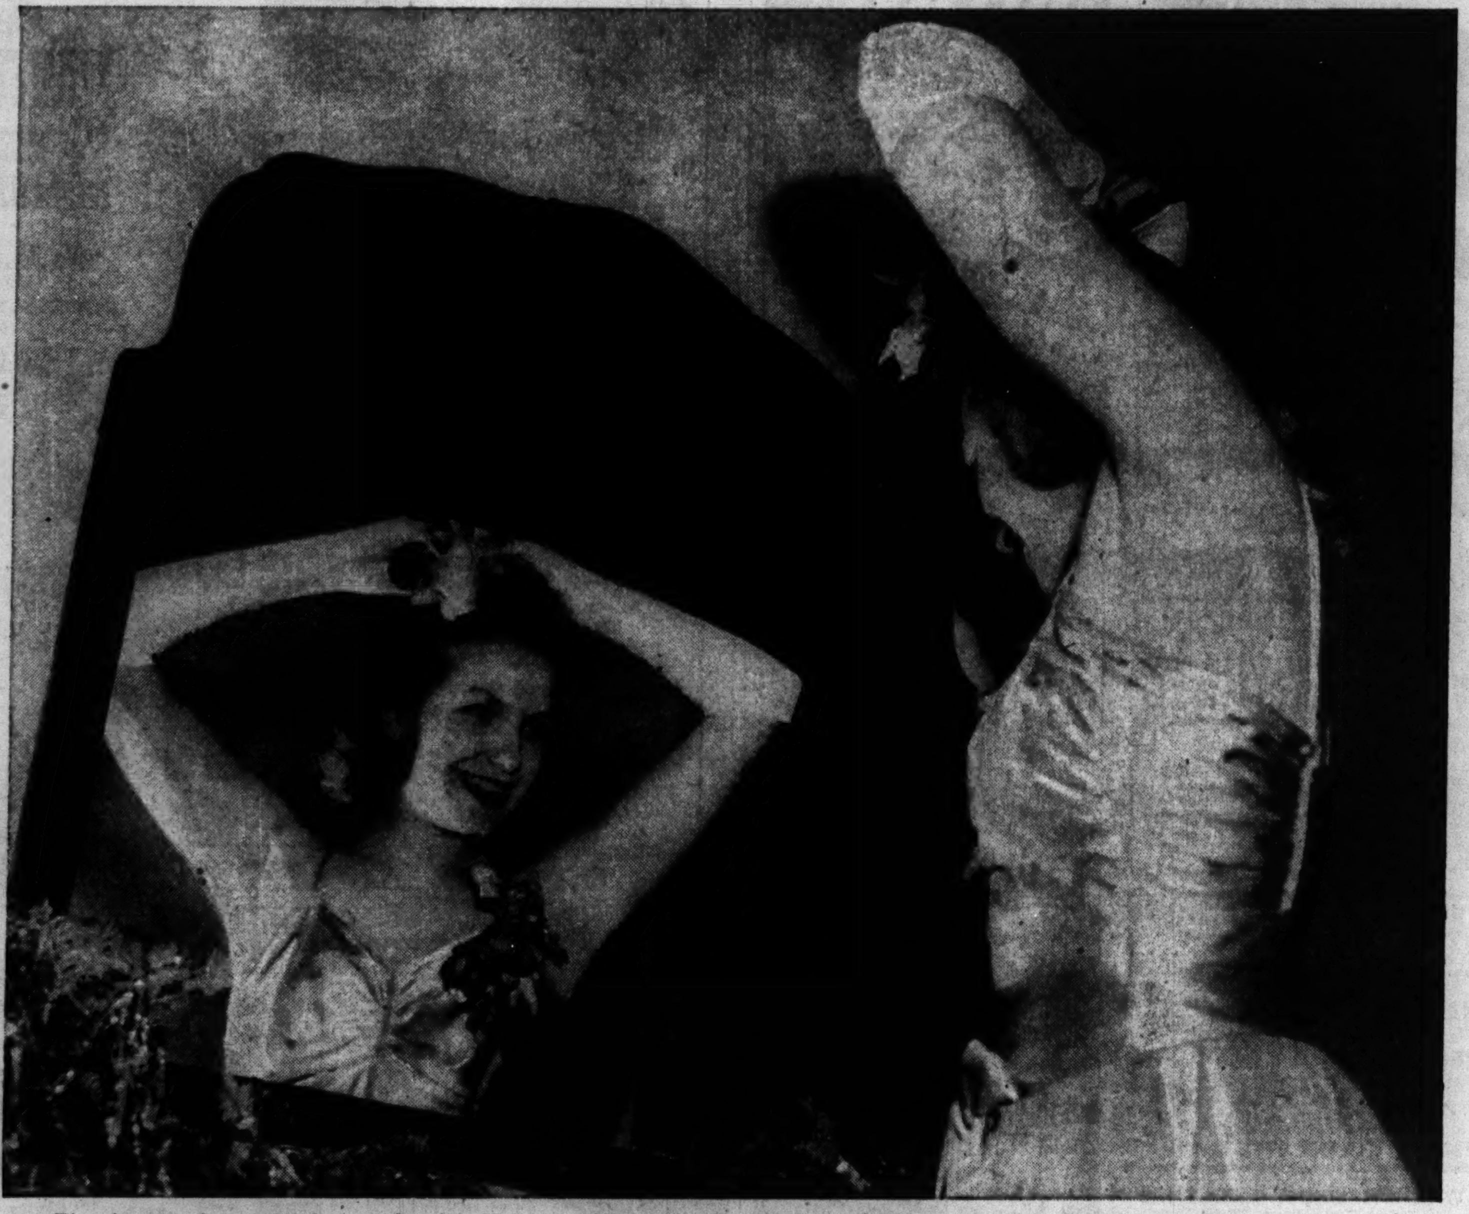
Holiday Partying of the Sub-Debs Rapidly Drawing to Close



The photographer snapped pretty Patricia Kelley as she was arranging orchids in her hair between dances at a recent party for the sub-debs. Evening gowns, which have been worn by most of the schoolgirls every night during the holiday season will be put away in protecting bags on Sunday for all the private schools of the city and suburbs resume studies on Monday, and again festivities for the younger set will be confined to week-ends. By Tuesday practically all of the girls and boys who go away to school will have departed.

New Knitted Dresses Take Shoppers' Eyes

BY REA SEEGER.

Just because all trains roaring south are filled to capacity, and we, left at home, have fun deciding most of the travelers are probably sissies, there are plenty of new clothes available to take the edge off our green eyed state of envy. Take a look at the knitted clothes for proof. Or the sleek streamlined new gabardine suits to slide under winter coats, or the gay new printed dresses, or the whopping big prints that make the snazzy new dinner dresses for mid-season wear . . . or the saucy new hats.

The knitted outfits now ready are knockouts. Knits no longer terrify the shopper with gnawing little doubts that beautifully smart as they look, the darn things will sag, bulge, or go shapeless after a half dozen appearances. Those hazards have been magically banished. Knitted dresses, suits, and two piece combines of dress and swagger coat are as smoothly fashioned as any dress of wool or crêpe.

The skirts are cut in gores just like any flannel or wool skirt, the tops are deftly worked to copy the clever shirred details in silk or jersey, and sleeves are cut and fitted with the same inspired distinction as in any of the newest daytime dresses of any other material.

Colors are fascinating, from delectable pastels to subtle grays, cornflower blue, caramel, beige, chartreuse. Best of all are the stunning copper, cinnamon, and ginger tones, those beauties that go so perfectly with black. Jacket dresses and good looking one piece dresses are models especially tempting because of the dressmaker look, the smart hand knitted texture, the smooth and lasting fit, and the long wearing qualities. These clothes not only are perfect for the traveler, but also serve as the warm color contrast for dark winter wardrobes.

Very chic hats, also of the knitted variety, come in the exactly matched colors of any of the dresses and they are not the uninspired toppers of former years. They are knitted in pill boxes, calots with huge tassels, brimmed sailors, intricately swathed and twisted toques and turbans, and off-the-face models.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

"I Like Work."

For that lackadaisical after holiday feeling—shared by every white collar girl today—this saying of Jerome K. Jerome: "I like work; it fascinates me. I can sit and look at it for hours."

Monkey Shortage.

The war has complicated the career of one young woman in an unusual way. Serving as purchasing agent for a large institution, she buys small animals for medical research laboratories. Her present predicament concerns the tiny, dark brown monkey which is difficult to import from India. Ordinarily the shipments would come thru the Suez canal, but are now rerouted around the Cape of Good Hope. The longer trip not only makes the shipments more expensive, but the loss of monkeys en route is quite an item.

From this young woman I learn, to my surprise, that there is such a thing as "bats in your belfry." In fact, many of the bats she buys—also for medical purposes—are found in rural districts where they hibernate in high, dark places. Also, she buys frogs and jack rabbits and snakes [from the snake king, who signs himself "Rattlingly yours"], and not long ago she stayed up half the night for long distance calls every 20 minutes to locate a ferret in Ohio which had to be put on a midnight train. It arrived, as per schedule, the next morning. And our career girl breathed a sigh of relief.

Giggle Excused.

What is this world coming to? note: Giggling during business hours is taboo, but the section manager looked tolerantly upon the polite snicker which trickled thru the book department when a customer sailed majestically into the section and asked for the "religious bar." Unbalanced, no doubt, by the "hat bar" and the "jewelry bar," the dear lady was in search of an ecclesiastical book.

Defense Cookery.

It seems that the business girl's interest in cookery exceeds even an ardent suitor's fondest hope. For—there is still another "after hours" cooking school which offers an especially attractive course in "defense cookery." Not a bad idea at that, for the business woman must eat in defense of her health . . . her job . . . her looks . . . and her morale. Particular thought is given to the girl who has been a white collar girl ever since she got out of school and, as a result, never found time to learn to cook. The beginner's course, highlighting "meals with most nutrition at least cost" looks plenty delectable . . . .even after a week of holiday overeating.

Pluck Vs. Luck.

Thru the mail comes another suggestion for the beginner in business, offering proof that it is not so much beginner's luck as beginner's pluck which cinches a job. This is it: Don't be afraid to discard the rules you learned in a business course for the rules of the firm for which you work. If necessary, forget all about the course in bookkeeping . . . in business English. Don't—as a beginner—try to change the standardized methods of an established business.

Holy Name Union Issues Call for War Prayers

A call to 200,000 men for a crusade of prayer on Jan. 11, has been issued by the Holy Name union of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, which will invoke divine blessing on the country's war effort. The Rev. E. J. Kelley, executive director of the union, said services will be held in all parish churches this year instead of in Honly Name cathedral. Mass for communion will be offered in each church, followed by communion breakfast meetings.

Lecture by Dr. Bradley.

The American Speech committee of the Chicago Woman's club will present Dr. Preston Bradley, author and minister of the People's church of Chicago, in a lecture on "Speech and the Church" at 11 o'clock tomorrow in Zeisler hall, 72 East 11th street.

Warm Clothes Are Needed by Elderly Invalid

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Many of the elderly men and women who are recipients of old age pensions are finding it increasingly difficult to meet ordinary living expenses on their allowances, which generally average not more than one dollar a day.

Room rent takes at least one-half of the monthly income, frequently more, and the rising price of food adds to the difficulty of existing on the remainder of the money.

Mrs. V. tells of her needs:

"Dear Miss Brown: Please pardon me for coming to you again, but you have been so thoughful of my wants in the past that I hope you won't mind my asking for things I need badly.

"I am working so hard to keep from being a shut-in. This winter, as last, they tell me I must walk every day. This I do—with a cane—but I cannot endure the cold. Could you help me to get a woolen slip, a black wool skirt or dress and a warm bathrobe, size 40?

"This is a long list, I know, but I want so much to get well. I'm very disheartened and lonely and the winter looks long to me. If it were not for my radio and Bible, I don't know what I'd do."

The name and address will be supplied to any interested reader.

Ovation Given Chilean for His Liszt Playing

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Claudio Arrau, a handsome Chilean who looks more like the Anthony Eden type of diplomat than a musician, came to Orchestra hall last night to make the first Chicago appearance of his adult life [he was here 18 seasons ago as a boy of about 19].

He played the Liszt E flat piano concerto with the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Hans Lange's direction and played it so persuasively as to compel the audience to revise its estimate of the piece upward.

His secret probably lay in the fact that he approached the concerto with a full belief in its beauty and importance. He was not able to make it sound like a great work, but he did manage to find more substance in it than any pianist in recent memory.

He was determined to make his listeners hear the things which his own loving study had unearthed, and to this end he phrased with an unusual intentness and vividness. Also he utilized a large variety of attractive tonal effects—a fine solidity of sound in the first movement and a very beautiful silvery quality in the allegretto.

All of this, plus the pianist's sheer virtuosity, touched off a demonstration. As encore Mr. Arrau added Liszt's transcription of the Chopin song, "My Joys."

Mr. Lange and the orchestra opened with a brilliant account of Chabrier's "Gwendoline" overture, and followed it with Schumann's joyful, rhapsodic "Rhenish" symphony. Except in the final movements, where the brass was not quite the easy golden stream of sound that one might desire, the performance adequately projected the symphony's character.

DANCERS DEPART

BY CECIL SMITH.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo danced its farewell for the season at the Civic Opera house last night in a light and rather unsubstantial program consisting of "The Nutcracker," "Spectre de la Rose" and "Saratoga." Altho the audience was not large, it seemed to include most of the city's most demonstrative balletomanes.

Alexandra Danilova replaced Tamara Toumanova as both the snow queen and the sugar plum fairy in "The Nutcracker," lifting the time-worn steps, turns and leaps far out of the category of routine by her indescribable daintiness and aristocracy. Igor Youskevitch was perhaps a little weary after a busy week in which he has had to take over some of the assignments of the indisposed André Eglevsky; but even when he is a bit tired Mr. Youskevitch remains the finest male ballet dancer on the American stage today.

In its engagement of 9 performances the company presented 15 different ballets, of which three were novelties and two revivals. The troupe moves to St. Louis today, and Chicago will be without big time ballet until the promised arrival of the Ballet theater two or three months hence.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

Free Chow.

We spent three hours the other day making sandwiches at the Service Men's center at 176 West Washington, taking turns buttering and slicing with Suzette Morton Hamill of the Pocahontas Press. Neither of us was very expert when we reached the heel of the loaves—those long rye ones with tapered ends. We went over to talk to two boys on their way from Rantoul field to California. They asked who was the nice lady who had just given them some chocolate cake, and when we said it was Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of the mayor of Chicago, they were surprised and pleased. The two boys were in such a hurry to get to California they weren't even taking the leave granted. All the best luck to them, one from Texas, the other from New England.

There's a skit in the Princeton Triangle show about three songwriters who are trying to write a patriotic hit. Their assembly line methods are funny, and in the course of the skit they plagiarize with naive enthusiasm. The song itself, however, is actually by Mark Lawrence, president and shining light of the Triangle club. It seems to stick in our head even more than the lovely "Behind the Moon" or the catchy "All of a Sudden, Suddenly," also by Mark Lawrence, the former in collaboration with Newton Allen. Here's how the chorus ends:

Keep 'Em Rollin'
Keep 'Em Flyin'
Keep democracy from dyin'
On America!
Come on America!
America is O. K.

Washington, 1856.

Here's something from an 1856 "Cyclopedia of History" which may interest you. Washington, D. C., is described as having 23,203 inhabitants. "Its natural situation is pleasant and healthy," says the cyclopedia, "and it is laid out on a plan which, when completed, will render it one of the handsomest and most commodious cities of the world. Among the public edifices of the city are the capitol, the President's house, the general postoffice and four buildings for the executive departments of the national government."

Jingle Bells.

In the mail, an invitation to come out to the country when the snow is deep for a ride in a cutter [a one horse sleigh] with a buffalo robe and a charcoal warming pan.

Ixtaccihuatl Again.

L. C. H. gives us the final word on Ixtaccihuatl, the famous mountain in Mexico. It's Is-tla-see-watl, he says. The gratuitous "l" in the second syllable is just something the natives throw in, for luck, maybe.

Taxes or Taxis.

A Chicagoan visiting in New York telephoned a friend and in the conversation apologized for being unable to invite the friend out for a round of night clubs—because of taxes. "O, I don't worry about them at all," the friend said blithely. This seemed to shock the Chicagoan, who raved for several minutes and finally asked: "What do you mean, you don't worry? What do you do?" "Well," came the reply, "I take buses."

Chicago to Fill Red Cross War Quota by Feb. 15

Chicago's participation in the national Red Cross drive to raise a $50,000,000 war relief funds is expected to be in full swing next week, James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter, said yesterday.

Chicago's quota in the drive is $3,750,000, which Forgan hopes to raise by Feb. 15. The drive should not be confused, he said, with the annual Red Cross roll call which was completed recently. The roll call provides money for the normal peacetime activities of the local Red Cross. The national drive now under way is to meet emergency war demands.

Of the $50,000,000, half will go to maintain services which the Red Cross traditionally renders the armed forces, he said. Ten million will be set aside for civilian emergency relief, $5,000,000 for civilian defense activity such as safety, health, instruction, home nursing and first aid, and $10,000,000 for miscellaneous services.

"How much will be spent on Red Cross work in the Chicago district depends upon war needs here," he explained. "We already have been called upon to launch a greatly expanded program in virtually every field, including the new blood bank. This will require expenditures far in excess of funds available thru roll call memberships."

A Chicago boy in the armed services, wherever he may be, always is the responsibility of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, he said. Thru the war relief fund the chapter maintains whatever service may be necessary for him and for his family here.

"This is a morale factor quite beyond the realization of the average person," Forgan said. "Often the conditions in a boy's home change after he leaves for service. Perhaps a father dies, leaving the family without funds, or illness develops which threatens the family income.

"Word of this, reaching the man in service, tends to break his morale. It is the task of the Red Cross field agent to communicate with the Chicago chapter so that it may correct the condition thru financial or other aid."

Woman of 30 Needs Charm to Win Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

"I am a woman of 30, and lately have begun to fear that I never shall marry. I have no social graces or accomplishments. I don't dance much, because when asked to dance I become so nervous I actually tremble.

"I guess my attitude toward men isn't right. I'm too frank and honest I can't 'put on an act' with them. I detest affectation in others. As far as appearances go, I pride myself on being a blonde with enviable skin, tall, wearing smart clothes, and I am still taken for years younger than I am. What do you think is wrong with me? GRACE."

There's not a thing wrong with you, Grace, that cannot be remedied, and in short order, too. It may help you to know that, as one gets older, one must bring graces and charms to the market of romance or there's no hope of competing for favors. Along about 30, say, youth and youthful beauty are not the thing to compete for. Leave that to those to whom it physically belongs, and muster every grace and pleasing manner possible, for these are what count in the older person. They can be made to account profitably, however.

Learn to dance and dance well. Put on an act by being the nicer you that lies buried under that hardshelled surface. It pays. The route you're now pursuing gets you nowhere.

Homemakers can look forward to ample food supplies in 1942. There are relatively large supplies of food on hand and the experts say prospects look good for continued large production. Supplies of imported foods are likely to be curtailed somewhat, however.

The outlook for some foods is particularly good for the first months of the year. Eggs for instance are being produced in greater quantities now than they were a year ago and seasonal increases in production usually begin now and continue until late in the spring. Prices usually slide downward with increased production. Even with government purchase of eggs for war needs the total egg supply is about the same as it was a year ago.

Butter prices, too, can be expected to slip gradually lower as the spring season advances. Production of dairy products of all kinds is heavy but some prices are likely to be higher than a year ago.

You can look for lower pork prices from now until late in the winter if all goes according to expectations. The number of pigs which come to market usually increases about this time of year. Lard, by the way, is less plentiful and more expensive than it was a year ago. But even so, lard is comparatively cheap. Other shortenings and oils are also less abundant than last year. Shipping difficulties may affect the supply of cocoanut and palm oils.

Right at the moment supplies of beef are larger than a year ago, and this is particularly true of the better grades, tho the proportion of higher grade beef will probably decline in relation to total beef supplies from now on. Lamb supplies are about the same as a year ago.

Supplies of roasting chickens are always largest about this time of year and broilers will be more plentiful again late in the spring and early in summer.

It's too early to make any predictions for fresh vegetable crops next summer, but vegetable bargains from the warmer states are numerous now. Sweet potato supplies are plentiful and the price low.

Cabbage supplies are larger than last year and cabbage is an excellent buy. All the topped root vegetables are very low priced and bunch beets, carrots and turnips from warmer climates are reasonable. Lettuce has been dropping in price consistently during the week but is still rather high. Chicory and escarole are both good buys, and possible lettuce substitutes for salads.

Spinach, broccoli and green peppers are all moderately priced, as are mushrooms which are still in season.

Oranges are more plentiful than last year. The Texas and Florida crops are selling at lower prices than the California varieties at present. Tangerines are considerably higher priced than a year ago.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

"My family aren't fond of fish, but when I serve this haddock in cream, they just can't get enough of it," writes Mrs. Michael Kenny, 4531 Congress street, Chicago.

Mrs. Kenny wins today's $5 recipe contest prize. If you have a good recipe you'd like to enter in the contest, write it out clearly and explicitly and send it to Recipe Contest, Chicago Tribune. There's a daily prize for some good cook, and it may be you.

HADDOCK IN CREAM

[Serves six].

1½ pounds haddock fillets
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt, pepper
3 small onions
1 cup cream

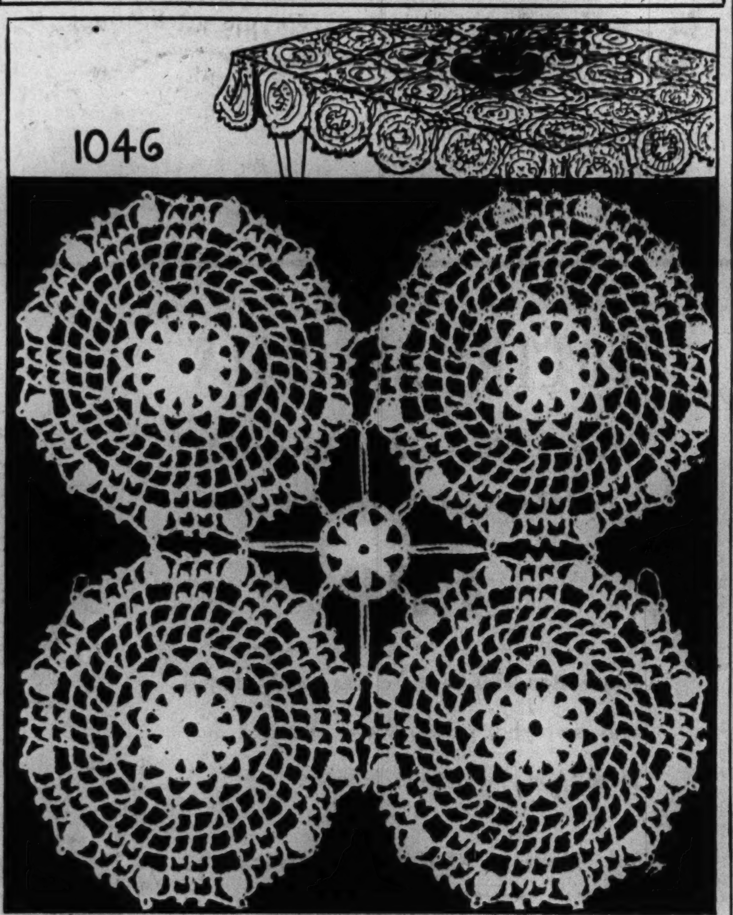
Old Lace Medallion



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Winter time is the best season of the year to start and finish that crocheted tablecloth promised to one's self or a family member. This medallion, adapted from an old lace design, is one of the loveliest in the category of crochet work. It is not difficult to create and a choice of thread may be used. A medium, mercerized, crochet cotton is best for daily use. A fine thread is effective and presents the fragile effect found in fine laces.

For instructions in crocheting the old lace medallion for a tablecloth, No. 1046, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

According to one of the wisest medical men we know, the best beauty and health resolution we women could choose for the annual New Year's gesture concerns sleep. He feels that nothing contributes so much to mental and physical balance as the habit of getting the necessary sleep—and getting it regularly.

You'll know, by your own experience, that he certainly has a sound notion there. When you get your sleep your nerves are sturdier, your step springier and your eyes brighter.

You might even have noticed that sleep restores a certain amount of clarity to the complexion, which reflects fatigue in a subtle fashion that affects its color cast. Exhaustion, from which so many women suffer unnecessarily, gives the skin a gray or sallow tinge that is drearily ageing.

There can't be flat rules about the amount of sleep adults need. Some can get by on very little, others need long stretches almost every night in the week. Your own rule should be made in relation to the way you feel. If eight hours nightly are what you need to feel fresh and vigorous each day and to look your best, that's the formula for you.

Getting your proper rest regularly can just about double your capacity for work. You'll find, if you're consistently caught up on sleep, that you can organize your time better and that lack of jitters will eliminate the waste motion that formerly consumed so much energy.

The men in the service will be disciplined to sounder health habits than most of them probably ever knew before. It's up to us women to discipline ourselves. The old "early to bed and early to rise" adage is a good one to adopt, starting now. ELEANOR NANGLE.

American Clothes to Be Sober of Cut and Calm of Color

New York, Jan. 1 (AP).—Americans, in order to keep their army the best dressed in the world, are going to wear clothes of more serious color and sober cut.

The time may even come when Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen will be able to buy far fewer suits and dresses but right now the huge woolen industry is trying to work out this problem:

Conserve wool, make at least twenty million soldier uniforms, besides millions of army overcoats, socks, and other items, and at the same time keep the supply of civilian clothing undiminished.

The Office of Production Management has told the manufacturers their supply of new wool for nonmiliary production—including suits, dresses, other clothing and rugs—would be restricted during the next three months to half or less than half the amount they used in the same period in 1941.

So to start with, the industry in 1942 will cut the color range in men's and women's clothes perhaps 60 per cent, saving chemicals hitherto used in dyeing but henceforth to be used in making explosives.

Furthermore, it may not be fashionable in wartime to wear double-breasted suits—since the extra material in that kind of garment is not essential—and the flaps on pockets may disappear.

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

Bob Hawk, that fast quipping quizmaster of the air, writes me that he failed three times in penmanship. I can well understand that because his writing is certainly far from the copybook style. Well, failing to write the stereotyped penmanship taught in school is more of an indication of a high I. Q. than otherwise.

One of the characteristics which throws Mr. Hawk's writing out of line with the regulation scripts is the unusual length of his upper loops. They are sometimes three and four times the height of his other letters. That means imagination plays a strong part in this young man's ability. His flights of fancy range high.

Mr. Hawk is amazingly naive, trusting and hopeful. His writing has the quality of the ever youthful Peter Pan in it. There are dreams and aspiration here. He has an easy, effortless way of getting himself across.

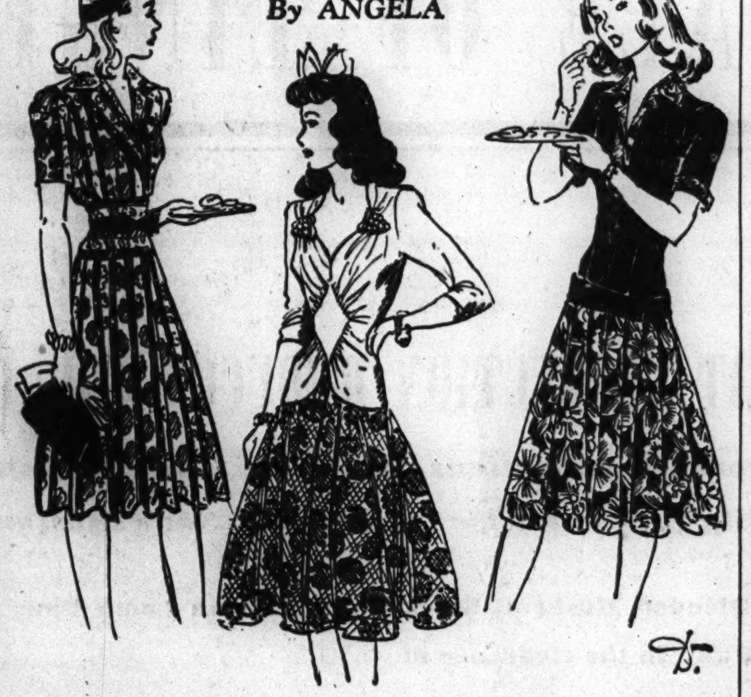
FASHIONS

By ANGELA



We have barely had a taste of winter—yet there is a sign of spring. And that sign is in the new print dresses that have blossomed in all the shop windows. There are polka dot prints, geometrical designs, flowers large and small, printed stripes, combinations of print and plain.

It is not an impractical idea to get yourself a present of a new print dress right now. You can brighten up the winter scene by wearing it under your heavy coat. And it will still be good when finally the cold tapers off and we ease into the spring warmth of April and May.

The first print, with the pattern going horizontally, vertically, and diagonally in the revers, is of a soft and flattering rayon jersey fabric. Brown is the predominating color of the print, pointed up with green and orange. Under $8.

The center model is not an actual print. But it has an overskirt of black lace the design of which is more clearly revealed by the lighter color of the dress itself. The dress can be had in aqua, light blue, rose or a soft gray green.

The middy top dress, which was one of the most widely advertised designs of the past season, is still with us though in a new guise. In this case the long fitted bodice is of a black crepe material and the printed skirt is rayon jersey. The skirt is a series of unpressed plaits. Under $8.

Some winning plays are so abstruse that failure to employ them is not a blot on the escutcheon of any except a master player, but when the crucial play stands out in clear sight, the wonder is that any player of reasonable experience can miss it!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

The final contract was difficult to reach. Indeed, there is some question whether or not North should have taken out the three no trump bid to persist in diamonds. Be that as it may, the five diamond contract was an excellent one and should have been fulfilled with ease.

West opened a low heart and declarer captured East's king with the ace. A heart was then ruffed with dummy's diamond four, and a club to the ace permitted the ruff of another heart with the diamond five. Declarer then returned to his hand with the spade ace and, blithely assuming that this ruffing process could go on forever, led his own last heart and ruffed with dummy's diamond six. East overruffed with the seven and, since his partner could not be put on lead in clubs, returned a low spade. West won with the king and made a good return, namely, his last heart. Now, whatever declarer did was wrong. If he ruffed with the diamond ace, East would later make the diamond king. If he refused to ruff in dummy, East would make the diamond king on the spot. The contract was inevitably lost.

It should be obvious that winning play was simplicity itself. After taking the opening lead with the heart ace and ruffing a heart, returning to the club ace and ruffing a second heart, declarer should have realized that suits do not always break 4-4-4-1. Hence there would be grave risk in attempting to ruff South's last heart with dummy's last low diamond. Declarer could well afford to give up one spade trick and one diamond trick if he had to lose no tricks in hearts or clubs. On that basis, declarer should have cashed the club king, then should have returned to his hand with the spade ace and ruffed his last heart with the diamond ace! After that, declarer could not possibly lose more than his spade ten and one diamond trick to the king.

As I said originally, a play of this type should not be overlooked by any one beyond beginners' grade.

Reno's 1941 Marriages Eclipse Divorces 10 to 1

Reno, Nev., Jan. 1 (AP).—The divorces got more notice in scrap-happy Reno, but 1941 mariages outnumbered them nearly 10 to 1. A record number—22,938 couples—were wed here in the year just ended. Divorce complaints, likewise a record, numbered 2,614. The previous highs, both in 1940, were 18,913 marriages and 2,314 divorce suits. Most of the bridal couples came from California and Oregon, where marriage laws are more stringent.

And the St. Luke's Choristers.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The gentle Schubert, inadequate in all save his music, has again inspired a screen play.

"New Wine" proffers him eulogy and commiseration and shows him arousing passion strongly akin to mother love in a beautiful woman—who loves him too much to permit him to sacrifice genius on the altar of marriage. . . . The name of the lady is Anna. . . . Don't ask me "what became of Mitzi?" because I don't know.

This picture, save for its great music and the presence of fascinating Ilona Massey, is unremarkable. . . . It is slow moving, not very believable, and its comedy sequences are terrible.

◆

Miss Massey portrays a young and efficient Hungarian farm manager who gives up her job to try to put Schubert across. . . . She gains access to Beethoven's presence, persuades him to look at and play an unfinished symphony by her lover, and is thrilled by the great master's generous appreciation of the young composer's genius. . . . Beethoven extracts from her a promise. Anna must not tell Schubert that he has approved the symphony, for that would soften the latter and interfere with the hard, earnest work necessary to finish the creation as it should be finished. . . . When it is completed, ah, then—she must bring Schubert to Beethoven . . . !

Well, the old master dies. . . . Anna leaves Schubert, sure that marriage would hamper him. . . . Schubert dies. . . . And we have his "Unfinished Symphony."

This is charmingly introduced. And the singing of the "Ave Maria" by the St. Luke's choristers provides a real thrill.

Miss Massey's performance provides lift and lilt to the production. Just to look at her were happiness enow. . . . Her husband, Alan Curtis, gives Schubert a touch of pepper that I liked. Most of the composer's depictors show him as sort of flabby and greasy.

Cast support is extremely so so. Direction, photography, and story likewise.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 1.—Year-end Hollywood phenomena included these: An air raid shelter was being built in a cemetery. Johnny Weissmuller appeared in a store suit in a "Tarzan" picture. Hedy Lamarr took Bette Davis' rôle in a broadcast of a Davis picture. J. Cheever Cowdin, who practically owns Universal, telephoned the studio that he had got married . . . and nobody knew who the heck the bride was. A lady reporter walked out of the Di Cicco-Vanderbilt wedding reception in the highest dudgeon since Ethiopia quit the league of nations. And there is an unconfirmed report that an unidentified Hollywoodian tried to get into the army as something less than a captain.

Ever since the day I got here, a long time ago, people have been asking if I like it out here; and I always say sure, if it only wouldn't rain in the winter. Then they ask me if I don't miss New York, and up to this minute I haven't missed it any more than I will miss Hollywood when I leave. But just now I read a piece in a copy of the New Yorker and I feel like a South Sea Islands remittance man whose check from home is overdue and who has just seen a Jap submarine playing tag with the mermaids. Anguish rends the breast.

The piece is about all of the wonderful goodies you can get in New York hotel restaurants. At the Pierre, for instance, "simple things like smoked salmon and mallard duck with wild rice are perfectly good, but since the menu is as florid as the trimmings, perhaps you should try something more fancy." Hellzbellz and ah me! Here in California there is a law against the importation of smoked fish and it is not on menus. Why, I don't know.

At the Maison "there are plenty of good staples on the menu—like fried silver smelts or boneless jumbo squab, or, at suppertime, some such dish as cold roast turkey a la gelee—and the chef, who really knows his business, will probably jump at the chance to dish up more exciting things if you say the word." What "the word" is the article does not state. It might be "Nuts!"

At the St. Regis "they have Chincoteagues from Virginia, and, for those who avoid bivalves, melon with some sort of fancy ham." Out here all ham is fancy and we think a bivalve is a two man submarine.

◆

But I'm getting pretty tired of this Spartan life. There is a report that soon all the movie stars will no longer be able to get cold hamburger sandwiches at their favorite drive-ins. The ingredients are being diverted to the construction of bomb shelters.

Brian Donlevy, who just finished "Trinidad" at Columbia, may next switch to Universal and a Damon Runyon yarn, "Butch Minds Baby."

Lecturer to Cover 600 Million Years in Talk at Museum

An invitation to "live 600 million years in a single afternoon" is contained in the announcement of a lecture, "Nature's 'March of Time'," by Paul G. Dallwig Sunday afternoon in the Field museum.

With the great collections of fossil animals and the restorations in mural paintings and dioramas to illustrate his subject, Mr. Dallwig will discourse on the principal states of animal life from the earliest fish forms to the beginning of man.

Because it is impracticable for large numbers to be taken on a lecture tour, the audience will be limited to adults. Reservations may be made by telephone or mail.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Giacomo Orlando, young Italian defense man of the Detroit Red Wings, who, in the Chicago Stadium New Year's night a year ago put on a disorderly demonstration which was completely overlooked because the brawl subsequently smoked up the all-time record hockey crowd, took a sound thrashing at the hands of Earl Seibert of the Hawks during last night's hockey game in the Stadium. The score of the game was 3 to 0 in favor of Detroit, but most of the 16,966 present probably lost sight of that in their glee over the way Seibert pummeled the supposedly tough young Wing trouble maker.

Seibert knocked down Orlando four times, twice before he had time to remove his gloves and twice more as Red Wings sought to throttle the ferocious and bare fisted Seibert.

Official Is Hit.

Orlando, obviously dazed by the slugging he received from Seibert, lurched around and took a pop at Linesman Donnie MacFadyen, who himself had knocked down Orlando early in the fight as he sought to quell the riot.

Seibert and Orlando both were given major penalties for fighting and Orlando was given a match penalty and sent to the bath house for the remainder of the game.

If not the roughest fight ever seen in a hockey game in Chicago, it certainly was the most popular in view of the drubbing Orlando took without being able to lay a hand on Seibert, even while Giacomo's team mates sought to hold Earl for the Italian to deliver a punch.

Recall Previous Incident.

A year ago Orlando picked a celebrating box holder for his show of hoodlumism, reaching over the rails for a quick knockout punch. Twelve nights later the Red Wings returned, and the publicity resulted in the record breaking crowd of 19,386. So far as became known President Frank Calder did not penalize Orlando.

The Wings are scheduled to return to the Stadium Jan. 11, but observers last night expected that even Calder wouldn't have the crust to turn Orlando loose in public for the sake of another big turnstile grab. When the dazed Orlando slugged an official of the league he made it tough for a whitewash by the league president.

It was the consensus of many fans that exciting as real fighting is on a hockey rink, Orlando has qualified as a menacing character. And the thrashing he took last night left him in a frenzy of revenge that might turn against spectators, as it did here a year ago. Calder's squirming is expected to be viewed with interest here.

If it hadn't been for Seibert's superb job of polishing off Orlando the spectators might have been more deeply saddened than they were, for the Hawks suffered their fifth straight defeat.

Wings Take Lead in Second.

Red Hamill, sixth player to draw a penalty in the first period, had one minute and 34 seconds to serve as the second period started. The Wings carried the puck into the Hawk defense zone from the opening face-off. There immediately was another face-off not far from the Chicago cage from which Carl Liscombe took the puck and batted it to Syd Howe. Syd took a hard shot which hit Goalie Sam Lo Presti's paddle and caromed home for the goal that was enough to win.

The next excitement came at 8:30 of the second period—the fight and the brawl. The second Detroit goal was made by Ken Kilrea in 13:05 of the final period. Mud Bruneteau and Liscombe gained assists. The third Wing goal was made by Connie Brown on an assist from Gus Giesebrecht. It came at 15:06 of the last period.

The New Year Comes.

The New Year comes, and all the bills
Of Christmastide are here,
As well as old ones that remain
From early in the year.
Our income tax will soon be due,
And also other things;
We don't know where the money went,
But surely it had wings!

The things we planned a year ago
Are nearly all undone,
Where time has gone we do not know—
What victories have we won?
Why strain and toil in keeping up
This resolution bluff?
The New Year comes but once a year,
And that is quite enough!

New Orleans, La., Jan. 1.—There comes a time in the life of every football team when sheer fight isn't enough. Missouri had plenty of courage in the 8th annual Sugar Bowl game at Tulane stadium today, but it didn't have quite enough power to cope with Fordham and the result was inevitable. The Rams won, 2 to 0, on an automatic safety in the early moments of the first quarter.

The game attracted a capacity throng of 73,000. The stands looked like a fantasy in technicolor from the work shop of a Hollywood producer. Vari-colored parasols gave the setting the appearance of toadstools in Make Believe land.

Just Two Passes Connect.

As the score indicates, there was little to choose between the teams and still you always had the idea that Fordham would win the game. Its line rose valiantly when the pressure was on. Its back field always had an operative in place when Missouri was endangering its goal.

Fordham, which had been expected to win by its superior forward passing, failed to complete an aerial. Missouri clicked on two of its five attempts for a gain of twenty-one yards. The Tigers, on the other hand, who were said to have one of the strongest running attacks in the land, were matched almost yard for yard by the Fordham ball carriers.

Battle of Lines.

It was essentially a battle of two mighty lines, tearing each other to pieces and chopping up most of the running plays in the process. Backs who had won honors in their sections were merely members of the supporting casts. The real actors were up front in the scrimmage line, where all struggles between two evenly matched teams are decided. It was there that plays perished. Occasionally gains by a Tiger or Ram back usually were offset by aggressive lines that immediately hurled ball carriers for a big loss. There was no continuity to either team's attack. It was in the main a contest of strangled offenses, each choked on its side of the 50 yard line.

The game was decided in the first quarter after a Fordham march bogged down on Missouri's 38 yard line, whence Jim Blumenstock punted over the Tigers' goal. Maurice Wade, who had relieved Harry Ice at quarter back for Missouri, fumbled and recovered for a ten yard loss, putting the ball on the Tigers' 10. Bob Steuber, Missouri's famous right half back, was stopped at the scrimmage line, so on third down Don Greenwood attempted to punt from behind his goal.

Almost a Touchdown.

Alabama Beats Aggies, 29-21, Before 38,000

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 1.—The southland, birthplace of razzle-dazzle football, has seen some incredible games, and one was added here this afternoon when Alabama's Crimson Tide made its Cotton bowl debut a success by whipping the Texas Aggies, 29 to 21, before 38,000.

An even dozen times the Aggies surrendered possession of the ball, either by interception or fumbles. Alabama defenders reached into the icy atmosphere seven times to catch passes thrown by Derace Moser, or Leo Daniels of the Southwestern conference champions. On five other occasions they plopped on the ball after Aggie fumbles.

Field Goal Is Important.

And yet, despite these courteous concessions of one Dixie team to another, an Alabama field goal which seemed so much wasted effort, proved to be the point insurance which prevented the Aggies' spectacular fourth quarter rally from carrying threat of a last minute victory. The combined 50 points represented the heaviest scoring in six Cotton bowl games.

Skaters Now Hope to Race on Week-End

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Chicago's leading ice skaters, eager to start preparations for THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Skates Derbies in Garfield park Jan. 17 and 18, didn't send New Year's greetings to the weather man yesterday. The steady rain forced an indefinite postponement of the 50th annual city championship meet scheduled in Waveland park under the auspices of the Northwest Skating club.

However, the skaters may return to friendly terms with local meteorologists if ideal conditions prevail for the Chicago park district Derby in Waveland park tomorrow afternoon. They also have in mind the annual Illinois state meet sponsored by the Glen Ellyn Athletic association, which is to be conducted in Glen Ellyn Sunday.

Plan C. Y. O. Races Jan. 14.

Altho Chicagoans have held several practice sessions, the mild winter has prevented them from obtaining competitive skating. The Catholic Youth organization's carnival was scheduled for last Sunday, but was postponed and will be held on Jan. 14. The Northwest club officials will gather today with Herbert Knudten, president of the Illinois Skating association, to set a new date for the city meet.

One of the heaviest programs in recent years now appears ahead for the skaters. In addition to the Chicago

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Durham, N. C., Jan. 1.—The pride of undefeated Duke rode to a humiliating fall this afternoon, 20 to 16, in the Rose bowl battle transplanted 3,000 miles for a capacity crowd of 56,000 southerners. For the fourth consecutive year the championship went to the Pacific coast, and today, before the unbelieving Carolinians, twice beaten Oregon State produced a miracle performance.

The lads from the northwest literally were as busy as the Beavers by which name they are familiarly called and none was busier than Don Durdan or Bob Dethman. This pair of half backs—Durdan, the runner, and Dethman, the passer—collaborated with the smooth precision of a machine. Ably supported by Joe Day, a battering full back of the Bill Osmanski type, they applied the pressure to Duke's Blue Devils thruout.

Blue Devils Rally Twice.

Twice Duke rallied to tie Oregon State. The Blue Devils' second period touchdown matched the score made by Durdan near the conclusion of the opening quarter. In the third period Duke once more deadlocked the score at 14 to 14, but when, in the same quarter, Oregon State again struck thru the air with rapier speed, Duke could not rally.

An indifferent pass from center and Durdan's fumble in his end zone gave Duke two points in the fourth quarter for the final tabulation.

Duke, champion of the Southern conference and victor in nine games this season, was a nearly prohibitive choice before the game. Enthusiasm for the Blue Devils, who unexpectedly had become hosts to Oregon State, was most natural. Because the Rose bowl had come to the tobacco country, Duke was susceptible to an overconfidence that unquestionably was a contributing factor to its defeat.

They Win in Statistics.

Statistically, Duke need not apologize. It led in first downs, 15 to 14, and gained 295 yards to Oregon State's 302. But Duke might not have scored its second touchdown without the assistance of a penalty on Oregon State for roughness that placed the ball one yard from the goal. The final indictment of the Blue Devils was a paralyzing lethargy in defense against forward passes. The Beavers completed only one-third of their air raids, but two of these went all the way for touchdowns. On these two completions rested today's decision.

There was practically no difference in the hard smashing contact of the lines that fought determinedly over the barren clay. Bruising tackles and thudding blocks made this game worthy of the high place in the long procession of the nation's oldest New Year's football rivalry. Individually, these lines were equal, but in strategy Oregon State's shifting defense was more effective than Duke's six man line that was altered only twice when the backers up moved forward to the scrimmage line to rush Durdan's kicks.

Keep Losers Guessing.

The Beavers normally defended with a five man line backed by three men, but they not only were able to rush Duke's passers from this formation, but changes to a six man line almost always confused the Blue Devils' blockers. In brief, Oregon State's direction of defense matched an attack that was keener.

Duke's best offensive weapon was a reverse play by Steve Lach, who ran from either wing. Lach repeatedly powered inside the defensive end or over the tackle and his five yard sprint around Lew Shelton scored Duke's first touchdown. On all other occasions, however, Lach was shackled inside the scoring lines by alert Beaver backs, who likewise complemented a fast charging line to intercept Tom Davis' passes in the critical minutes. Three times in the fourth period, Duke's passes fell into enemy

MADISON MEETS WEST SUBURBAN SQUAD TONIGHT

Fifth Place Teams Seek to Break Tie.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

West Suburban and Madison Athletic club teams, which are tied for fifth place, tonight will seek to better their positions in a Chicagoland Amateur Boxing league match in the Madison arena, 4711 Madison street. The winning squad will gain a share of fourth place in the league standings with the Savoy A. C.

While the West Suburbans lost their last appearance to the Catholic Youth organization, 7 to 1, the reverse was the order of the things for the Madison delegation, which defeated the Savoys, 5 to 3. Aside from the victory scored over the south siders, the Madison colorbearers registered deadlock decisions against Fort Sheridan and the Illinois A. C. and were dealt defeats by the CYO and Ashland A. C.

Baratta Is Star.

Despite this apparently unimpressive record, the west siders have rolled up 18 points in the five matches for an average of 3 points per appearance. The club's most successful point getter is Jimmy Baratta, junior welterweight, who has won five contests in as many league starts. Next is Pat Maloney, welterweight, with three verdicts to his credit, and third is Lou Leonetti, lightweight, who has enlisted in the marine air corps, with two.

Consequently, Coach Jack Biggerstaff is banking on these three flashing fighters to bring the Madison A. C. its second triumph this evening. Baratta or Leonetti will encounter Elmer Grimm, and Maloney will face Johnny Levitino. Matt Slobodnik, Madison A. C. middleweight, who beat Harry McElroy of the CYO, is paired with Stanley Strnad.

A Return Bout.

The Maloney-Levitino contest is their second, Pat winning a verdict in a nonleague battle in Cicero stadium seven weeks ago. However, Levitino has displayed considerable improvement since that experience and wouldn't surprise Fred Caserio, director of the Suburban standard bearers, if he obtains revenge this time.

Maloney is the fellow who scored the decisive point for his club's triumph over the Savoys by beating William Johnson. Baratta set the stage for this upset when he clinched a tie by outpointing William Jordan. Additional members of the Madison squad follow:

126 pounds—Dale Kruger.
135 pounds—Vince Pellegrini.
147 pounds—William Clyne, Glen List, Ernie Le Beau.

BRAZILIAN SWIM STARS SET THREE RECORDS IN MEET

Members of the touring South American swimming team established three records to feature the program in the Union league club pool yesterday. However, Adolph Keifer scored one victory for the AAU representatives participating in the meet when he defeated Paul Fonseca DeSilva in a 100 yard backstroke event. Keifer's time for the distance was :58.5.

Maria Lenk of Brazil broke her own world's record of 3:14.8 for the 220 yard breaststroke when she swam the event in 3:07.1. She established another new mark when she was clocked in 2:48.4 at 200 yards. The South American 120 yard medley squad, composed of DeSilva, William Jordan and Louis Alcivar, set a new national record, swimming the event in the time of 1:04.4.

Boston Beats Brooklyn, 5-4, Adds to Lead

Boston, Mass., Jan. 1 (AP).—The Brooklyn Americans were nosed out, 5 to 4, by the Boston Bruins tonight before 10,732 in the Boston Garden. The triumph enabled the Bruins to tighten their grip on the National Hockey league lead.

The Bruins were coasting along with a 5 to 1 lead when the Americans turned savage suddenly and whacked in three goals in the space of eight minutes.

Before the visitors launched their threatening spurt, Milt Schmidt and Art Jackson registered first period tallies, Herb Cain scored during the second and Bobby Bauer and Roy Conacher beat Goalie Charley Raynor at the halfway mark of the third.

Brooklyn Finally Scores.

The Americans' first tally, credited to the veteran Murray Armstrong, came late in the second period.

Just when the Americans appeared hopelessly overwhelmed, Buzz Boll turned in the second goal. Armstrong beat Brimsek again at 14:27 and, with about two minutes to go, Bill Benson hooked a puck out of a scrimmage in front of the Boston net and fired into its empty corner. Lineups:

New York, Jan. 1 (AP).—The Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers drew, 3 to 3, tonight—the first game this season that either team had been involved in a tie game. The decision left the teams tied for second place, a full game behind the leading Boston Bruins.

The Rangers ran their streak of consecutive games in which they have not been shut out to 76 and their next scheduled game, in New York next Tuesday against Detroit, will give them a chance to equal their own record of having scored in 77 games. The old string was broken by Detroit Jan. 17, 1933.

Orlando, however, could not get in a punch during fisticuffs with Earl Seibert of the Blackhawks, much to the glee of 16,966 spectators, even tho Detroit won, 3 to 0.

Sparta Beats St. Louis Team in Rain, 2 to 0

Sparta's soccer team, undefeated this season, blasted a record of eight victories in nine games yesterday by defeating Natural Setup of St. Louis, Mo., 2 to 0, in an interstate match in Sparta stadium. Natural Setup entered the game with a record of only two goals having been scored against it this season.

Good soccer was impossible, since rain turned the field into a quagmire and slowed both teams down to a great extent.

Neither team succeeded in scoring in the first half, and it wasn't until 17 minutes of the second half had been played that Tom Scott drove into the net for the Chicagoans. Thirteen minutes later Jimmy Wolf scored the final goal by driving from 30 yards out. Juan Garcia, attempting to save for Ray Dumas, Setup goalie, who was out of position on the play, missed the ball and it dropped into the corner of the net.

Pontiac Basket Tourney Won by Centralia

Pontiac, Ill., Jan. 1 [Special]. — Centralia High school's team won the annual Pontiac Invitational basketball tournament for the third consecutive year here tonight by whipping Peoria Woodruff's quintet in the final, 45 to 41.

Dwight Eddleman, Centralia's great forward now playing his final year as a prep, scored six field goals and seven free throws for 19 points to pace his team to victory. Eddleman, who celebrated his 19th birthday last Saturday, has scored 234 points in 12 games this season in helping Centralia win 11 of 13 games. The two defeats were dealt the Pontiac champions by West Frankfort and Carbondale.

Eddleman had to be in scoring form tonight, however, for Peoria Woodruff presented plenty of competition for the Centralia star in Homer Schonwise, a 16 year old junior who stands 6 feet, 6¼ inches and weighs 225 pounds. Schonwise kept Woodruff in the game all the way by connecting for six baskets and four free throws for 16 points.

Rock Island captured third place in the tourney by nosing out Eureka, 25 to 23, in an overtime period during which John Fensterbush scored two free throws for the margin of victory. Urbana took the consolation title by whipping Rushville, 37 to 32. Lineups:

TULSA DEFEATS TEXAS TECH IN SUN BOWL, 6 TO 0

Drive in the Final Period Brings Victory.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 1 (AP).—Glenn Dobbs, whose 6 foot 4 inch frame supports 182 pounds of football muscle, led Tulsa university to a whirlwind finish in the Sun bowl today and a 6 to 0 victory over Texas Tech.

The Frederick, Okla., back did everything in the book against a stubborn Tech eleven, kicking, passing, and running the Raiders dizzy from the opening kickoff until the final gun.

A Thrilling Finish.

Battling on even terms thru all except the last few minutes of the game, Tulsa's Missouri Valley conference champions snatched victory in a thrilling finish engineered by Dobbs—one of a brother team in the Tulsa back field. Playing at full back was brother Bob.

Starting on Tulsa's own 29 yard stripe, Dobbs passed and ran Tulsa to a touchdown in 10 plays with a minute and a half remaining. The victory march was climaxed when Saxon Judd, right end from Vernon, Tex., took one of Dobbs' passes, and fought and wiggled his way thru Tech's secondary from the 30 and then dashed unchecked fifteen more yards across the goal line. It was a rousing climax to a bitterly fought game.

From start to finish, Dobbs dished misery to the Raiders, and by his cool passing Tulsa stole aerial laurels from a team whose reputation has been made on just that sort of playing.

With barely a half dozen plays completed after the opening kickoff, Dobbs got off an eighty-six yard quick kick which put Tech in a hole for the first half. In that period Tulsa made four first downs to but one for Tech.

Penalties, Fumbles Hurt.

Penalties and fumbles cost the Raiders dearly, and in the final quarter the persistent whistle of Referee Parke Carroll brought Coach Dell Morgan storming onto the field. Carroll pushed the Tech coach away from the huddle of players, and Morgan retreated to the bench, angrily shaking his finger at the official.

Tech was assessed eight penalties totaling ninety yards, Tulsa six for sixty yards.

Tech drove to Tulsa's 15 in the second quarter, where Ty Bain tried a field goal. The ball was too low. Tulsa tried a field goal in the first period, Dobbs booting the ball short from his own 30.

Tulsa made 15 first downs to 4 for the Raiders.

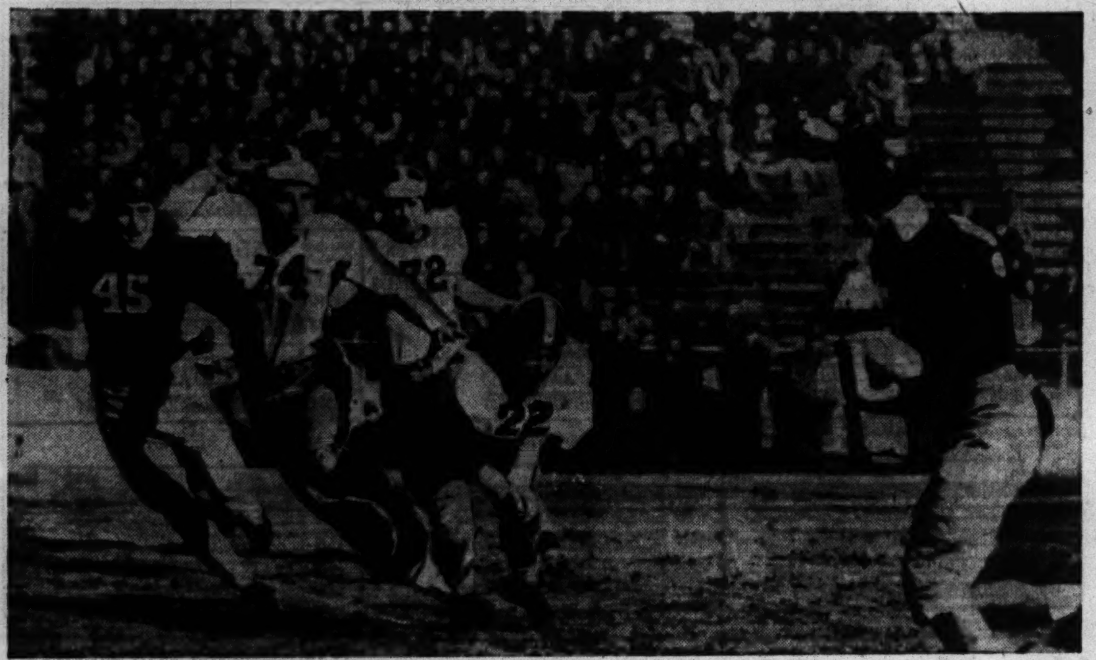
More Action on the Football Front



In Dallas, the Crimson Tide from Alabama rolled to a 29 to 21 triumph over the Texas Aggies in the Cotton bowl. Here Jimmy Nelson, offensive star for the Victorious Tide, carries back a punt for 26 yards in the first quarter. Other players on the scene are Joe Dommanovich (45), Alabama center; Martin Ruby (74), tackle; Leonard Dickey (72), tackle, and Willie Zapalac (22), all of Texas A. and M.

chine almost all the way, turned the game into a rout after a 7 to 7 deadlock prevailed at half time. Before half of the fourth period had been played it was ahead, 29 to 7. Then, the Aggies scored twice and put on another menacing march before the seventh interception of the afternoon brought this slightly wacky game to a close.

Wacky Is the Word.

Wacky? Alabama had only one first down, which was just 12 less than the Aggies made. The Southwest champions made 115 yards by rushing against 59 and 194 by passing to the Tide's 16. Moser and Daniels, and perhaps another Aggie or two, tried 42 passes and completed 13. Alabama tried seven and completed one. Seven Alabamans divided up the interceptions.

Out of this confusing welter of scoring, this quick change of the football from one side to another, emerged one standout—Jimmy Nelson, a triple threat back if there ever was one. He did most of 'Bama's punting, and he made the game-breaking play by dashing seventy-two yards on a punt return early in the third quarter to break the 7 to 7 deadlock. And he made the Tide's other score in this period, on a twenty-one yard run which was reminiscent of George McAfee's best running jobs.

Cowley Goes Across.

On the first play of the second quarter Daniels picked up two yards from Alabama's 18 yard line. Then he passed to Harold Cowley, who took the ball on the 8 yard line and threaded his way for a touchdown. Jake Webster added the first of three extra points.

After the kickoff, Nelson quick-kicked to the Aggies' 26 yard line and on the next play Daniels fumbled. Don Whitmire, tackle, recovered for Alabama on the Aggies' 25. Nelson's second down pass was taken by Holt Rast on the 11 yard line and he ran three yards. After two more pitches failed, Alabama dropped its customary shift and Russ Craft took the ball from Nelson. He sped around the Aggies' right end for a touchdown. George Hecht, 220 pound guard, kicked the point.

Nelson Goes to Town.

Things were going mildly in the third quarter when Webster lifted a punt from his 39 yard line. Nelson moved under the ball on the Alabama 28. He seemed bottled up as he made the catch. Then, suddenly, he escaped and bolted down the east side line. At the 15 yard line, Sabo threw a block on Moser, the last Aggie barring Nelson's journey to the goal. Hecht's kick for the point was blocked.

A pass interception by Jim Roberts and another excellent kick by Nelson soon had the Aggies back on their 20 yard line. Just before the quarter closed, Daniels took Nelson's punt on the Aggies' 13, fumbled when tackled, and Sam Sharp of Alabama fell on the ball on the Texans' 21.

There He Goes Again.

On the first play, Nelson went the distance. He started around the Aggies' left, cut back inside, then bolted out of a confused mass of red and white jerseys, running straight over for a touchdown. The quarter ended soon after Hecht kicked goal to give the Tide a 20 to 7 advantage.

The first noteworthy incident in the fourth quarter was Carl Mims' interception of Daniels' pass on the Aggies' 35 yard line. The Alabaman ran back to the 17. They finally settled for a field goal, which Hecht kicked from the 22 yard line.

After the kickoff, Moser started pitching. His first one was intercepted by Johnny Wyhonic of Alabama on the Texans' 34 yard line and Nelson's kick put the Aggies on their 4. Moser passed to Cowley on the 10, but his next one was deflected by Webster to Rast, who loped ten yards for the Tide's fourth touchdown. Hecht's kick was blocked.

And Another Recovery.

Following the kickoff, Cullen Rogers took a pass from Daniels to Alabama's 43, where he fumbled. Russ Mosley fell on this one for the Tide. After Mosley kicked out on the Aggies' 47 yard line, the latter went all the way to the goal without surrendering the ball.

Only a minute and a half remained when the Aggies kicked off, but it proved to be a long 90 seconds. Daniels fumbled a punt but recovered it on his 31 yard line. A fifteen yard penalty on Alabama again started the Aggies going. Daniels pitched to Rogers on the Tide's 40 yard line, and, on the next play, ran for five yards. Nelson was right in front of Moser's third down pass on the goal line. He reached for the ball, juggled it, and while it was in the air Sterling came along, catching it and stepping over. Webster's kick made it 29 to 21.

Fordham Is Victor, 2 to 0, in Sugar Bowl

two point advantage Fordham played close to its vest the rest of the way.

Don Faurot, Missouri coach, made this statement after the game: "Altho we outran and outpassed them, they outscored us and deserved to win. The blocked punt that scored the only points was just a part of the ball game. I would say the bright spot of the contest for Fordham was the defensive play of Steve Filipowicz. Jim Crowley had a good defense for us and weather conditions prevented us from opening it up. The running of Ice and Steuber was the best part of our play."

Jimmy Crowley said: "It's hard to talk about a game like this one. On a dry field both teams might have run up high scores. Missouri is a grand squad."

Fumble Ends a Drive.

Missouri's offense was braked down several time by fumbles and forward pass interceptions. Shortly after Fordham earned that safety, Ice, the Tiger quarter back, caught a lateral pass from Adams and ran from his 20 to Fordham's 47 before Joe Sebasteanski, the last man who had a chance to overtake him, caught him from behind. A forward pass from Ice to Marshall Shurnas, reserve end, put the ball on the 30. This march collapsed when Jim Noble, the Rams' substitute quarter back, recovered Steuber's fumble on the 33 yard line.

Fordham moved to Missouri's 21 in the second quarter on plunges by Blumenstock and Filipowicz. The Tigers' alert secondary broke up three forward passes and Blumenstock was tossed for a loss of five yards by Shurnas, which gave Missouri the ball on its 26.

Ice broke away for a twenty-four yard sprint to midfield, but he fumbled when tackled, Filipowicz recovering for Fordham on the 50.

Field Goal Attempt Short.

Missouri's last scoring chance, if it could be called that, came in the final period when some expert running by Steuber advanced the ball to Fordham's 23 with four minutes left to play. Here the Rams' defense stiffened and they broke up two lateral passes and a forward pass. On fourth down Steuber attempted a field goal from the 35 yard line. It sailed straight for the goal but a yard or two under the cross bars. Had it carried a few yards farther it probably would have won a 3 to 2 victory for the boys from the show-me state.'

BY RAY POWERS.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 1 [Special].—The University of Georgia ran over Texas Christian university, 40 to 26, to win the eighth annual Orange bowl football game this afternoon.

Not a seat was vacant in compact, palm bordered Burdine stadium as a crowd of 35,505 watched Frankie Sinkwich empty his bag of tricks and account for four of Georgia's touchdowns.

Sinkwich was unerring in his passing and bewildering in his runs and change of pace. After his accurate eye and unfailing pitching arm had sent his running mates, Cliff Kimsey and Ben Keuper, across for scores in the first quarter, he was yanked and sent in again only for offensive work when the Texas eleven threatened in the final quarter.

Complete 12 of 23 Passes.

Time and again the deadly passing attack of the Georgians caught the Texans flatfooted, or drew their secondary into impotent positions. Of 23 attempts they completed 12 for a total gain of 288 yards.

Fumbles by Georgia set up two touchdowns for the Texans and interception of one of Sinkwich's passes by Dean Bagley plus a Kyle Gillespie-to-Bruce Alford completion rounded out their end of the scoring.

Sinkwich and his teammates plowed thru scrimmage for 12 first downs as against Texas' 8, and 213 yards against 130.

Sinkwich set himself an enviable record when he personally accounted for more yards thru scrimmage than the entire Texas squad. On 22 tries he picked up a net of 139. The same applied to his passing. Of the 13 tosses, nine were good for a total of 241 yards. The other four were intercepted.

Sharing the glory with Sinky was Lamar Davis, right half, who checked the Texans' belated drive three times in the final few minutes.

Gillespie and King Kong Kring lived up to their advance notices from Texas. They were all over the field, and carrying most of the load.

The Georgia line outplayed the Texans for the first half but the tide changed in the last 20 minutes of play and Alford, Walter Roach, and Gillespie constantly found holes to drive thru. It ended with Texas hammering at the gate from the 6 yard line.

CARL SNAVELY DENIES RUMOR OF COAST JOB

"It's news to me.

"I'm not looking for a job. I think I have a pretty good position where I am."

Oregon State Tourists Hand Confident Duke 20-16 Beating

Day, Dethman, and Durdan manned the Beaver machine that rolled fifty-one yards in eleven plays in the first period for the opening score of this 27th Rose bowl game. Dethman swept defensive left end for eight yards and Day plunged for a first down on Duke's 39. Day plunged again for four yards and, after an incomplete pass, Dethman went thru right guard for five. On the crucial play, Durdan made the necessary yard for first down.

The "D" Boys March On.

Durdan repeated for eight yards inside right tackle and Day pounded to a first down on Duke's 18. Two thrusts advanced to Duke's 15 yard line, and, on third down, with receivers covered on a short pass play, Durdan ran to his right and inside the end, spinning over the goal line with no enemy near enough to touch him. Warren Simas kicked the point.

Five minutes later Duke drove seventy yards in nine plays with Lach scoring and Bob Gantt kicking the tying point. Principal ingredient in this assault was Tom Davis' twenty-nine yard run on third down when Oregon State expected a pass with eight yards required for a first down. Win Siegfried, Duke's full back, then crashed the Beavers' line to set up Lach's scoring reverse.

Pass Goes for a Touchdown.

Thus the rivals left the field at intermission tied 7 to 7. On their return the pace of the play reached a crescendo seldom seen this season in collegiate football. After Oregon State's initial threat, which ended when Simas failed on a placement from Duke's 24 yard line, the Beavers punctured Duke's secondary with a touchdown pass. This thrust covered fifty-five yards in three plays.

Gene Gray, a substitute for Durdan, swept around Duke's right wing on a play that went from sideline to sideline and gained twenty-four yards. Day plunged for four yards, but on the next scrimmage Oregon State was penalized five yards for back field in motion. On the replay, the third legal play of the series, Dethman ran to his right, whirled, and threw to George Zellick, his left end, who caught the ball on Duke's 5 yard line behind Siegfried, Duke's defender, and went on to score. Simas' place-kick gave the Beavers a 14 to 7 lead.

Duke immediately reacted with precision. Leo Long returned the kickoff to Duke's 36 yard line. On his favorite reverse, Lach cut inside the Beavers' right end and then reversed his field again before Day brought him down on the Oregon State 25 yard line. Siegfried hit the line on a full spinner for a yard.

Beavers Are Set Back.

Lach's plunge inside defensive left tackle on a reverse, apparently went to a first down, but on the play Oregon State was penalized for unnecessary roughness. The ball was placed on the 1 yard line and Siegfried smashed over. Thompson Prothro place kicked the point that tied the score at 14 to 14.

Durdan received Duke's kickoff in his end zone and rushed out to his 23 yard line. On the first scrimmage play, Duke was penalized for roughness and the Beavers had the ball on their 30 yard strip. The subsequent forward pass won the game.

Dethman dropped back and whipped the ball far down field to Gene Gray running near the west sideline. Gray took the ball out of the clutching hands of the defensive left half, came to a full stop in front of Moffatt Storer, and faked him out of position as deliberately as in a game of tag. Then Gray rushed on twenty-eight yards for the winning touchdown.

When Simas' place kick for the point was blocked the door was opened for a Duke victory, but the Blue Devils no longer had the power or skill required.

Passes Prove Futile.

The final period was replete with pass interceptions that checked Duke's marches. There was an exchange of the ball by fumbles, but only after Lach's long punt rolled dead on Oregon State's line were the Beavers scored upon. On first down in punt formation, Durdan fumbled a low pass from his center and recovered in the end zone for Duke's two points. Thereafter Oregon State played sturdy, defensive ball, and Dethman's pass interception with 15 seconds to play snuffed out a last desperate Blue Devil air attack.

IT'S PROS' SECOND TEAM THAT HAS HALAS WORRIED

Bears' Coach Finds New Reason to Fret.

New York, Jan. 1 [Special].—George Halas, coach of the Chicago Bears, has been at the site of Sunday's game with the National league All-Stars only a matter of hours, but the owner of the league champions already has worn the seat of one pair of pants to the brilliance of the slick paper on which national magazines publicized his habit of bench skidding with worry.

There was a time when all a coach had to do was fear the next opponent and tell the press about it. But Halas has changed that. Today he went beyond the names of the individual opponents, passed up the All-Star first team, and warned his boys during a practice session at the Polo Grounds that even if they were lucky enough to get the jump on their opponent's first team they never would be able to cope with that All-Star second team.

It's New Approach.

The Bears are rated 3 to 1 favorites, but some heed must be paid to a coach who has given his team 400 plays and helped them establish a reputation as the best football team in history, so hark to the newest Halas moan.

"We came here prepared to cope with a first team that would include such professional stars as Don Hutson and Cecil Isbell of the Green Bay Packers and Sammy Baugh of the Washington Redskins. And what does Coach Steve Owen of the All-Stars do? He names Perry Schwartz of Brooklyn, Bill Dewell of the Chicago Cardinals, and Baugh on the first team. Then he comes up with a daisy—that second team. There we find Green Bay's Isbell and Hutson and Dick Humbert of Philadelphia."

Not One but Two Hutsons.

"So there you are. That Isbell pitching and Hutson catching battery has been in our hair for years. Now there's Isbell to toss 'em and two Hutsons [even if one of them is named Humbert] to catch 'em. And they're second stringers. Owen says so and Owen's running that team."

Veteran professional football devotees who watched the All-Stars practice at Garden City, N. Y. came away with the impression that perhaps Halas was right when he asserted the team seems unbeatable. They noted that the players seem more serious about the coming contest than in previous years.

Besides wanting to do their bit to help the Navy Relief society, which will receive a big slice of the receipts, the players relish another crack at the Bears, who have made most of them, as members of the league's nine other clubs, suffer defeat.

Hutson was still an absentee, but word was received that he would fly east to join the squad.

MILLIONS FEEL WAR IMPACT ON AUTO INDUSTRY

New Year a Crucial One for Army of Workers.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

After one of its most profitable years, the automobile industry begins 1942 absorbed in the problems of converting its facilities to war. The source of livelihood for six million Americans, it is the first big industry to feel the full impact of the shift to wartime economy. Because of its vast ramifications thruout the nation's economy the industry's shift is bringing home to millions of Americans the economic meaning of war.

[The government yesterday banned the sale of new passenger cars and announced production would be halted soon. Story on page 1.]

Aside from the problems facing all business, the industry has individual problems of its own which will make the next year a crucial one.

Early Halt Forecast.

Among the developments which auto makers are preparing to meet are:

1. The entire industry will probably cease production of passenger cars—except those for military use—in the near future. The government curb on the sale of new tires for use on passenger automobiles alone would be enough to stop production. Difficulty in obtaining steel and other raw materials acts as a brake on production.

2. The hundreds of thousands employed in assembly plants and parts factories probably will be unemployed temporarily while the plants are converted to war production or until they get jobs in other arms plants.

3. More than 40,000 dealers and their army of employés must find ways to make a living when there are no new automobiles to sell. Most of the dealers' mechanics ultimately will be called to the military forces or to arms plants. Dealers will have to build new service organizations to help keep 28 million passenger cars running. Many dealer casualties are expected.

Difficult Times Visioned.

Difficult times are ahead for many of the white collar workers employed in sales promotion and kindred activities to move cars in the highly competitive markets, it is agreed. However, it is said the factories will exert every effort to keep their technical forces together—the forces which bring out the new models each year and thereby contribute so much to the national economy.

The industry has become the largest single producer of arms. And, altho many persons have believed the big automobile assembly lines could start turning out mass production quantities of arms simply by issuance of a few executive orders, the two have little in common. Few of the machines used in building automobiles can be used for the production of arms. Methods are different. The automobile builders have had to start from scratch.

Output Well Underway.

However, as a result of their all-out efforts, the manufacturers have already started a substantial flow of tanks, airplane engines, assemblies of all kinds for military planes, aircraft guns, anti-aircraft guns, shells, bombs, fuses, and even small ships.

Altho the average American family may temporarily lose one of its most prized possessions in the halt of new car production, motorists may reap future benefits in better automobiles.

Automotive engineers assert that when civilian car production is resumed the automobiles should be much more efficient. Motors will perform better. Fuel consumption should be lower. Parts should wear better. Lighter materials probably will be used.

It is estimated that 4,820,000 passenger cars and trucks were sold in 1941, with an aggregate wholesale value of 3 billion 630 million dollars.

Illinois Waterway Traffic for Last Year Sets Record

The Illinois waterway in 1941 handled its largest tonnage in history. Col. Charles Keller, army district engineer for the Chicago area, reported the year's tonnage as 6,400,000 tons, compared with 5,729,356 in 1940. He said traffic on the Illinois river section set a new record when 4,500,000 tons went thru the locks, compared with 3,745,294 tons in 1940.

PLANE BUILDERS SHIFT PLANS FOR AN EPOCHAL YEAR

Ready for Unequaled Flood of Orders.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The aircraft manufacturers and every associated industry, already strained to the breaking point by two years of vast expansion and demands for gains in production, face another year in which the earlier strains will be multiplied many times.

During the next month the administration in Washington will commence dealing out contracts for quantities of warplanes that will make all previous buying seem small by comparison. The avalanche of orders that will snow under the industry as it is set up today will bring about many changes that have been sidestepped or avoided because they meant an uprooting of established plants and threatened production schedules.

Safety in Middle West.

Some of these vital changes will be:

1. A general, calculated movement of the vital parts producing plants from the coastal regions where they "just grew," to the safety of the middle west.

2. A switch within the year, of the most important production lines from the old established aircraft companies to the automobile industry. It is expected that the efforts of the production-wise engineers of the auto industry will for the first time show the aviation experts how to build airplanes in vast numbers, quickly, and so accurately that parts will be interchangeable.

It is perhaps unwise to make estimates of the dollar volume of orders for aircraft that will be let during 1942. The only real limit will be—What can the industry produce?

The most serious problem of the industry will be to switch its principle fabricating plants from the coasts to the interior without disrupting the flow of warplanes.

Progress Already Made.

Some progress in the movement from the coasts has been made with the creation of assembly plants for aircraft in inland points such as Dallas, Tex.; Tulsa, Okla.; Omaha, Neb.; Kansas City, Mo., and elsewhere. Aero motor plants are being put up in Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, and Fort Wayne, Ind.

So far as today is concerned there is no substantial production from any of these new plants but before 1942 is over they will be turning out the lion's share of all the aircraft motors made in the United States.

All the hurdles that were jumped or circumvented by the United States aero industry in its previous expansion efforts appear again as problems this year. Aluminum production probably will be allocated entirely to aircraft manufacturing, and the refineries enlarged again and again to meet the new demands.

Magnesium sources are being combed again and deposits in Central and South America that hitherto have been considered too expensive to exploit will be snapped up. The use of stainless steel will be expanded enormously. So will the uses of plastics in military planes. Finally beryllium and beryllium copper and perhaps other beryllium alloys will come into general use in the industry.

Bring Better Engines.

The metallurgical advances already are beginning to count materially in new aircraft engines. The 3,000 horse power mark for a single unit will be reached during 1942. The 2,500 horse power mark for a single 18 cylinder air-cooled radial motor already has been reached. These powers will be matched soon by a new series of in-line liquid cooled motors that will include Rolls-Royce models, a new Ford high powered engine, a new Continental, a new Lycoming, and finally the production model of the 24 cylinder VV type of Allison motor.

A whole series of new fighting and bombing planes will come into production this year. At least three manufacturers are preparing for still larger, faster, long range bombers. A new series of long range escort fighters is being considered and at least five specific models are beyond the blueprint and wind tunnel stages.

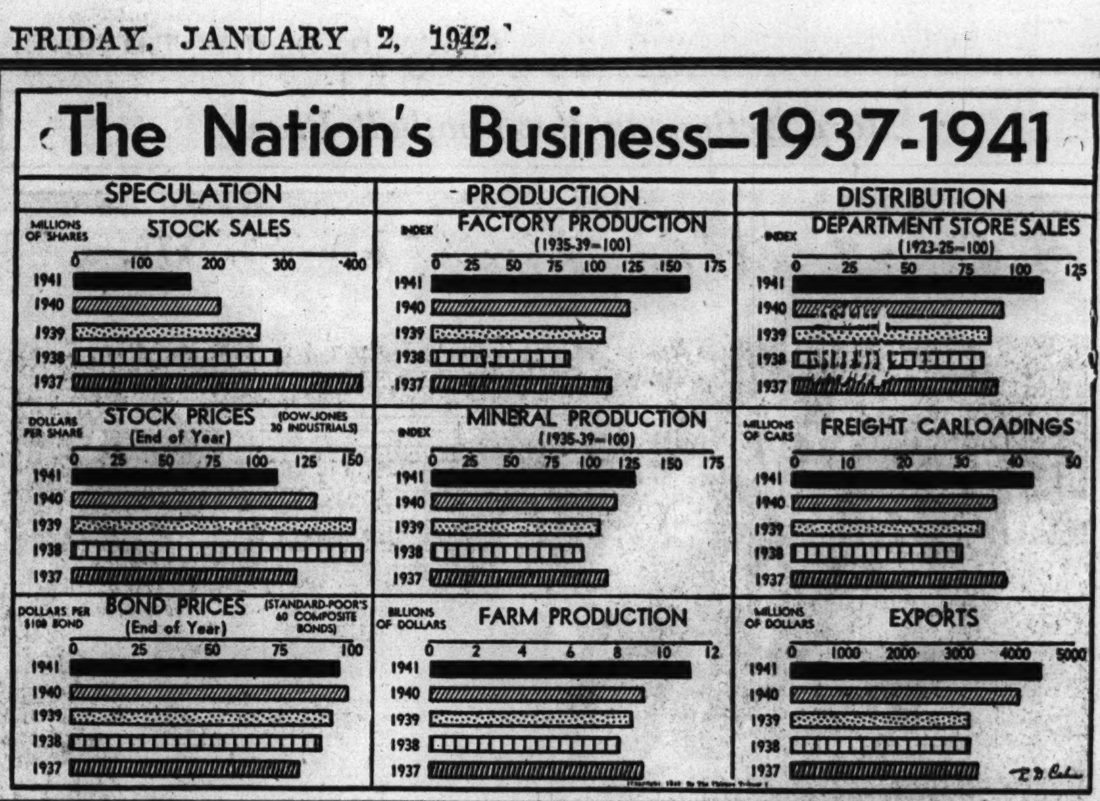
Commercial Lines Carry On

This year for the first time American airplanes will be capable of reaching altitudes that British and especially German military planes have used almost since the beginning of World war II. Much has been heard of high altitude American bombing planes—those capable of operating at stratospheric heights of 32,000 to 35,000 feet. Actually the British and Germans have been flying above 35,000 feet for a year.

Altho the most important work of the year will be done on existing and new military models, commercial aviation is not being forgotten. The commercial air lines will have their fleets augmented—within carefully held limits—and entirely new civilian services, both internal and overseas, will come into existence.

Already the government has found the commercial air lines' facilities of much value. The work of the air lines' radio groups has been taken over for military reasons almost in its entirety. Ultrahigh frequency radio ranges, locators, and communications systems; and the ultrahigh frequency positive altimeter developed by the air lines all figure in national defense.

To encourage the air lines to maintain their fleets at a high state of efficiency and safety the government has granted all air line operators positive priority ratings that enable them to obtain new engines, propellers, and parts without red tape delays. The government also has encouraged the lines to build up inventory backlogs to maintain all airplanes and engine models now in use.



New Names Moved to Top Rank of Business; Death Takes Many

Industry's high command—always in the process of reshuffling in adjustment to the vagaries of time and death and individual fortunes—underwent an extensive revamping in 1941.

Death tapped a finger time after time on the shoulders of men in the strategy planning group of corporation executives whose word is decisive in directing the functioning of the nation's industrial machine. Retirements because of advancing age or for other reasons further thinned the group that had been at the top in the preceding year.

The armament program opened a new field for industrial leaders whose aid in hastening war goods production was sought by the government. And to the many federal agency identifications tags such as OPM and SPAB the public learned to link business names—William S. Knudsen, Donald Nelson, Edward Stettinius, Ralph Budd, Floyd B. Odlum, James S. Knowlson, W. L. Batt, John D. Biggers, W. Averell Harriman, and others.

Noted industrialists and business leaders who died during the year included Harold F. McCormick, chairman of International Harvester company; Simon Guggenheim, who with his brothers started a small smelter in 1899 and built up one of the world's largest metal enterprises; Edward A. Cudahy, co-founder and chairman of Cudahy Packing company; E. W. Marland, pioneer Oklahoma oil man, philanthropist, and former congressman; Fred Fisher, co-founder of Fisher Body corporation.

Simon Guggenheim. E. W. Marland. Edw. A. Cudahy.

George Bain Everitt, chairman of Merchandise National bank, Chicago, and former president of Montgomery Ward & Co.; George H. Jones, one of the founders of Inland Steel company, who gave millions to charity and was head of several business enterprises until his death; Maurice L Rothschild, the clothing merchant; Charles B. Nolte, president of Crane company; Nathan Richman, clothing manufacturer and retailer; C. R. Messinger, president of Chain Belt company and chairman of Oliver Farm Equipment company; Howard Heinz, president of H. J. Heinz company; A. E. McKinstry, former president of International Harvester; G. R. Meyercord, head of Haskelite Manufacturing company.

Alonzo C. Mather, president of the Mather Stock Car company, who designed a car in which cattle could be hauled without being maimed, won the American Humane society medal for his work, gave extensively to charities, and built the Mather tower on Wacker drive; Harvey C. Couch, former director of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and a southern utility and railroad magnate, and Frank S. Cunningham, chairman of Butler Brothers.

Newly installed in big jobs were: Judson F. Stone, now chairman of the board of International Harvester, in 1892 a beginner in the repair department of a predecessor company; Fowler McCormick, elected president of Harvester to succeed Sydney G. McAllister, who was moved up to the chairmanship of the executive committee; Charles E. Wilson, named president of General Motors corporation in place of Knudsen; Harvey S. Firestone Jr., elevated to the presidency of Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

Judson F. Stone. H. S. Firestone Jr. Fowler McCormick.

Clifford S. Young, winner of a stormy battle with Emil Schram for the presidency of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago to succeed the veteran Iowa banker, George J. Schaller, who retired [Schram later became president of the New York Stock exchange to replace young William Martin, who stepped out of the $48,000 a year job to join the army.

Robert E. Woodruff, once a track laborer, elevated to the presidency of the Erie railroad; R. W. Brown, new president of the Lehigh Valley; David Mayer, named president of Maurice L. Rothschild, Inc.; J. H. Collier, new head of Crane company; J. C. Merwin, elected president of Chain Belt company, and Meyer Kestnbaum, new president of Hart, Schaffner & Marx.

INDUSTRY MEETS WAR TEST BY SHATTERING MANY OLD RECORDS

Records were shattered last year as the nation's industries worked at top speed to meet the constantly increasing demands of war:

Industrial activity as gauged by the Federal Reserve board index climbed to a peak of 167 per cent of the 1935-'39 average and is still rising.

Ingot steel production reached 82 million 800 thousand tons, compared with the previous high of 66½ million tons in 1940.

Output of machine tools was valued at 765 million dollars, against 450 million dollars in 1940.

Consumption of Lake Superior iron ore was at a record high of about 75 million tons. More than 100 million tons of ore, a new peak, cleared the Soo locks in the 1941 Great Lakes shipping season.

New President Assumes Consolidated Aircraft Job

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 1 (AP).—Harry Woodhead took over control today of the Consolidated Aircraft corporation, engaged in heavy bomber production, Woodhead, 53-year old production expert from Cleveland, O., succeeds Maj. Reuben H. Fleet as Consolidated president. Fleet was retained in an advisory capacity.

ROADS CERTAIN THEY CAN HAUL ALL WAR GOODS

Having handled successfully the large volume of traffic during the rearmament period, the railroads enter 1942 confident of their ability to meet wartime transportation demands. Apart from the war, the railroads are faced with many pressing problems. Among the requirements they face in 1942 are:

1. Obtain sufficient revenues to absorb the higher wages that will amount to 300 or 350 million dollars a year.

2. Give vacations with pay to about 800,000 nonoperating workers.

3. Try to realize profits under the difficult war conditions.

4. Obtain sufficient materials to maintain an adequate supply of equipment.

5. Complete the reorganization of railroads still in the hands of the courts because of financial difficulties.

Hearings on Rate Plea.

The Interstate Commerce commission next Monday will open hearings in Chicago on the plea of the railroads to increase freight rates and passenger fares by roughly 10 per cent to meet the higher wage costs.

Experience gained in the last war is being put to good use. There is little of the confusion and delay of 1917-'18.

A Chicagoan, Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad, has held a key position in the organization set up to ensure the smooth working of the nation's transportation system. Appointed transportation coördinator at the start of the emergency he was responsible for making all forms of transportation — railways, highways, waterways, airways, and pipe lines—work together to produce the most good.

Eastman Assumes Post.

Late in December he was superseded by Joseph B. Eastman, Interstate Commerce commission chairman.

Budd, whose forecasts have been highly accurate, says there should be an adequate supply of railroad transportation in the future. There is one "but" in this connection. The supply can be guaranteed only if the roads are given sufficient supplies — principally steel—to build needed freight cars and to keep existing cars in good repair.

Budd warns that "with current deliveries falling considerably behind schedule because of material shortages there may be serious tightening in the car supply in 1942." He says, however, that on the whole an inventory of rail carriers at this time shows they are capable of handling efficiently and economically the present level of traffic.

International Produces Basic Materials That Will Help Win the War

International is building plants at Austin, Texas, and Carlsbad, New Mexico, for the Defense Plant Corporation and, with the aid and cooperation of Dow Chemical Company, will manufacture vitally needed magnesium metal.

International is also supplying industry and agriculture with vital materials from mines and plants at more than 30 strategic points.

PHOSPHATE—our Florida and Tennessee phosphate mines are producing at capacity to supply the demand from domestic fertilizer manufacturers.

POTASH—with International's additional production of a complete line of all grades of potash at the Union Potash Mines at Carlsbad, New Mexico, America is now completely independent of foreign supplies of potash.

FERTILIZER—larger tonnages of "International Fertilizers" are being manufactured to help farmers produce with less labor the huge crops which will be needed by the country and the world in 1942.

CHEMICALS—phosphoric acids and associated chemicals are being supplied by International for use in many essential war materials.

Today with rapid expansion in its activities, with new manufacturing plants being built and planned, with a larger research staff working on product improvement and development for all divisions of the corporation and with a steadily growing organization, International is well prepared to meet its present and future responsibilities to agriculture, industry and America.

INDUSTRY GEARS ITSELF TO PART IN WAR MACHINE

Prepared for Many New Adjustments.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Taking the initial impact of the war in stride, American business begins 1942 prepared to make many new adjustments as the country gears itself economically for total war.

Among the first to feel the full economic force of war are the automobile and tire manufacturing industries. More industries face the necessity of fitting themselves into the war program. As the arms effort is intensified the effects will spread, reaching every family and individual in the country, economists agree.

For the moment business men and industrialists are concerned primarily with the immediate problems that the military program raise, but they also seek to bring the longer term prospects into proper focus.

Civilian Demands to Be Met.

Without minimizing the immediate adjustments to be made, business men are aware of the fundamental economic fact that war or no war a civilian population of 120 millions must be supplied. Some goods will be entirely unavailable, and the supply of others drastically curtailed. Civilians will postpone many nonessential purchases but they will be in those markets for goods and services which cannot be dispensed with.

The purchasing power of a large part of the population will be larger than it has been for many years. Farmers and industrial workers will be better off economically on the average than they were in 1941. Many white collar workers will also have increased purchasing power. Other groups, particularly those in the middle income bracket facing heavier taxes, will of necessity reduce their living expenditures.

Report Labor Shortage.

One problem of immediate importance to industry is the prospective shortage of labor. The experts on employment statistics disagree, but their figures are near enough to indicate that industry may soon be faced with a serious problem in finding man power.

Some experts believe the shortage will not be acute until 1943 or 1944 but the National Industrial Conference board, a highly regarded fact finding agency, asserts that a labor shortage is already upon us. The board says there are 55 million Americans who are working or seeking work. Of this number, the board says, approximately 53,200,000 were employed or in the armed forces in October.

This means that less than 2 million of the country's working force were unemployed in October. Since then more men have been mustered into the service and the board believes that the labor pinch soon will be widely felt.

Foresee Peak Development.

Absorbed as they are in such problems, men in business and industry are looking forward to the postwar period and appraising as best they can what the future holds. Assuming for the United States and its allies ultimate and complete victory, they foresee a period in which industrial development will reach a new peak in this country.

This confident view is based on several factors. One is that America will emerge from the war with the world's largest reservoir of capital consisting of a gold store of 23 billion dollars. The nation's industrial producing capacity will be the greatest the world has seen. And, it is emphasized particularly, the war will bring about technological developments in chemistry, metallurgy and electronics and other fields that otherwise would require decades.

MIDGETS HANDY IN WINGS, BUT 'NUFF'S ENOUGH

New York, Jan. 1 (AP).—Please, the Brewster Aeronautical corporation doesn't need any more midgets.

Ever since the papers carried a picture of Johnny Gee, height 4 feet 3, at work inside the wing of a patrol bomber, the plant has been bombarded with midget job seekers, each claiming he was littler and more agile than other midgets, and especially designed by nature to work inside the narrow confines of an airplane wing.

It's true, said a Brewster official, that a midget is much handier than a normal sized man at many jobs around the plant. The company has already hired 13 of them.

But now that every train, plane, subway, and bus [so it seems to the company] brings more midgets to Brewster's doors—well, some other plant will have to absorb the surplus.

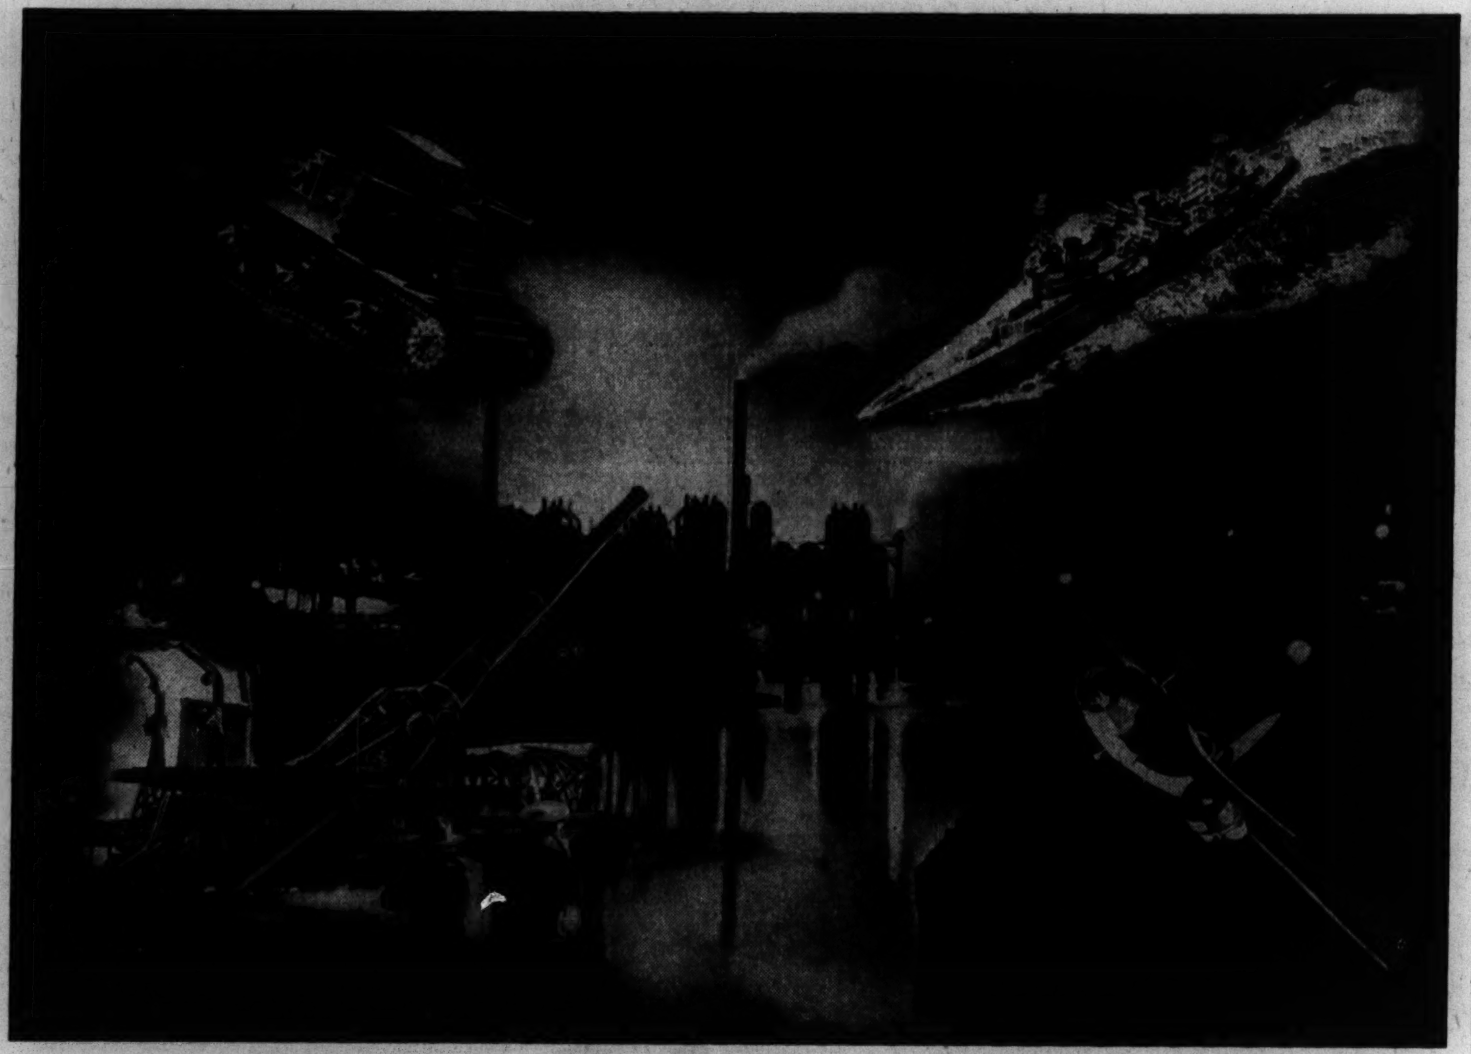
STEEL: A GREAT INDUSTRY PRODUCES FOR WAR



Steel Achieves Unparalleled Record of Gain

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

A tempest of troubles and problems—strikes, material shortages, confusing priorities regulations, interferences with normal business, and finally the full burden of war production—swirled around the nation's steel mills in 1941, but the industry emerged with an unparalleled record of accomplishment.

Red earth from the iron ranges was converted so swiftly into streams of white hot steel that the year's production of ingots jumped to 82,800,000 tons, exceeding by 25 per cent anything that the industry ever had accomplished before. The old record, 67 million tons, had been established in 1940.

Capacity Increased Further.

But even the new high mark did not indicate the full extent of the progress. At the end of the year ingot capacity, being rapidly expanded under the armament program, had reached 88 million tons annually.

As the United States swung into the war and the steel mills tackled the job of supplying metal to equip armed forces in many parts of the world, one big factor that promised to have a decisive bearing on the conflict was the American mills' advantage over those of the axis powers in ability to produce.

America can produce 12½ tons of steel for every ton Japan can make, according to the American Iron and Steel institute, and it can make three tons for every two that can be produced by the combined facilities of Germany, Italy, Japan, and all axis dominated countries.

Double Capacity of Axis.

The institute reported also that ingot production capacity of the United States, the British empire, and Russia is double that of the axis powers. Here are the institute's figures on annual capacity of important steel producing nations: British empire, 20,600,000 tons; Russia, 21,800,000; Germany, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and Poland, 29,600,000; Japan, 7,100,000; Italy, 3 million; Luxemburg, 3 million; France, 10,700,000; Belgium, 4½ million, and Hungary, Spain, and Sweden, 2,700,000 tons.

The total for America, the British empire and Russia was figured at 130,400,000 tons, against 60,600,000 for the axis powers and the countries they dominate.

The expansion program in the United States contemplates an annual ingot capacity of 90 million tons, but it is expected to take until 1944 to get all of the new facilities ready to operate and to collect enough scrap metal [or produce enough new pig iron for use as scrap] to permit full capacity ingot output.

The scrap shortage became acute late in the autumn, causing some mills to curtail ingot output at times. Other blows fell on the industry. Some of the biggest producers had to cut operations drastically during the "captive" coal mine strike tieup.

Auto Makers Curtail.

Big customers like the automobile industry cut civilian production, and the steel mills, in conformance with the arms program, had to shift emphasis to output of less familiar types of steel. Steel plate facilities particularly were strained.

Earlier in the year the industry had been beset by strikes in several plants, sometimes over wages, but often over union jurisdictional or closed shop issues. In April labor succeeded in winning an industry wide wage boost of 10 per cent, and in the same month the government "froze" steel prices. This left the companies with the problem of meeting higher wage bills without getting more for their goods, while trying to put away part of the earnings of the immediate feast period against the famine phase that is expected to follow any postwar industrial letdown.

Walter S. Tower, president of the American Iron and Steel institute, said the steel mills, in addition to furnishing the basic material for arms, "will make millions of tons during 1942 above the maximum of all defense and war needs."

A GRIM CAPITAL SHAPES DRASTIC VICTORY PLANS

More Taxes, Tighter Controls Ahead.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—As America enters the new year it has but one objective—the complete gearing of its industrial machinery, man power and resources to assure victory over its enemies. A survey by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of official opinion at the capital discloses the grim and realistic 1942 outlook for a nation girding for successful warfare.

For business and industry this means legislation and governmental orders to achieve complete victory, wide scale conversion of industry to war production, price control to counteract inflation, and heavier taxes and debt than the American people have ever borne.

Seek Maximum Production.

Since the United States is engaged in a total war for which it was not fully prepared, most governmental action concerning business and industry will be aimed at achieving maximum production in the shortest time.

This is the No. 1 problem confronting the Supply Priorities and Allocations board, and probably will call for drastic reorganization of the war direction effort to get a streamlined working organization.

Industries engaged in war production can expect to set new records. Economists predict the federal reserve board's production index in 1942 will exceed 175 per cent of the 1935-'39 average, compared with an average of 156 per cent for 1941. Last year's level was a national peak, but spotty by sections, the middle west not obtaining war business in proportion to the east and west.

Taxes Consume Profits.

This year's business profits are likely to be consumed largely by the new tax programs. Many little industries face extinction thru denial of materials or inability to secure war contracts. Some of the most serious "hardship cases" will receive scanty amounts of scarce materials to maintain skeleton operations under a SPAB plan in preparation.

SPAB Grants Rails Priority on Car Needs

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 (AP).—Because of heavy demands placed on the railroads by the war program the Supply Priorities and Allocations board arranged today to furnish materials for as much new car and locomotive construction as possible without interfering with output of military goods.

SPAB authorized the Office of Production Management to grant priorities and other assistance for:

1. Repair on passenger and freight cars and locomotives.
2. Production of 36,000 freight cars in February, March, and April. It was estimated that 9,000 cars would be built in January.
3. Continued production thru April of locomotives now on order or scheduled for production for stock.

Predicts Million Cars Weekly.

SPAB directed that those built for stock be of a type and size suitable for military or foreign use and that Diesel locomotive production must not interfere with deliveries of Diesel engine crankshafts for military use.

The board estimated that, as early as May of this year, weekly carloadings would reach a level of about one million and that the 36,000 cars provided for in its program would just permit railroads to meet this peak at full operating efficiency.

Applies Only to Three Months.

It was emphasized that the program applied only to the first quarter of 1942 and involved no government commitments for additional new equipment later in the year.

The scheduled locomotive construction includes 248 steam, 58 electric, and 620 Diesel powered units.

It was estimated that the first quarter construction and repair contemplated under the program would require about 1,413,893 tons of steel, 353,637 tons of cast iron, 19,985 tons of various other metals, and 570 tons of rubber.

CHICAGO PLANTS TURN OUT MILLION IN ARMS PRODUCTS ON HOLIDAY

With war industries in the Chicago area working full blast New Year's day, more than one million dollars worth of ordnance material was produced by some 1,300 plants during the day, Col. Donald Armstrong, deputy chief of the Chicago ordnance district, said yesterday. Steel flowed uninterruptedly from mills in the area as approximately 90,000 workers maintained operations at near record levels.

ARMS ACTIVITY BOOSTS LENDING BY CITY'S BANKS

Presidents Forego Annual Forecasts.

Effects of America's feverish rearmament activity during 1941 were reflected by sharply increased loans made by Chicago banks, it was disclosed yesterday in annual statements by the heads of the banks. Practically all reported sharp increases in loans outstanding, a substantial part of which resulted from the expansion of industry to meet the demands for arms.

Heads of the Chicago banks issued their customary year-end statements as to earnings and conditions. Absent from most of the statements were forecasts as to the future, the bankers commenting that the hazards of war made predicting difficult. Banks reporting included the "big six" of the downtown district, the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, First National Bank of Chicago, the Northern Trust company, the Harris Trust and Savings bank, the City National Bank and Trust company and the American National Bank and Trust company.

CONTINENTAL EARNS LESS

Profit of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company for 1941 was $15,172,830, equal to $10.12 a share, Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the board, reported. For 1940 profit was $16,135,516, equal to $10.76 a share. Total resources on Dec. 31, 1941, were $1,754,784,862.

Gross earnings of the bank of $22,472,745 were $1,098,386 more than in 1940, Cummings said. However, net profits from the sale of securities were less, and operating expenses, taxes and interest of $13,769,849 were $1,181,086 higher than last year.

Surplus Raised 10 Million.

Surplus was increased 10 million dollars in 1941 to 50 million. Deposits totaling $1,616,430,112 increased $124,852,564 in 1941.

"Loans and discounts of $284,763,261 are $95,926,921 more than a year ago," Cummings said. "Interest rates have averaged lower for the year, but the increased volume of loans has helped our income from this source. Much of the increase in loans has been due to defense activity, and war

INDUSTRY PUTS ALL RESOURCES INTO WAR DRIVE

Nation Equal to Task, Top Executives Report.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

The world's greatest industrial nation, entering another crucial year in its history, finds its industrial leaders confident of the country's ability to meet its most severe test. And industry, when the job of forging the weapons of war ends with victory, promises better products for a world at peace.

Year-end statements of industrialists, business executives, and bankers are shorn of the usual thoughts of profits and price trends, and devoted almost entirely to a determination to meet their tasks in winning the war. The comments promise that "Remember Pearl Harbor" will be the slogan of the men and women in the factories turning out the guns, ships, airplanes and other weapons, as well as the battle cry of the men in uniform.

Records to Be Surpassed.

Hardly a production record stood during the swift advance of industry during 1941, and even these peaks will be surpassed during 1942. Beyond this assurance, however, the industrialists will not go, because constantly expanding production schedules have made forecasting hazardous.

Such top flight business executives as Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board of the General Motors corporation; Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana; Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric company, and David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, were among those who pointed to the achievements of 1941 and viewed the future with vigorous confidence.

Sloan, whose corporation expanded its production of war materials four fold within one year, expressed the thoughts of many when he said: "We have cause for confidence in industry's ability to meet the exacting tasks which lie ahead, for the job of producing war materials already is well under way and will continue to gather momentum."

Oil Demands to Be Met.

The petroleum industry, said Seubert, should not have much difficulty supplying all the fuel and lubricants needed by the military forces as, for the first time in years, efforts are directed toward increasing rather than holding back the flow of oil. "To take care of civilian needs in addition is primarily a problem of transportation," he said.

Supplies of aviation gasoline may be limited until new production units for 100 octane gasoline are completed, he said. While these facilities are being rushed to completion the industry is placing emphasis on the production of synthetic rubber and tuluol.

Wilson, illustrating how the big corporations are engrossed in war production, said that General Electric has enough orders on its books, without a single addition, to keep all present facilities and employés busy thruout 1942.

Sarnoff predicted this war, like the last, would bring about a host of technical developments in radio telephony and electronics, but added that developments even now in sight must remain defense secrets for the present.

Contribution by Air Lines.

Airlines' contribution to defense was emphasized by W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, whose training has produced mechanics and other personnel for the air corps.

One of several who mentioned the products being prepared for a world at peace, George H. Bucher, president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, said the progress of science has not been arrested by war. "This industry produced more equipment in 1941 than ever before," he said. "It will better this record in 1942."

Vast progress in the production of aluminum was outlined by Roy A. Hunt, president of the Aluminum Company of America, and R. S. Reynolds, president of the Reynolds Metals company. Both predicted expanded use of the metal after the need wor warplane manufacturing has passed. Hunt, in touching his company's construction program, said:

"Completion of all the plants, and additional plants scheduled to be built by others in the industry, will raise the nation's total productive capacity for aluminum to an amount exceeding what is believed all the countries under control of the axis powers have ever produced in a year."

requirements will further enlarge the use of bank credit."

FIRST NATIONAL HAS GAIN

The First National Bank of Chicago had a profit of $6,522,532 for 1941, compared with $6,083,360 for 1940, Edward E. Brown, president, reported. The per share earning was $21.74 for 1941, compared with $20.28 for 1940. Total resources on Dec. 31, 1941 were $1,382,791,780.

Brown stressed the rapid growth of deposits which in the last four years increased 426 million dollars of which 139 million was produced in 1941. The total on Dec. 31, 1941 was $1,298,895,060.

"Other large banks thruout the country have generally experienced a similar great growth in their deposits," Brown said. "The growth has been caused chiefly by large importations of gold and by the fact that great quantities of government bonds, issued to finance deficits, have found their way into the portfolios of commercial banks.

"The flow of gold into this country has now been greatly reduced, and it is to be hoped that the greater part of government borrowing necessary to finance the war effort will be thru the sale of defense bonds to patriotic citizens of this country, rather than thru the sale of government obligations to banks of deposit."

HARRIS PROFIT LARGER

The Harris Trust and Savings bank for 1941 had a profit of $1,441,249, equal to $24.02 a share, compared with a profit of $1,304,922, equal to $21.75 a share for 1940. Albert W. Harris, chairman of the board, and Howard W. Fenton, president, reported. Resources totaled $347,310,737. Deposits totaled $321,526,593, compared with $314,405,424. Loans and discounts totaled $94,170,819 compared with $73,069,019.

"In the coming year we will expect to pay more taxes and other expenses, some of which we hope to cover by income from more loans and perhaps slightly better rates of interest," Harris and Fenton said.

CITY NATIONAL LOANS UP

The City National Bank and Trust company had a profit of $470,281, equal to $11.75 a share, for 1941, Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the board, and Philip R. Clarke, president, reported. For 1940 profit was $422,331, equal to $10.55 a share. Resources totaled $202,627,997 on Dec. 31.

The improvement over 1940 was largely the result of a substantial increase in loans, the executives said. Altho the expansion originated in part from rearmament credit needs, the major improvement resulted from the development of several types of commercial loans not previously handled.

Deposits on Dec. 31 totaled $192,902,188 compared with $175,496,962 at the end of 1940. Loans and discounts on Dec. 31 totaled $54,144,140 compared with $39,718,000 at the end of 1940.

NORTHERN DEPOSITS RISE

The Northern Trust company reported its 1941 profit was $923,788, equal to $30.79 a share, compared with $912,306, equal to $30.41 a share, for 1940. Deposits totaled $421,261,993 on Dec. 31, 1941, compared with $397,233,000 at the end of 1940. Loans and discounts totaled $52,200,376 compared with $44,500,000.

AMER. NAT. SHOWS GAINS

Profit of the American National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago for 1941 was $349,106, equal to $34.91 a share, compared with $332,005, equal to $33.20 a share in 1940, Lawrence F. Stern, president, reported. Resources on Dec. 31 totaled $97,250,554. Deposits totaled $91,383,557 compared with $79,089,872. Loans and discounts totaled $28,196,798 compared with $21,399,701.

Stern said that the undivided profits account increased to $765,142 from $551,035 during the year, while total reserves aggregated $909,263 compared with $775,966 at the end of 1940.

PREDICTS DEPOSIT DIP

Taxes and other inroads on living standards in 1942 inevitably will produce "marked dislocations" in the Gold Coast district, Henry C. Murphy, president of the Upper Avenue National bank, said yesterday in his annual report. He predicted that bank balances will be reduced in "thousands of cases." He reported that 1941 net profit amounted to $96,500, equal to $32.17 a share, against $93,500 or $31.02 a share in 1940.. He announced that he is relinquishing the presidency of the bank to permit the advancement of "younger and more energetic officers."

BUILDING AND LOAN RESOURCES UP 3.5% TO PEAK SINCE 1929

Resources of federal and state chartered savings, building and loan associations in the United States increased 3.5 per cent to 6 billion dollars in 1941, highest since the boom year 1929. Assets gained an estimated $205,470,000, compared with a rise of $120,267,000 in 1940.

These associations made mortgage loans totaling about 1 billion 375 million dollars during the year, an increase of 175 millions over 1940. About two-thirds of the dollar volume of 1941 loans was for home construction.

Ben Bohac, president of the Savings and Loan Council of Illinois, said that the savings and loan associations are geared to continue the work of financing home building in defense areas during 1942.

CHICAGO WASTE PAPER FIRM HIT BY HENDERSON

Officials of the Thomas Paper Stock company, a large Chicago wastepaper dealer, were accused yesterday of impairing the country's war effort in order to gain personal profits. The charge was made by Price Administrator Leon Henderson. He said the company had "repeatedly and flagrantly" violated wastepaper price ceilings.

Henderson said wastepaper is considered a vital raw material because it is needed in the manufacture of paperboard which is indispensable for packing war materials. The "persistent failure" of the company to observe price schedules, he said, has disturbed the entire Chicago wastepaper trade.

Alvin E. Sandroff, president of Thomas Paper, denied that the company had violated the schedule. He said he thought Henderson misunderstood the situation and that he had not been allowed a chance to explain the controverted facts.

Government Plants Boost Smokeless Powder Output

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 [Special]. —The federal government increased by 16 per cent its production of smokeless powder in government-owned plants in the first two weeks after outbreak of the war, the war department announced. Smokeless powder is the propellant used for cartridges and shells. The first government-owned plant, built under the defense program, began operations last March.

PLANT EXPANSION REACHES RECORD AT 353 MILLIONS

Big Share of Chicagoland Total for Defense.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's metropolitan area, industrial center of the nation, had about 353 million dollars invested in new or enlarged manufacturing plants during 1941. This is considered a record in factory expansion for one year. A large percentage of the investment was for plants partially, and in many cases wholly, engaged in government armament production.

This industrial expansion has brought several thousand families to Chicagoland and has given employment to a large number of skilled workers already living here. Its effect has been reflected in increased sales in Chicago area stores.

Ordnance Plants Head List.

The vast ordnance works and ammunition loading plants south of Joliet, at Wilmington and Elwood, costing about 95 million dollars, were the largest industrial projects under construction in this area during 1941.

Other vast developments are the aircraft engine plant of the Buick division of General Motors corporation, in Melrose Park, nearing completion at a cost of about 42 million dollars, and the 17 million dollar Studebaker corporation airplane engine parts factory near Chicago airport.

The Calumet steel belt, extending from South Chicago, thru Hammond and East Chicago, to Gary, Ind., had one of its greatest building years. Most of the expenditures were for expansion facilities.

Large Expenditures Made.

Companies spending large amounts are Republic Steel, 40 million dollars; Inland Steel, 36 million; Carnegie-Illinois Steel, 23 million; American Steel Foundries, 19 million, and American Steel & Wire, 14 million.

On the west side Revere Copper & Brass, Inc., is rushing to completion a 10 million dollar brass rolling mill which will have a monthly capacity of 15 million pounds of brass strip for munitions.

Companies which during the year have built new plants or additions costing a million dollars or more, are: Stewart-Warner corporation, 4 million; Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, 4 million; Continental Roll and Steel Foundry, $3,365,000; Wisconsin Steel Works, 3 million; Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, 3 million, and Syman Gordon company, 3 million.

Several more big concerns have been authorized to proceed with heavy expenditures for new plants and additions in the Chicago area during 1942.

REALTY ACTIVITY BOOM LIFTS NET OF CHICAGO TITLE

Increased activity in the Chicago area real estate market last year enabled the Chicago Title and Trust company to realize a moderate increase in net income and to liquidate numerous investments, Holman D. Pettibone, president, said yesterday in his annual report.

With the business of the escrow department the best in its history and the title division handling an expanded volume of real estate transactions, the company earned $1,374,464, equal to $11.45 a capital share in 1941, against $1,285,433, or $10.71 a share in 1941.

Gross earnings, including investment income, amounted to $6,666,561, against $6,023,142. In 1941 the company set aside $533,000 for federal income tax and additional reserves, as well as $150,619 against losses in operations and $58,822 against investment losses. In 1942 the tax reserve was $456,624 and other reserves $663,863.

Establish U. S. War Risk Insurance for Shipping

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 (AP).—The Maritime commission established a committee today to provide war risk insurance and reinsurance on American ships, using a 40 million dollar fund set up under legislation enacted in 1940. The machinery established thus far does not apply to cargoes and crews.

Electric Light Sales in 1941 Set a New Yearly Record

Establishing a new yearly record, more than one and a third billion lamps, including incandescent and fluorescent types, were sold in the United States during 1941, the General Electric company announced.

TRICKLE OF GOLD PUTS 'PROBLEM' IN BACKGROUND

Economists View Big Hoard as Desirable.

The "gold problem" that worried economists and bankers in 1940, when more than 4 billion dollars of the metal was shipped into the United States, was relegated to the background in 1941. The inflow fell off to a comparative trickle, showing a net addition for the year of less than 800 million dollars.

Total United States holdings reached about 22 billion 750 millions, or roughly 80 per cent of the world's monetary supply.

Economists Switch Views.

With this development, many economists appeared to have switched to the view that the huge hoard, instead of being a danger, probably will have a desirable influence in later stages of war financing and postwar reconstruction.

Gold had poured into this country in 1940 because "refugee" treasure of individuals and governments was fleeing to safety ahead of the German armies. By 1941, however, individual and government holders of gold abroad either had completed the bulk of the transfers or had found it undesirable to send funds here to face possible "freezing" as the United States tightened its control of foreign assets.

U. S. Aids Friendly Nations.

Another influence was the policy adopted by the American government to help finance the war efforts of nations fighting the axis. This aid, thru lend-lease operation and Export-Import bank loans, reduced the scale on which foreign countries had to build dollar balances in America to pay for war goods.

Figures on the gold reserves of central banks and governments of most other nations have become unavailable or meaningless since the war began in 1939. No recent reports have been issued on the holdings of the axis countries or conquered nations.

BOOST IN DIVIDENDS GIVES SHAREHOLDERS A PROFITALBE YEAR

Many corporations made larger payments than in 1940, and many distributed extra dividends. A few exceptions arose toward the end of the year when uncertainties over taxes and demands on basic materials to meet war requirements forced a number of corporations to conserve their cash.

The New York Stock exchange announced that thru Dec. 15 dividends had been declared on more than 620 listed common stocks, the largest number in the history of the exchange.

In 1940 more than 300 common stocks increased their yields over 1939. Near the close of 1941 about 300 issues had surpassed their 1940 payments. Yields on dividend paying stocks during 1941 were the highest in nine years, the exchange said.

PETROLEUM DEMANDS EXCEED ALL INDUSTRY MARKS FOR 80 YEARS

William R. Boyd Jr.

New York, Jan. 1 (AP).—William R. Boyd Jr., president of the American Petroleum institute, announced today that the industry had achieved new records in virtually every department of production, and hailed "the thorogoing coöperation of the government" with the oil companies in the war effort.

"Demand for petroleum products in 1941 was by far the greatest in the 80-year history of the industry, amounting to nearly 1 billion, 600 million barrels, or almost 10 per cent above 1940," he said. "At the end of the year the industry was producing crude petroleum at a rate of more than 4,100,000 barrels a day, with predictions made that rapidly mounting needs would require production of 4½ million barrels a day by the middle of 1942, and possibly of 5 million barrels a day by July 1, 1943."

BOOST IN SUGAR PRICE CEILING IS PLANNED BY OPA

Washington, D. C., (AP).—The Office of Price Administration said today an upward adjustment in ceiling prices of raw sugar would be made shortly but that the amount of the increase had not yet been determined. It said the purchase of the Cuban sugar crop was at a price of about $3.74 per hundred pounds, compared with the OPA ceiling of $3.50.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson, using Oct. 1 market levels as a standard, today revised price ceilings on some 1,800 fats and oils, including such items as lard, cottonseed oil, soy bean oil, and linseed oil.

Effect of the change is to raise the general price level on fats and oils by a minimum of 11 per cent. A temporary ceiling order issued Dec. 13 had fixed prices at levels prevailing Nov. 26.

Henderson issued a formal manufacturers' price ceiling for domestic cooking and heating stoves of 112 per cent of the lowest price charged between Jan. 15 and June 1, 1941.

NEW COMMITTEE TO STUDY NEEDS FOR SPECIALISTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 [Special]. —Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the National Resources Planning board, announced today the appointment of a special "committee on war time requirements for specialized personnel." The committee will function as part of the national roster of scientific and specialized personnel, of which Dr. Leonard Cramichael is director.

The war program has caused a serious drain on specialized personnel, he said, and the committee will formulate recommendations as to how best to utilize the limited number of specialists available to the national defense effort.

SCIENCE DRIVES TO CREATE NEW WAR PRODUCTS

Foresees Industrial Gains When Peace Returns.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

Industry's research laboratories in 1942 will be spurred by wartime's impatient demands for new substitutes, for corner cutting speedier processes, for impregnable armor of defense, and for new death dealing weapons of offense.

But as scientists gird for war, they foresee the unfolding of a new industrial revolution in the bubbling of their test tubes. Tho intent on the immediate goal of victory, they look for new horizons, for the coming of a multitude of new products, new processes, new industries to make life richer after the war.

In those laboratories, industry will spend more than a quarter of a billion dollars in search of new frontiers.

Predict Greatest Expansion.

Recalling that the first World war gave birth to the American chemical industry and provided impetus for the automobile, farm implement and other industries, business forecasters predict that when this war is ended, the United States will lead the march in the greatest industrial expansion in history.

Dr. Sumner H. Slichter, professor of business at Harvard university, predicts a postwar boom with important contributions from the chemical, oil, electrical equipment, and communications industries.

Support of this view comes from the research scientists themselves, who predict the growth of new markets as industry develops new products and processes. Dr. Chaplin Tyler, chemist for E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., predicts expansion and rapid development of rayon, nylon, glass, and other synthetic fibers, synthetic rubber, synthetic fuels, plastics, and light metals such as aluminum and magnesium.

A Myriad of Materials.

From farm products such as soy beans and from crude oil scientists expect a myriad of new materials.

The direction which industrial research is pursuing is indicated by the developments of 1941, among which were:

The Standard Oil company of Indiana announced the development of a process which boosts the octane rating of gasoline used in blending aviation fuel, thus reducing the proportion of scarce materials required in the mixture.

The Ford Motor company tested its V-12 aviation engine featuring fuel injection in solid form and a supercharger driven by an exhaust turbine. The company also displayed an experimental plastic automotive body, 70 per cent cellulose fiber and 30 per cent resin binder.

Finds Better Lubricant.

Charles F. Kettering, vice president of the General Motors corporation, announced the discovery of a lubricant which he said was 100,000 per cent better than present motor oils.

Standard Oil company of New Jersey announced a new continuous method of petroleum cracking using a "fluid catalyst."

Pure Oil company's laboratories hailed a synthetic resinous material obtained from crude oil which is used in plastics, flooring, aluminum type paint, brake lining, varnish, and other products.

BOUNTIFUL CROP YEAR INCREASES FARM EARNINGS

Agricultural Income Near Prosperous '29 Level.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

When historians chronicle the agricultural situation of 1941, they probably will write down the year as the most bountiful for the American people and the most profitable for the farmer.

Farm production, on the whole, was the largest the nation has ever known. While Europeans struggled to harvest enough from their meager crops to stave off starvation, American railroads found it necessary to embargo shipments of grains to many storage centers because elevators and warehouses were crammed to the bursting point with wheat and corn.

Production of corn, No. 1 crop of the American farmer, reached the highest level since 1932. Corn yields averaging 52.5 bushels per acre in Illinois set a new record. Production of wheat has been exceeded only twice, and was the largest since 1919.

Soy Bean Crop a Record.

The soy bean crop assumed great industrial importance as the war tended to restrict imports of foreign oils and farmers pushed production to a new record. Barley output also was at a new high, along with grain sorghums, and sweet sorghum for forage.

For these record crops, the farmers received in the aggregate the best prices of the last decade. Farm income for 1941 was tentatively estimated by the department of agriculture at 11½ billion dollars, an amount comparable to that of 1929.

The farmers found the government a free spender in supporting markets, stepping up or holding down crop production, and in its soil conservation program. Biggest factor in advancing the prices of many commodities was government buying of food for England under the lease-lend program.

Parity a Familiar Word.

Parity became a word familiar to every person connected with the marketing of farm products. Parity is that price which would give farmers the same purchasing power they enjoyed between 1909 and 1914. Price supporting farm loans were based on parity while congress talked of putting wartime price control ceilings above parity levels.

But while the nation's larders were being filled with bountiful supplies of most foods, those who normally assume the financial risk of carrying these foods in storage until they are needed for consumption, were encountering rough sledding in the futures markets.

The government's free lending and spending for farm commodities had encumbered the grain markets with floors and ceilings on prices—had almost obviated the necessity of futures trading. Volume of grain futures transactions declined to the lowest levels in the history of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Volume Far Below 1925.

The year's volume of business was estimated at 6¼ billion bushels, compared with almost 7 billion in 1940. The volume was less than a fourth that of 1925, the exchange's best year.

Old time members of the Board of Trade assert there has never been a time when the outlook for the grain trade has been so gloomy. Not only have wartime conditions prevented a normal demand from both domestic and export markets, but the supply of grain in other exporting countries has reached vast proportions. The grain men say they doubt if markets ever will be found for a large part of the American grain, even under peace time conditions.

O'BRIEN ATTACKS 'CRIPPLING' U. S. FARM POLICIES

Government farm policies in 1941 forced many grain firms out of business, crippled others to such an extent that they had to consolidate and now threaten the liquidity of the markets, Philip R. O'Brien, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, said yesterday.

In a review of the year's trade O'Brien said "the loan programs and the government price fixing policies have created many problems with which the grain exchanges must attempt to cope. Not the least of these is the lack of volume and liquidity in the future markets, which may be attributed to the impounding of grain under the present 85 per cent of parity nonrecourse commodity loans."

Commodity Credit corporation plans for disposing of its wheat, he said, are driving the "risk-bearers" from the markets with the result the millers, grain processors, and dealers soon may no longer find it possible to hedge against adverse price changes thru the medium of the futures market.

BATTLE OF FOOD FINDS PRODUCERS SURE OF VICTORY

Meat Interests Ready for Biggest Task.

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

This country, in its rôle as larder for nations fighting the axis, is girding itself for the task of handling the largest tonnage of meat in its history in 1942.

While large numbers of people in conquered European territories lack adequate supplies of food, cold storage plants in this country already bulge with vast reserve stocks of meat, farm supplies are larger than ever, and plans are being made to break all production records.

Barns and cribs are filled with more animal feed than is needed to fatten the herds which are larger than farmers of any country in the world ever kept before.

Larger Tonnage in 1943.

Experts predict that farmers will be in position to provide even more meat by 1943 than is produced in 1942, if conditions warrant it. The only danger of a ceiling on production is a possible shortage of farm laborers who are entering military services and being lured to higher paying factory jobs.

Farm and packing industry spokesmen assert that altho the drain on the larder will be severe, the nation will be more than equal to the test. United States production of meat in 1942, including farm butchering, may exceed 25 billion pounds, exceeding the 1941 record of 22½ billion pounds.

In attempting to gauge this war's effect on the live stock market, farmers have studied the record of the first World war, which produced the steepest price rise in history.

Record Prices in 1919.

The three principal classes of live stock—steers, hogs, and lambs—rose from an average of $9.95 per 100 pounds in 1916 to $14.10 in 1917, to $16.25 in 1918 and to $16.45 in 1919. The tumble to $14 in 1920 and to $8.90 in 1921 resulted in financial ruin for many farmers. The 1941 average of these three classes of meat animals was $10.55.

Farm returns from the sale of live stock in 1942 are expected to establish a 23 year record. The value of live stock butchered during 1941 is estimated at $3,378,469,000, the largest since 1919, and almost a billion dollars over the 1940 value.

Farmers vision $13 to $14 hogs and $16 to $17 cattle this year unless the government sees fit to halt the rise.

Third Sharpest on Record.

The increase in meat bills during 1941 was the third sharpest on record, exceeded only by 1917 and 1935. Costs to consumers, measured by prices on the hoof, were 20 to 25 per cent higher than in 1940.

The war advance to date has been sharp, but most animals have not even closely approached the high records resulting from the last war. Top cattle in 1919 reached $21.50 and hogs $23.60, while lambs in 1918 sold up to $22.10. At the close of 1941 top steers still were around $15, hogs a little above $11, and lambs under $13.

Commodity Markets Facing More Stringent U. S. Controls

BY CECIL LE BOY.

Commodity markets will operate under complete government control in 1942. In a wartime economy staples still accessible will be traded under price ceiling regulations and restrictions governing the flow of supplies.

Shortages and sharply higher prices caused suspension of trading in certain commodities vital to the production of war materials in the latter months of 1941. These included rubber, tin, lead, zinc, and copper.

Rubber and tin were first in which a tightening of supplies was felt. The threat of far eastern hostilities and sharply curtailed shipping facilities sent prices soaring. At the government's request, the futures markets suspended trading in both staples. Price ceilings and strict priorities regulations were applied.

Other Commodities Controled.

The other commodities came under the same control later for similar reasons. Sugar, coffee, hides, wool, and cotton futures remain actively traded at present.

Before ceilings had been imposed, commodities generally had reached their highest price levels in a decade. By midyear cotton had soared to an 11 year peak. Cottonseed oil was at a 15 year high in September and trading was suspended Dec. 15 after a maximum price had been imposed.

Lend-lease purchases of foodstuffs created an abnormally heavy demand which pushed prices up despite record reserves. Wholesale egg prices in Chicago reached their highest levels in 12 years, and butter prices climbed.

Ceilings Over Metals.

Copper has a price ceiling of 12 cents a pound, lead, 5.7 cents; tin, 52 cents; and zinc, 8.25 cents. All are under rigid priorities regulations. The ceilings are substantially the maximum prices of 1941.

Hides have a 15½ cent a pound ceiling, a fraction of a cent below the peak. Rubber has a ceiling of 22.50 cents a pound, 2.2 cents below its maximum.

Import commodities still traded have celings set at prices prevailing on Dec. 8, about the year's high mark. These include coffee, cocoa, and pepper. Raw sugar's ceiling is 3.50 cents a pound, and refined sugar has a maximum price of 5.25 cents.

Early in 1941 government warnings failed to stem the general rise in commodities. However, President Roosevelt's message to congress July 30, asking stringent measures to curb "runaway markets" brought on the sharpest break of the year. Losses were regained later, and not until ceilings were placed in effect was the advance halted.

Heavier Taxes and Tighter Trade Control Ahead.

Government economists estimate that as much as 50 per cent of American industry will be working exclusively on armaments during the war, against an earlier estimate of 25 per cent. It is figured further that 40 billion dollars out of 61 billions in civilian goods produced in 1941 could be converted to war purposes. Office of Production Management officials cite a list of at least 15 durable goods industries which can be transformed from civilian to war production.

The labor problem is settled, in official opinion, thru the voluntary agreement for no strikes during the war, and any legislation for this purpose is considered unlikely for the present.

Spending to Be Doubled.

The war production program of about 75 billion dollars to date will be doubled at least within two years. OPM economists foresee war expenditures of 45 billion dollars in 1942 and 60 to 65 billions in 1943. Actual expenditures have totaled about 20 billions since the preparedness program got under way a year and a half ago.

Such a vast outlay calls for proportionate financing. With the federal debt rapidly approaching 60 billion dollars, another boost in the public debt limit, set by present law at 65 billions, undoubtedly will be necessary soon.

Taxes will occupy the attention of congress within two weeks, when hearings are slated to begin before the house ways and means committee. About the only certain prediction is that taxes will be steeper.

Drastic programs have been suggested, such as 100 per cent confiscation of "excess" corporate profits, a 15 per cent withholding tax on individual incomes, a limitation on individual incomes to $15,000 or $20,000 a year, or a general sales tax.

Expect Presidential Hints.

The treasury will not make known its exact program until the plan goes to congress, altho a few guiding hints can be expected in President Roosevelt's budget message.

The tax law voted in 1941 was the most sweeping in American history. It was designed to yield more than 13 billion dollars in revenues annually, including about 3½ billions in new levies. The law reduced personal income tax exemptions, raised rates, and imposed new excise levies. Excess profits taxes were raised 10 percentage points, to 35 to 60 per cent, depending upon the bracket. Stiff surtaxes were started at 6 per cent upward beginning with the first $2,000 of taxable income.

The next tax bill is expected to be aimed at raising about 5 billions in new levies. Last Nov. 5 Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau proposed an added 15 per cent tax on incomes which would be withheld at the source, and advocated doubling the social security taxes. Congress rebuffed attempts to put his proposals thru before the end of the year.

Similar Proposal Foreseen.

A similar program can be expected in perhaps modified form. Treasury officials are now talking of a 5 to 10 per cent withholding tax on salaries. Some foresee an increase in the normal corporation tax rate rather than a drastic boost in excess profits taxes.

Some fiscal officials urge that more emphasis be placed upon the sale of defense bonds and stamps and that their designation be changed to "war" for psychological effect. They also urge a wider range of obligations with longer maturities. Defense bonds are a demand obligation after 60 days when they may be presented for redemption, and thus may create a difficult problem if large quantities are redeemed for cash. The treasury is pushing voluntary pay roll deductions for purchase of bonds and stamps by American employés.

Along with taxes will come enactment of price control legislation. The house has passed a bill which is slated to be strengthened in the senate.

Henderson Slated for Job.

Predictions are that wages and farm prices will remain virtually unaffected by the law and that a single administrator, undoubtedly Leon Henderson, now acting by executive order, shall direct price control rather than a board of several members.

The federal reserve board is expected to seek further authority to reduce banks' excess reserves, altho they are not a serious problem at this time. The board would like authority to regulate reserve requirements by groups of banks or regions.

A shakeup can be expected in the war direction machinery to produce results in production and procurement of materials. Demands have increased for a single production administrator and a single procurement director to replace existing duplication of effort.

Tighter control over materials is anticipated. Rubber and passenger automobile rationing has already been ordered. Application of the system is likely to extend soon to other civilian products, in which tin, aluminum, an alloy steels are used.

Forecast Increased Demands.

Present emphasis is on production of defensive needs such as antiaircraft guns, planes and merchant vessels requiring large quantities of steel, copper, zinc, magnesium, aluminum, rubber, crude oil, and gasoline. But when the program reaches the attack phase of the war the absorption of materials and production capacity will be intensified accordingly.

Governmental activities aside from the war are scheduled to play a secondary rôle. For instance, enthusiasm has waned on the amendments to the security laws proposed by the Securities and Exchange commission and the securities industry. A squabble within the industry on what changes are desirable has undermined the pressure for revision. Also, according to informed sources, the public utility integration process is expected to be abandoned until a more normal market is attained for utility securities and properties.

Price Index Dips but Is 17.4 Pct. Above Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 (AP).—The Bureau of Labor Statistics said today a reaction in agricultural commodity markets in the last week of 1941 brought its wholesale price index down 0.2 per cent from the 12 year peak reached the week before. The all-commodity index stood at 93.8 per cent of the 1926 average, 1.6 per cent above a month ago, and 17.4 per cent above a year ago.

Insurance Outlook Is Cloudy After Year of Business Gains

BY ROBERT YOUNG.

The nation's insurance industry, with assets of nearly 40 billion dollars, faces 1942 with war risks, shrinking investment yields, and rising operating costs creating new problems.

Last year was one of the most prosperous for the industry since 1929. A substantial part of the increased national income went into life insurance. Desire for investment safety and fear of inflation influenced policy purchases. Record industrial activity swelled the premiums of fire, casualty, and marine companies.

Life insurance written in 1941 increased 10 per cent over 1940 to 12 billion 600 million dollars, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents estimated. Life insurance in force at the end of the year was at a new peak of 124 billion dollars, compared with 117 billion 500 millions at the close of 1940.

Assets Rise 2 Billion.

Total assets were 32 billion 550 million dollars, a gain of nearly 2 billions. Policy lapses and surrenders declined to a new low.

America's entry into active conflict found the life insurance industry generally geared to war risks. Most life insurance companies already had clauses in their policies releasing them from payment if the insured were killed fighting in the armed forces. Adjustments covering civilians and a larger number of age groups were quickly put into effect.

Fire and casualty companies were in a different position. They conceded generally that war hazards were more than private companies could afford to underwrite safely. In response to their requests for government aid, the Reconstruction Finance corporation created the 100 million dollar War Insurance corporation to provide "reasonable protection" against losses from enemy action.

Trend to Continue in 1942.

It is expected that 1942 will bring increasing development of government protection.

As investment yields continued to shrink, several of the large mutual life insurance companies reduced the interest basis on which their reserves were calculated and increased their premiums.

Life insurance companies bought about 1 billion 500 million dollars of United States government bonds in 1941, but the dwindling number of other investment outlets for their funds was a major problem. The temporary national economic committee suggested common stock investments as a possible solution and precipitated a heated controversy. The question was unsettled at the end of the year.

SOY BEAN TRADE AT PEAK; GRAIN VOLUME FALLS

Buying Rises as War Cuts Foreign Supply.

Trading in soy beans on the Chicago Board of Trade set a record in 1941, but the aggregate trade in grain futures was the lowest in the history of the exchange, according to Commodity Exchange administration statistics.

The vast interest that developed in the soy bean market when it became evident the United States must obtain a large part of its fats and oils from domestic sources because of the war, was shown in transactions involving 994 million bushels, compared with 135 millions in 1940.

Transactions in all grains and soy beans totaled 6 billion 276 million bushels, against 6 billion 987 million bushels in 1940. As usual, wheat led with 3 billion 798 million bushels. Corn accounted for 768 million bushels, and oats, rye, and barley made up the remainder of the volume.

	Wheat.	Corn.	Soy beans.	*Total.
1941	3,798	783	994	6,276
1940	5,445	899	135	6,987
1939	5,027	1,444	80	7,142
1938	5,683	1,495	23	7,497
1937	10,889	2,546	27	14,680
1936	7,343	1,996	12	10,455
1935	7,062	2,219	..	10,175
1934	7,500	3,193	..	12,084
1933	10,354	3,609	..	15,597
1932	8,078	1,497	..	10,006

*Including oats, rye, and barley.

INVESTORS' GUIDE ANSWERS 11,000 INQUIRIES IN 1941

The Chicago Tribune Investors' Guide answered 11,000 letters from readers in 1941. The questions covered stocks and bonds, earnings and dividends, life insurance, taxes, banks, social security, and scores of other phases of finance and business. The information sought ranged from office addresses of corporations to detailed reports on securities.

Written inquiries received by Investors' Guide since the service was started in June, 1914, reached 468,500 by the end of 1941. The department is the oldest of its type conducted by a newspaper of general circulation.

Questions about long term investments, income taxes, life insurance, and railroad securities were asked most frequently. Many investors wrote for information on companies directly affected by the war, but most investors were interested in the "peace industries."

WAR FINANCING TO ECLIPSE ALL BOND ACTIVITIES

Investors Hope in Vain for Higher Interest Rates.

Treasury borrowing to finance the most costly war in history will eclipse all other activities in the bond market in 1942. In contrast, corporate and municipal financing is expected to shrink because of government curbs on new construction.

This prospect, according to investment analysts, holds little encouragement for investors who for eight years have been waiting for a reversal in the downtrend of interest rates and for a strong revival in demand for funds for industrial expansion.

Interest rates remained at their low level, mostly because the banks were still glutted with surplus funds, and new construction in connection with the arms program largely was financed by the government.

Yields Near Record Lows.

Yields on high grade bonds at the end of 1941 were near the lowest on record, reached early in the year. Bond experts observed, for example, that despite America's entry into the war, the yield on long term tax exempt government bonds was still below 2 per cent, compared with the 4¼ per cent rate for the first Liberty loan in the last war. Lower grade and speculative issues attracted sporadic buying interest.

Municipal bonds maintained their high priced position derived from their tax immunity and their importance to bank and insurance company portfolios.

Corporations during 1941 borrowed about a billion dollars in new money, compared with 724 millions in 1940, and borrowed about 1½ billions for refunding purposes, against almost 2 billions in 1940.

Expect Trend to Continue.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. of Chicago in its year-end review of the bond market said.

"Continuation of low interest rates may reasonably be expected both to facilitate additional government borrowings and to avoid the far reaching consequences that any substantial advance in interest rates might have on the market values of outstanding issues."

The dearth of satisfactory, conservative investments was emphasized during the year by the competition between bankers and insurance companies for prime corporate issues.

VAST INSURANCE GAINS ACHIEVED, SAYS CAVANAUGH

The life insurance industry made new, vast strides in 1941 with general increases in business in force, assets, and surplus, L. D. Cavanaugh, president of the Federal Life Insurance company and a member of the executive committee of the American Life convention, said yesterday.

Cavanaugh said that because of a lower interest return on investments, the cost of life insurance to purchasers in 1942 will be increased somewhat. The trend among companies also is to include war clauses in policies covering all ages and for both sexes, he said.

WALL ST. HOPES, BUT IS NOT SURE WORST IS PAST

BY HERBERT VEDDER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 1.—The stock market stumbles into 1942, hopeful but not at all certain that the worst is past. The most encouraging item of 1941 was the continued smooth functioning of the nation's stock exchanges in the face of war.

Prices were in the worst slump since the recession of 1937, with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE averages sinking to their lowest level since April, 1938. Wall Street business was the leanest in 23 years; pay rolls shrank further, and more stock exchange firms merged. December saw the most active trading of the year, with transactions reaching 36,386,715 shares. It was the busiest month since May, 1940, but sagging prices dampened any enthusiasm over volume pickup.

Blamed on War Dislocations.

That security values shrank in disregard of mounting industrial production is generally explained by the dislocations and uncertainties of a war time economy.

Two major factors that plagued 1941 and remain to cloud the outlook for 1942 are:

1. Heavier taxes that drain off much of the increased profits of companies.

2. The dislocations of federal priorities and scarcities of materials.

Prices on the stock exchange, as reflected in THE TRIBUNE averages, reached their highest point of the year—96.60—on Jan. 10. Weakness soon developed, however, sending the combined average of 50 stocks down 4.52 points for the month. Rails and industrials hit what chartists call a double botton on Feb. 19, and the combined average closed the month at 87.34. Utility and steel nervousness held a March recovery to 0.80.

Strength Continues in July.

The market continued strong in July, recouping 4.05 more, but went into an almost uninterrupted slide for the rest of the year. A decline of 1.55 in August cut the combined average to 91.83. This was 22½ points under the 1939 high.

The combined average slipped 3.02 more in September after proposal of a 100 per cent tax on all corporation profits above 6 per cent.

October recorded a break of 5.99 points. The average slumped 3.93 points more in November. A sharp rebound on Dec. 30, the best rally of the year, enabled the average to close at 78.13, a loss of 2.75 points for the month and 15.69 for the year.

CHICAGO BOOSTS POSITION AMONG STOCK MARKETS

BY BRYCE ENGLE.

The Chicago Stock exchange improved its relative position among the nation's organized exchanges during 1941, a year in which war developments, uncertainties, and increased regulations reduced the volume of trading over the country.

The exchange, largest of the regional securities markets, increased its volume of transaction 3 per cent above the 1940 total, while other major markets recorded losses. The 1941 Chicago total was 7,059,000 shares, compared with 6,850,000 in 1940.

An important factor was the admitting of 20 stock issues to unlisted trading privileges last Aug. 1, marking the first time unlisted stocks were traded on the exchange in 20 years.

Plan Admitting Corporations.

In another significant move, exchange governors approved plans for admitting corporations to membership and are working out details with the SEC.

In his year-end statement, Arthur M. Betts, chairman of the board of governors, asserted American security markets "were orderly and efficient at all times in the face of momentous world events."

"Corporate news during the year was unusually favorable and dividends declared were liberal," he said. For example, 223 issues traded on the Chicago exchange paid dividends which yielded 10 per cent of recent selling prices.

Reports Low Trade Volume.

"To meet the public and governmental needs in financing tax payments," he said, "it is vital that exchange markets be broad, orderly, and wholesomely active with vast absorptive power at levels that have fair and reasonable relationship to merit and yields."

Kuppenheimer Profits Expand to $1.41 a Share in Fiscal Year

B. Kuppenheimer & Co., Inc., Chicago maker of men's clothing, yesterday issued its 20th annual report, showing net income of $95,699, equal to $1.41 a share, in the fiscal year ended Nov. 1, compared with $57,501, or 84 cents a share, in the preceding year. Earnings before federal income taxes were $129,033, against $69,994.

"Shipments in 1941 increased considerably over the preceding year and would have been larger had it been possible, as in previous years, to ship all of our fall orders prior to the closing of our fiscal year," Bertram J. Cahn, chairman, said. "Shipments of orders which were delayed by reason of government priorities in the textile industry, were satisfactorily completed during November. If such shipments had been made in the fiscal year, a material enhancement of profits would have resulted."

Glidden Profit Larger.

Cahn said no action has been taken on removal or consolidation of the Kuppenheimer plants. One plant is in the path of the proposed Congress street superhighway, construction of which would require demolition of the building. Cahn said construction of such a superhighway, requiring much steel, "undoubtedly will be deferred for duration of the war."

Glidden company, manufacturer of food products, chemicals, paint and varnish, reported for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 a net income of $3,010,389, equal to $3.08 a share, compared with $1,727,828, or $1.55 a share, in the preceding fiscal year.

Sales exceeded 68 million dollars, against 50 millions in the 1940 year, Adrian D. Joyce, president, told stockholders in his annual statement.

A six month statement accompanying the annual report showed that profit for the half year ended with October rose to $1,976,578, from $1,112,895 in the corresponding period a year earlier.

Shoe Materials Scarce.

Some important shoe materials are "becoming quite scarce," and the shortage of certain types of sole leather recently became so acute that International Shoe company had to adopt fiber counters for some of its women's shoes, the company told stockholders in its report for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30. Counters are the stiffeners that give permanent form to shoe uppers around the heel.

Frank C. Rand, chairman, and Byron A. Gray, president, said in a joint statement that difficulties in getting materials did not develop, however, until late in the year, except in the case of crude rubber.

Profit was $7,207,037, equal to $2.15 a share, compared with $6,473,611, or $1.93, in the preceding year. Net sales exceeded 116 million dollars, against about 89 millions. The number of shoes made, 56,609,462 pairs, exclusive of canvas rubber-soled shoes, was the largest in the company's history.

The Chicago Board of Underwriters

With the nation now engaged in a vast defense program, it is imperative that the wheels of industry maintain continuous production. All organizations must co-operate in reducing hazards which may retard the fulfillment of our defense needs. The gospel of Fire Prevention must be taught each day in the year, and must become an integrated practice in our daily tasks.

It is with pride that we reflect upon our past record. Not only during this emergency period, but for ninety-two years the Chicago Board of Underwriters has contributed to the stability and continuity of business by consistent endorsement of:—

Improved Building Construction
Efficient Fire Protection
Sound Insurance Protection
Equitable Insurance Costs
